Md. State Fair names champions

By Joyce Bupp

TIMONIUM, Md. — Holstein exhibitors paraded before a full house in the Cow Palace dairy arena Labor Day, as the black-and-whites judging wrapped up several days of cattle arena action at the Maryland State Fair.

In keeping with the western style of champion selection, Colorado judge Howard Binder slapped the rump of the winning 4-year-old, after careful deliberation over the slowly circling parade of class winners.

Exhibited by George W. Smith III, of Smith-Mead Farms, Frederick, the champion is Lucky M. Pete Gina.

Reserve senior and grand rosettes went to the O. Clayton Smith family of Jefferson, with their winning 5-year-old, UCS Dairy Elevation Katie, by Elevation.

For his junior champion, Judge Binder chose the first place senior yearling, sired by Thynyma East Star and exhibited by Michael and Connie Young, Fresno, California.

Pulled into the reserve junior champion slot was the first intermediate calf, a Quality Ultimate heifer exhibited by Steve Wood, Nokesville, Virginia.

A highlight of the well-attended show was the Maryland Holstein Association's presentations of several prestigious breeder awards.

Distinguished service winner for 1983 is the King family of Kingstead Farms. Veteran Maryland Holstein leader Ralph Walker was named the outstanding senior breeder, and the outstanding junior breeder honor was conferred on Roy and Sue Crow.

The King family is nationally known for their outstanding bloodlines of registered Holsteins developed over the past several decades at the farm near Damascus. Offspring of the herd are in several foreign countries and numerous Kingstead line sires have gone into domestic sire service organizations.

complishments have earned the Kingstead herd 28 consecutive Progressive Breeder awards from the national Holstein Association.

A member of the King family estimated that the herd show string has been taking part in the Maryland State Fair for about 35 years.

They've won the Premier banners at the Timonium show, and the Maryland State show, numerous times, and have taken the prized premier breeder honor seven times at the Harrisburg Eastern National show.

Outstanding senior breeder, Ralph Walker, led his first calf into the showring in 1923, at the Montgomery County fair. He was a rookie 4-H exhibitor and the animal he displayed was the family's first registered individual in the herd.

In the early 1930's Walker and his brother, Grover, joined their father, McKendree, full-time on the Gaithersburg dairy farm, with a milking string of about 50 head.

Sign of times — farmers getting sick & tired of losing more money

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

GETTYSBURG — There are increasing signs that farmers are getting sick and tired of just losing more and more money and going deeper and deeper into debt.

On Tuesday, independent egg producers from Adams, Cumberland, York and Lancaster Counties will meet with state and federal legislators and Ag Sec. Penrose Hallowell to see what help they can get from conditions that are causing them to lose three to six cents a dozen on every dozen of eggs they produce.

And in Adams County, one dairyman will continue his efforts to get tax relief from county commissioners during these times when he finds himself going into the hole by another $20,000 to $25,000 at the end of each year.

For both — the egg producers and dairyman — it's a combination of governmental actions, weather and surplus market conditions that have sent production costs spiraling and sent them deeper and deeper into the hole.

Dorothy and Jack Sterner, of Adams County, said that producers are losing an estimated three to six cents per dozen of eggs produced.

"The market for large eggs is 80 cents per dozen," Dorothy Sterner said.

"The farmers are paid about 55 cents per dozen and production costs average between 60 and 67 cents per dozen. That means that right now we are losing about six cents per dozen of eggs we produce."

Increased production costs include higher utility bills and feed. Sterner said his utility costs rose 49 percent last month and feed costs are up some $40 per ton due to the PIK program. PIK alone increased production costs by 10 cents per dozen.

The egg producers are also concerned about increasing competition from foreign and domestic large corporate investors. About 25 percent of laying birds in Pennsylvania are owned by foreign companies from Europe and Japan compared to 15 percent a year ago, Sterner said.

At the meeting called by the

Ag arena takes shape on Penn State skyline

STATE COLLEGE — On April 15, 1983, several hundred people huddled together under a gloomy, gray sky, defying a threatening thunderstorm, to witness what many had coined "a dream becomes reality."

That dream molding into reality was the groundbreaking of Penn State's proposed Ag Arena, a facility designed to house a variety of agricultural events such as the Little International Livestock Exposition, the Dairy Exposition and the Horticulture Show.

Five months later, visitors to Penn State can see that the dream, indeed, is real. According to Milford Heddleson, a Penn State professor who has coordinated fund-raising campaigns for the building, construction of the Ag Arena is on schedule.

To date, the structural steel frame is up and the laying of a 9-foot-high block wall will begin soon. By winter, the sides and roof should be completed, Heddleson said, and inside work can then be done.

June 1, 1984, is the targeted completion date of the $1.4 million facility, Heddleson said, but if all goes as planned the construction could possibly be completed by April 1.

"It's hoped that the Dairy Exposition and the Little I will be held in the Ag Arena next spring," Heddleson said, "but it's certain the Fall 1984 Hort Show will be there."

Until then, fund-raising projects will continue with a barbecue on Sept. 17 leading the 1983 campaign.

The barbecue is set for the Penn State-Iowa football game at Beaver Stadium. Other projects will again include the Winter Phonathon, sponsored by the College of Ag students, and a new professional phonathon running from mid-September through mid-January.

In addition, the Office of Gifts and Endowments will identify major donors, Heddleson said.

When completed, the Ag Arena will consist of an 80' by 150' arena, bleachers to accommodate 600 people, a food serving area, offices, rest rooms and a mezzanine section. The mezzanine area will be used for dances, banquets and exhibits.

The construction of Penn State's Ag Arena is evident as the structural steel frame goes up on the building site near Beaver Stadium. Completion of the all-purpose agriculture facility is targeted for next spring.

Philadelphia Eggs

Thursday, September 8

Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Prices unchanged. Carton to egg orders ranged from fair to good and were better than expected in several quarters. Feature activity is light this week but expected to pick up over the next two weeks. Jumbos remain tight. Extra large are now noted adequate and orders are being filled satisfactorily in most instances. Grade loose large and mediums fully adequate and increased offerings are being reported particularly on mediums from mid-west areas. Heavy class 1 are light and offerings spotty, however, lightweight class 1's, class 2's and 3's are fully adequate and any interest is easily filled. Undertone is steady.

A Extra Large .77-.79; A Large .76-.78; A Medium .62-.64

Delmarva Poultry

Thursday, September 8

Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Ready to cook movement on whole birds is fair but generally sufficient to allow most plants to clean-up satisfactorily. Cutlets are well cleared. Breasts are clearing with little problem but are more available in some quarters. Legs and leg quarters are at least adequate with some discounting, noted as processors want to keep stocks at minimum. Slaughter schedule heavy in most quarters. Live supplies are adequate at generally desirable weights. Undertone is steady.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices are .01 higher on U.S. Grade A at 58-62 cents.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Estimated 9/8 1924; Actual 9/1 1891; Actual 9/6 1966; Average Weights 9/6 4.18; 8/30 4.26.

Eastern Pa. & N.J. Poultry

Thursday, September 8

Report supplied by USDA

MARKET COMMENT: Prices generally unchanged. Offerings of live remain light and most traders indicate a tight supply for the next several weeks. Canner pack movement is fairly good. Undertone is fully steady. Some medium (brown egg layers) were sold at 17½ cents at delivery for next week.

Prices Paid at Farm:
Light Type Hens: 12-12½, mostly 12-12½.

DEKALB SEX SAL

200 EGGS by 60 WKS.

The DeKalb Sex Sal brown egg layer is a remarkable layer. Weighing barely a pound more than a Leghorn, her egg laying potential equals that of the top white egg layers. Egg sizing and hen liveability are excellent. Feed efficiency is within ½ lb./doz. eggs of a Leghorn.

If your customers demand brown eggs.. or you want to establish a distinct farm-fresh brown egg identity... the DeKalb Sex Sal is your profit-making alternative.

If you're a feeder pig producer, you want to get top performance out of your operation.

Producing feeder pigs takes good management, and the ability to make the most of every part of your operation. You've got to use your breeding stock and buildings to their maximum potential. A big part of getting maximum output is the right nutrition program. It can make the difference in maintaining sows in good condition and producing large, healthy feeder pigs that are able to withstand the stress of being moved from your operation to another location for finishing.

You want to maximize your sows reproductive potential and produce large, healthy litters.

Pennfield has specially formulated two sow feeds that do just that. Our 642 Sow Prep is a complete feed formulated to nourish the sow during gestation. This feed provides all the energy and protein required for building large healthier litters.

We developed 648 Sow Power to provide sows with a unique blend of energy, amino acids, and other nutrients needed for optimum milk production. This results in maximum 21-day baby pig weights. Heavier pigs mean healthier pigs after weaning. This new improved feed enables the sows to finish the lactation period in good condition for the beginning of the next breeding cycle.

You want faster weight gains and optimum feed efficiency for your feeder pigs

Pennfield offers two complete feeds for this purpose. 603 Pig Power was developed specifically for successful three week weaning. Pigs weaned at three weeks need special care and nutrition to minimize the stress of going from a whole milk diet to dry feed. 603 Pig Power was developed to provide better digestibility, palatability, and nutrition. The results are excellent gains, super feed conversion, and more uniform pigs. This feed will keep weaned pigs growing when rapid gains are the most important.

616 Pork Power I is an excellent high density feed, formulated with supplementary lysine to give optimum balance of essential amino acids. It also has added fat to assure good weight gain and feed efficiency.

If you're a feeder pig producer, you want Pennfield's specially formulated hog feeds.

Once upon a time

BY DICK ANGLESTEIN

Many years ago on that small hillside farm I fell asleep on hot muggy summer nights to the telling of bedtime stories. Here's one of the favorite farm fairy tales told to us kids by Grandmother Heidi:

Once upon a time there was a king named Good King Ronnie I. After serving his apprenticeship to the court jester, Ronnie took over the leadership of his kingdom that included a good bit of farmland.

In the third year of Ronnie's reign many problems befell his farmers. It didn't rain and the crops dried up. Then, Ronnie opened some of the royal granaries because they were so full of grain and the price of feed for livestock increased. And still, there was too much milk, meat and eggs for the people of Ronnie's land.

The farmers decided to walk to Good King Ronnie's castle and tell him of their problems and ask his help. But to get there, they had to walk through a deep, dark forest.

About a hundred farmers gathered on the far edge of the forest to begin the trek to the castle. But alas, they couldn't agree on the way to go through the forest.

The farmers who each had a cow were first in the group.

"I have the biggest cow so I should lead the way," said the farmer with the black and white cow.

But the farmer with the brown and white cow disagreed. And the farmer with the little cow with the big eyes had a third opinion. So, each went his separate way.

Next were the pig farmers. The farmer with the red pig got into a heated discussion with farmers who had spotted pigs or black and white ones. So each of them also went their separate way.

It was the same with the steer farmers -- the black steer farmer going one way and the white one another.

The chicken farmers split up, too. The farmers with chickens that laid eggs followed one path and the farmer with eating chickens went another.

And, even though the farmers who planted seeds did so in the same way, at about the same time and in the same soil, they couldn't agree either.

The farmer who planted with a green-colored plow went one way and the farmer with a red one went another. And those who made the plows didn't want to be there in the first place and only showed up for appearance sake.

A kingdom scribe was tagging along with the group to write a story. After he saw each farmer taking his own path, he just gave up and went home.

Meanwhile back in the castle, the time of the farmers' appointment with Good King Ronnie arrived and passed.

"Where are my farmers?" the king asked.

"I thought they wanted to talk to me."

The king's secretary replied:

"None have arrived Your Highness. But there are reports of people wandering around out in the deep, dark forest and crying out with bleak little voices in the wilderness."

So, Good King Ronnie grabbed his hearing trumpet and held it out the window of the castle. Sure enough, off in the distance he could hear a hundred little voices bleating "help, help," but he couldn't make out any more of the words as they all ran together.

"We'll just have to forget about the farmers," Good King Ronnie said.

"I have a lot of other things. There's those naughty red barons over in the next kingdom. And, there's the battles in all of those other places."

"Besides, my royal steed needs exercise."

Moral to the story:

If farmers ever hope to get their show on the road and be heard, it's about time they get their act together.

HIS STORY,
OUR STORY
September 11, 1983

Background Scripture:

Deuteronomy 26:5-10; Psalms 105; Acts 7:2-53.

Devotional Reading:

Deuteronomy 26:5-10.

Belief in God has always had two main sources. Many of us, beholding in wonder and awe the world about us, experience him as the God of creation. At the same time, we may behold him in the fabric of events and phenomena that we call history. This is one of the great contributions which the Hebrew religion has made to the world: the perception that the God of creation is also the Lord of history.

Remember His Works

The Jews had no creeds, no confessions of faith, and few speculations about what God is like. What they had and still have is a conviction that God is and has been perceptively present in the affairs of the world. The Hebrew religion was always much more concerned with what God does than with who God is. In fact, any inquiry into who God is has usually been based upon what God had done in human history.

Thus, the Hebrew call to belief in God usually came as a challenge to remember what God has done. The Psalmist, thus, says: "Remember the wonderful works that he has done, his miracles, and the judgements he uttered" (105:5).

And in Deuteronomy the Hebrew's declaration of belief in God is set in the form of a brief recital of God's role in the history of Israel: "A wandering Aramean was my father; and he went down into Egypt and sojourned there, few in number; and there he became a nation...And the Egyptians treated us harshly, and afflicted us, and laid upon us hard bondage. Then we cried to the Lord God of our fathers, and the Lord heard our voice...and brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm..."

The Righteous One

In Christianity's early days, this remembrance of God's mighty works continued to be an important factor in interpreting Christ to the Jews. When Stephen was taken before the Sanhedrin to answer charges of blasphemy, he made his defense with a long recitation of God's acts, beginning, as was customary, with "our father Abraham." What enraged those who listened to him and brought about his violent death was not his remembrance of God's mighty acts, but his conviction that Jesus of Nazareth was the fulfillment of God's plan and purpose. Just as the Sanhedrin's forefathers resisted God's plan, so now were they, said Stephen: "And they killed those who announced beforehand the coming of the Righteous One, whom you have betrayed and murdered..."

Thus, it is not enough to see God at work in human history. We need also to see him at work in our own personal story. If we look closely at our own lives, we must be able to discern his presence in those events which are personal. Along with our contemplation of who God is, we need to have a remembrance of what God has done in our lives as well as in the broad scope of history. In Jesus Christ, we must learn to see his plan and purpose—his story/history—as our story too.

To Fertilize Alfalfa Stands

The fall of the year is one of the best times to apply phosphorus and potash to established alfalfa stands. Many growers will top-dress the field after the last cutting is removed. In addition, the stand can be fertilized next spring after the first cutting is removed. When the plants are fertilized in the fall they will be stronger next summer.

Since alfalfa is a very heavy feeder of both phosphorus and potash, these elements must be replaced for top yields. If the area is to be grazed in the fall instead of removing the final cutting, the fertilizer should be washed down with a rain before livestock should be allowed on the field; also bloating may result if grazed soon after application. Use the application rates as recommended on your soil test results.

To Protect Show Animals

September, in Lancaster County, is fair time. It is also a time to be concerned about the health of show animals. Fair should be a place where we can exhibit our animals; they should not be a place for spreading diseases and other ailments. Be considerate of other exhibitors and of other show animals. If your animals have an infectious or contagious problems, leave them at home; it's like keeping a sick child out of school to protect those who are healthy. If you do show, consult your veterinarian about necessary tests and protective vaccines.

When you return your livestock to the farm after the show, isolate them from other animals on the farm before introducing them to their herd mates.

To Check Feed Bins

We are coming into the fall season where we see considerable temperature change from day to night. This causes a lot of moisture condensation, as we see it on car windows in the morning. This same type of condensation takes place in the bulk feed bins on our farms. It causes the build-up of molds on the bins and in the feed.

When feed bins are cleaned out, they should be inspected thoroughly, right down to the boot. Also, when you are taking feed out of the bin, keep a close watch for chunks of feed, it will tell you if a problem is developing.

After cleaning out the bin, it should be sprayed with a mold inhibitor and allowed to dry. You can use calcium propionate solution, as the inhibitor, at the rate of 2 ounces per gallon of water for this spray.

To Check Stored Grain

Farmers should check all their stored grain at this time of year, because heating of stored grain can be a symptom of insect activity or just too much moisture. In either case, the heating problem should be corrected before the grain is ruined. If grain requires fumigation to control pests, it should be done while the air temperature is still fairly high or above 60 degrees F. If it's moisture, then check for possible leaks in the roof.

Behind Jennifer stands Dutchess (white blaze on face) a 91 PT Elevation with a 5 year old record of 21,529 of 4.3 milk in 322 days.

Brown's Sales Representative Clarence Geib, Allen Lee, and Brown's Nutritionist Dr. Walter Kennett review the production records of Kathy a Job Daughter and Fanny. At 3-2, Kathy made 30,187 of milk and 1071 fat in 365 days. Fanny finished her seven year old record at 33,591 of 4.1% milk, but unfortunately has since died.

Allen Lee consults regularly with Dr. Kennett regarding his feeding program, and follows it faithfully. Clarence Geib pulls forage samples which go to Penn State and submits a programming request form which Dr. Kennett uses to formulate programs.

Excellent forage quality is a key to high production. Allen Lee sends forage samples to Brown's regularly. Because he feeds a lot of haylage, extra bypass protein is added to his 38 Milkmaster along with additional minerals to meet the nutrient requirements of his high producing herd. One of his biggest problems is drying off cows milking 60-70 lbs.

CHORE-TIME

MEAL-TIME

The programmed feeding system that cuts your No. 1 production cost

Now there's a way you can boost profits 20% or more. An entirely new way to feed hogs, Chore-Time's new MEAL-TIME Hog Feeding System feeds your hogs 2 or 3 programmed "meals" a day, giving them time to thoroughly digest and fully utilize their feed. The result — feed conversion improved 5% or more for an additional 15 to 20% or more net profit per pig.

Chore-Time offers 3 sizes of MEAL-TIME feeders with built-in waterers to properly fit all hogs and minimize feed wastage.

See us today and find out how you can profit from the Chore-Time MEAL-TIME System.

Peach market news

Report Supplied By PDA

Week eight of the Peach Market News reports the first good news in quite awhile. Demand especially for 2 1/4" is strong. Prices have increased on packed fruit. Orchard run demand has been good also. However, the smaller size fruit is still not moving in both packed and orchard run fruit.

The extensive media blitz of the past two weeks that resulted in many news items including television, radio and newspaper coverage coincides with the increase in demand and prices. Hopefully, this helped get the peach message to the consumers.

Late season varieties are in full swing. Most report they are in their last week to 10 days of the 1983 peach season.

Summary

These are the latest wholesale,

Turn her ninety most stressful days into her ninety most profitable days

Agway Fresh Cow Plus™ gives you four benefits that add up to extra profits

1. Tests prove 2.6 lbs more milk per day during the first 90 days

During the first 90 days of lactation your cows experience their highest levels of stress—stress that can severely limit production.

However, Agway Fresh Cow Plus can help minimize stress during this critical time, and maximize profits. Fresh Cow Plus is formulated according to the Agway-patented protein solubility program, and fortified with the critical vitamins and minerals your cows need during early lactation. This special nutritional package boosted production by over two and half pounds of milk per day during the first 90 days. That translates to 460 pounds more milk over the entire lactation.

Trials conducted with 983 cows in 45 Northeastern herds

2. Reduces cases of cystic ovaries over 30%

Cows fed
Fresh Cow Plus

Control Group

Fresh Cow Plus also helps minimize another stress related problem—cystic ovaries. In tests, cows fed Fresh Cow Plus developed 32% fewer cases of cystic ovaries than the control group. That means better reproductive performance

3. Reduces time to first-observed heat

Cows fed Fresh Cow Plus also developed their first-observed heat earlier. And the earlier and stronger your cows show their first heat, the easier it is to get them bred and pregnant

In tests, cows fed Fresh Cow Plus reached their first observed heat four days earlier than the control group.

4. Increases profits over feed costs by $18.50 per lactation

Most importantly, Agway Fresh Cow Plus can improve your financial bottom line. In tests, cows fed Fresh Cow Plus produced enough extra milk to pay for the supplement and add $18.50 extra profits per cow

When you count the higher milk yield, extra profits and better reproductive performance, the benefits of Agway Fresh Cow Plus add up rapidly. For more information about how Agway Fresh Cow Plus can improve performance and reduce stress during early lactation, contact your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson, Store or Representative.

NATURAL MASTITIS TREATMENTS THAT WORK

Much repeat business by phone, mail orders, proves it works. It is rich nutrition in the mouth. Builds resistance. Combinations for stubborn cases. Economical. Treating the cause is better than treating the symptoms. 200 tablets only $18.95 postpaid.

SAME WITH THE SOIL

Preventing bugs as we do with natural mineral fertilizer is better than spraying poisons on the cow feed (alfalfa) which is additional cost of spray and additional cow problem expense.

300 BU. CORN PER ACRE LAST YEAR WITH MICRO LIFE.

Our rock phosphate is very economical priced. Only $110 per ton plus spreading because it comes bulk direct from mines without blending costs. Many happy customers. 27.7% protein haylage. Vegetables sweeter than the neighbor's because of more nutrition. Big double crop, both without fertilizer, but had our rock phosphate 2 years before. 200 bu. corn per acre in dry 1980. Our program holds the moisture because of looser soil and subsoil from live earthworms and micro-organisms which do more than dead ones killed by chemicals. Extremely low vet. bills because of better feed grown. Much more could be said but the above should convince anyone that obeying natural laws pays big dividends. Ask for literature.

All our products do best applied in the fall to condition the soil and decompose the organic matter. This is the reason our customers get such huge crops.

Blair holds livestock roundup

BY PATTY GROSS MOCK
Staff Correspondent

MARTINSBURG — Williamsburg High School students claimed top honors at the annual Blair County 4-H and FFA Livestock Roundup held at Martinsburg Memorial Park August 23.

Fourteen-year-old Tom Harris, R.D.2 Williamsburg, earned a plaque and rosette for showing the grand champion steer. His champion Hereford competed with 26 other steers in the day-long judging.

The 1,205 pound animal was sold for $1.40 per pound at the public auction that evening. Morrisons Cove Livestock Market had the high bid.

Lloyd Rhodes of Rhodes Meat Market purchased the reserve grand champion steer, owned by his son Kevin Rhodes, Martinsburg. The 1,080 pound Angus brought $1.07 per pound.

The 27 steers sold for a total of $24,764, with the average price being 86 cents a pound. The total weight of the sale animals was 27,775 pounds.

Morrisons Cove Livestock Market also purchased the grand champion hog and lamb. John Dowe, 15, R.D.2 Williamsburg raised the 229 pound champion hog. The 4-H Swine Club member received $3.60 per pound during the bidding war.

Hampshire ram seller at Performance Sale

BY LAURA ENGLAND
STATE COLLEGE — Named the high seller last Saturday at the 5th annual Performance Tested Ram Lamb Sale was the top indexing junior Hampshire ram.

Owned by Champion Acres, of Champion, the ram sold for $425.00 to Tom Nickeson, Summerhill. Sired by Heggemeier 79-996, the January 1983 ram averaged 1.06 pounds per day for a daily gain ratio of 119 percent.

The second high seller was the top indexing junior Suffolk ram consigned by Troy Ness, Dallastown. Bought by Melanie Bow, Annville, for $400.00, the ram had an average daily gain of 1.12 pounds.

Other top selling rams were a junior Suffolk owned by Paul Leader, York, which sold for $325.00 to Walter H. Funston, Buffalo Mills; a junior Suffolk owned by Penn State University and bought by David L.C. Albert and Son, Trout Run, for $285.00; and a junior Suffolk owned by John Scott Jr., Princetown, W.Va., which sold for $275.00 to Lynn Burger, Kunkletown.

Sponsored by the state Department of Agriculture in cooperation with Penn State University and the Pa. Sheep and Wool Growers Association, the sale averaged $143.92 on 37 rams. The rams sold completed an 84-day performance test at the Meat Animal Evaluation Center, State College.

Sale averages by breed were: 19 Suffolk, $162.89; six Hampshires, $175.83; 10 Dorsets, $82.00; one Columbia, $185.00; and one Shropshire, $170.00.

Also sold were 63 ewes, averaging $115.71 per animal. Two ewes, each selling for $175.00, were the high sellers. One, a Suffolk yearling owned by Troy Ness, Dallastown, was bought by W.H. and G.K. Reno, Murraysville. The other, a Dorset yearling owned by Penn State, sold to M.M. Downsbrough, State College.

Other top sellers, all at $170.00, were a Suffolk lamb owned by Paul Leader, York, and bought by Walter H. Funston, Buffalo Mills; a Dorset lamb owned by Myron and Jean Sevik, Pennsylvania Furnace, and sold to W.C. Willits, Kutztown; and a Hampshire lamb owned by Champion Acres,

Champion, and bought by Tom Nickeson, Summerhill. By breed, the averages were: 26 Suffolk, $116.92; 18 Dorset, $127.27; and 19 Hampshires, $103.16.

This junior Suffolk ram, owned by Troy Ness, Dallastown, sold for $400 to Melanie Bow, Annville, at the Performance Tested Ram Sale in State College. The second high selling ram is posed by Penn State junior Michele Braund.

Mansfield takes top district dairy award

MANSFIELD — The Mansfield FFA chapter captured the Wayne Mummy, Jr. Memorial award for the top four animals, any age, any breed, exhibited by one FFA chapter at the Northeast District FFA Dairy Show at Troy. Led by Premier Breeder Steve Smith and Premier Exhibitor John Wheeler, the Mansfield Chapter won the award for the second consecutive year, and for the third time in the last four years.

Premier Breeder Steve Smith's triumph came on the strength of his first place win in the Produce of Dam class, while John Wheeler was named the Premier Exhibitor after showing the first place group in the Exhibitor's Herd and Daughter and Dam classes.

The grand champion Holstein of the show was Gray Valley Kitbuilder Aris, owned and exhibited by Brenda Robson of Mansfield. Bred by Harold Robson, Jr., the champion Senior 2-year-old is a Tiho Kitbuilder daughter. Reserve grand champion honors in the Holstein division went to a 3-year-old exhibited by John Wheeler, of Millerton.

Larue Harkness, of Troy, exhibited the grand champion Jersey, with Carolyn Norman, of Liberty, taking Reserve grand champion honors.

Georgia Barker, of Potter County, won both the fitting and showing championships at the show.

1. ADD ANHYDROUS AMMONIA TO CORN SILAGE

Ammonia is an excellent NPN source for use with Corn Silage. The NPN protein generated will cost you about 6½¢ per pound of protein. The addition of ammonia will NOT increase the nitrate level of finished silage. Some of the advantages are:

- Feeds well to BEEF or DAIRY
- Has excellent palatability
- Greatly reduces feed costs.
- OK in upright or bunker silos
- Producers milk or beef efficiently

Performance tested boars sell in Delaware's 6th Sale

BY TRISH WILLIAMS
HARRINGTON, Del. - Delaware's 6th Performance Tested Boar Sale, held Tuesday at the Delaware State Fairgrounds, was characterized by generally weak prices, according to Delaware Extension Livestock Specialist, Ken Kephart. The sale, sponsored by the Delaware Pork Producers Association in cooperation with the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service is designed to provide pork producers with sires of known performance capabilities for their breeding programs.

Buyers, faced with an uncertain hog market and increased grain prices imminent, repressed prices on the performance tested boars. Kephart reported a sale total of $6065, with a sale average of $357 for the 17 boars sold.

All boars sold were performance tested on the same criteria. All the boars were fed for rapid growth under test conditions. The boars were five to seven months of age.

Requirements of the sale stipulated that all boars sold must have an index of 90 or more points, a soundness score of 2 or more, and an underline score of 2 or more.

The average boar of this group was indexed at 100 points. (If a boar is indexed at 120, it is considered to be 20 percent better than the average boar tested.)

Scoring was done by a committee of six, as boars came off test, according to the National Swine Improvement Federation recommendations, using a range of 1 to 3, with 3 being ideal.

Since coming off test, boars were fed 4-6 pounds of feed on the floor daily and allowed to run on a runway beside other boars, to increase their aggressiveness, sexual maturity, hardiness, soundness, and desire to breed.

Listed in the accompanying table are the more critical values of the top 10 selling boars in the sale. Buyers were given additional data for each of the boars, including, starting weight, number of litter mates, gain ratio, fat ratio, lean eye and lean cut percentage.

The top selling boar in the sale was a 250 pound Yorkshire consigned by Edwards and Edwards, Rich Square, N.C. The boar, with an index of 105 and a gain ratio of 115, sold for $535 to Ronald Harrison, Littlestown, Pa.

The top selling pen of boars was consigned by Franklin Feeser, of Taneytown, Md. The four Hampshire boars, sired by Mountain Boy, brought a total of $1575, and average of $394.

John's 12-year-old brother Kevin showed the reserve champion market hog. Dale Hoover bought the second best hog for Hatfield Packing Co. at a price of $2.22 per pound.

The average sale price for the 29 hogs sold was 70 cents per pound. The swine, weighing a total of 6,219 pounds, earned $5,542.50 as a total sale.

For the third year in a row, Holli Pheasant, 15, Williamsburg, raised the championship lamb. The 103 pound lamb brought $2.60 a pound from the top bidder, Larry Weyandt, Morrisons Cove Livestock Market.

The reserve champion lamb was exhibited by Christine Rhodes. Rhodes Meat Market purchased the 123 pound animal for $1.70 a pound.

The 17 lambs were sold for a total price of $1,715.82. Seventy-six cents per pound was the average price paid at the annual livestock sale.

There were more buyers present at this years sale than in past years. Approximately 40 individuals and businesses turned out to bid on the animals and support agriculture's youth. It was a successful evening for the 4-H and FFA farmers. Prices were considerably higher for the young people compared to 1982. The animals were judged by a former vo-ag teacher from Perry County. Terri Coon is attending Penn State seeking her master's degree. Auctioneer for the livestock sale was Clarence Showalter.

Lloyd Rhodes, of Rhodes Meat Market, Martinsburg, bought the Blair County reserve grand champion lamb, exhibited by Christine Rhodes.

Reserve champion hog in Blair County exhibited by Kevin Dowey sold to Dale Hoover, of Hatfield, for $2.22½ a pound.

Pa. dairy goat herd places 2nd in nation

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Pennsylvania dairy goat breeders earned high honors for the state at the recent American Dairy Goat Association National Show held recently during the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville.

244 exhibitors from 35 states and Canada entered 1,554 dairy goats of the Saanen, Nubian, Alpine, LaMancha and Toggenburg breeds in the competition.

Twenty-one states participated in the State Herd competition, with each State Herd consisting of eight does from that state, with no more than four animals from any one farm. Top honors were awarded to Oregon; with Pennsylvania placing second; California, third and Indiana, fourth.

Debbie Smeltzer, Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association Youth Representative and owner of Posey Acres Dairy Goats, Bellefonte, was flag-bearer for the Pennsylvania State Herd. The eight does comprising the herd were handled by Danny Harter, President of the Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association and owner of D & M Acres, Bellefonte; Dana Holder, owner of Pax Farm LaManchas, Bellefonte; Ann Miller and Susan Miller, owners of Little Rocksprings Dairy Goats, Furlong; Jane Smeltzer, owner of Posey Acres, Bellefonte; Vaughn E. Solomon and Donna Forsman, owners of Magnum Dairy Goats, Orrtanna; Anne Whitney, owner of Winterberry Nubians, Moscow.

LaMancha Champion

The highest-placing doe from Pennsylvania was GCH Rocksprings Tonka Ultra Violet, a 4 yr. old LaMancha owned by Susan Miller. Ultra Violet was named both National Grand Champion LaMancha and Best Udder of the breed. The Rocksprings LaMancha Dairy Herd, also owned by Susan Miller, placed 6th of 11 in group competition.

In the competition of LaMancha yearling milkers, Dana Holder's Nolee's Dolly Brown placed 4th and 3rd place udder among 31 entries. The doe was also part of the 1st place Get of Sire, 1st place Best 3 Females and 1st place Dairy Herd.

In second place of 29 two year-old LaManchas was CH Jenny Jump Rocksprings Dixie, owned by Susan Miller. Posey Acres CS Little Weed took 5th place of 14 in competition among 3 yr. olds.

The highest Toggenburg placing was Ann Miller's 4 yr. old GCH Rocksprings Lynas Tremendous, 2nd in a class of 15 entries.

Among Intermediate Kids, Rocksprings Cham Trem Terrific, owned by Ann Miller placed 2nd, with her Rocksprings Trio Gretel Gabriele placing 15th. In the Senior Yearling Class, Rocksprings Lim Pearl Penny, owned by Susan Miller, placed 12th. 13th place Jr. Get of Sire was claimed by Rocksprings Key Looks Limited.

The competition of 2 yr. old Toggenburg milkers included three of Ann Miller's does, with Rocksprings Premier Lauriba placing 14th, Rocksprings Premier Lila Lass placing 19th and Rocksprings Lim' Leah Lou placing 20th.

Rocksprings Pharaoh Lyla Lynn, owned by Ann Miller placed 18th of 28 competing 3 yr. olds. Tenth place four year old was awarded to Harter's Ivy, owned by Danny Harter. His doe Joyful Jubilee Mountain Misty placed 13th among 23 does competing in the 5 yrs. and over class.

7th place Sr. Get of Sire was awarded to Ann Miller's Sunshine Precious Premier. In the Best 3 Females Class, Rocksprings placed 4th and D & M Acres 10th. Rocksprings also placed 6th in Toggenburg Dairy Herd competition.

In Nubian competition, Magnum Advantage Amanda, owned by Vaughn E. Solomon and Donna Forsman placed 10th out of 37 Jr. Kids. Their Magnum Zeus' Twilight placed 8th of 29 Intermediate Kids, and Magnum Eclipse Babette placed 10th of 28 Sr. Kids. Anne Whitney's yearling milker Briarwood Farm Foxxi Finesse placed 11th of 28 in her class.

Top Pennsylvania Alpine placing went to Cranberry Creeks Molly, 3rd place Sr. Yearling owned by Dana Holder. Other Alpine placings included three of Debbie Smeltzer's does: 18th place Jr. Doe Posey Acres VS Tiffany, 14th place yearling milker Posey Acres Roscoe's Snookums and 13th place 4 yr. old Eight Acres CR Naomi T.M.

A BALING BREAKTHROUGH

Krone Round Balers

A totally NEW concept in baling machinery, the Krone line of round balers features an endless chain conveyor without belts. Closed chamber reduces problems associated with conventional belt type balers. Less horsepower required for the Krone Round Baler's fewer moving parts means great energy savings. Produces weather resistant bales with hard outer wrap and medium density core for better curing. Available in two models for bale diameters of five or six feet.

Poultrymen throughout the country are being surprised by the Hubbard Leghorn's performance. Jay Boll liked the feed efficiency and shell quality. "I am also impressed with the number of weeks production was over 90%," Jay said. If you are looking for performance like this, consider the Hubbard Leghorn. You might be surprised too.

Knoll herd, which has won past state herd production awards, traces primarily to a bull calf purchased from the noted Dunloggin Farms.

Fondly recalled by Walker as "the best bull we ever had," Dunloggin Master Stroke sired 75 daughters in the Rolling Knoll herd. Several of the Master Stroke daughters earned showstring honors, including six grand champions at the Maryland State Fair.

A double-crossed bloodline granddaughter of Master Stroke was selected the best uddered individual at the Chicago national show, about the early 1960's.

Walkers' Gaithersburg farm was sold in 1962, and urban homes now cover the pasture where the herd once grazed. In 1964, the cattle were sold and Walker took a position with an area feed company.

He served on the board of the Maryland Holstein Association for 50 years, and held a position in each office at some time during that five decade span. For 17 years, he was organizational secretary.

Now retired, the Gaithersburg cattle breeder and Holstein leader figures that he exhibited cattle in at least one hundred fairs, but now spends his tanbark trips enjoying the shows as a spectator.

The outstanding junior breeders, Sue and Roy Crow, are in partnership with his father, Robert T. Crow, on the family's Caw-Croft farm, near Kennedyville.

Roy has complete charge of the 60 head of registered Holsteins, while his father handles the 500 acres cropped in corn, beans, hay and pasture.

Herd average on the Caw-Croft milking string is 19,400, with a 3.7 percent fat test for a 730 fat average. Cow type also earns careful scrutiny, and classification averages on the herd are at a B.A.A. of 103.

Named the Distinguished Service Award Winner by Maryland Holstein breeders was the King family of Kingstead Farms. From left are Irving, Jane, Douglas, Mary and Harold King, accepting a plaque from state Holstein president Ed Fry.

numbers are two-year-old homebreds, a Round Oak Apollo Virginian daughter, producing 19,000 of milk, and a Woodbine Pearl Comet with records at 21,000.

Roy's own personal favorite is a VG two-year-old, sired by Betty Chief, and from a VG Elevation dam with 19,000 milk and a 4 percent fat test.

A third generation of dairymen shows promise for the continued success of Caw-Croft family dairy farming, with the Crow's two sons, Karl, 30 months, and Robbie, 10 months.

Animals shine in Maryland livestock sale

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — After more than a decade of dominance by market hogs and lambs, beef steers returned to starring roles during the annual 4-H and FFA livestock sale recently at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium.

Dairy steers, as relative newcomers to the state fair livestock sale scene, shared the beef spotlight.

New record high prices for the state fair sale were set by both the grand champion beef and dairy steers. Average prices in both categories also were at record levels.

The champion steer was a 1,300-pound home-raised 7/8 Limousin exhibited by Randy Ridgely, 15, Cooksville, Howard county. It was sold for $4 per pound to Giant Food, Inc., headquartered at Washington, D.C.

Donna Day, 19, Marriottsville, Howard county, sold her reserve champion steer, a 1,275-pound Angus-Chianina crossbred, for $2.25 per pound. It was purchased by Harold F. Graul, Annapolis, founder of a small supermarket chain bearing his name in

New York accepting nominations for bull testing

ITHACA, NY — Nominations are being accepted for the 1983-1984 New York State Bull Test which is jointly sponsored by the New York Beef Cattlemen's Association, Cooperative Extension, Cornell University, and the State Department of Agriculture and Markets.

This year's test program will accept 100 bulls that meet the specified requirements of weight, frame score, age and health regulations. William Greene, livestock extension associate at Cornell said the closing date for nominations is Oct. 3 and the nominations will be accepted on a first come-first served basis.

Greene said the primary purpose of the performance testing program is to evaluate bulls under unbiased, uniform conditions, and to make these tested bulls available to beef cattle producers.

The 1982-83 Bull Test Sale which culminated the testing program broke all records last spring with a sale average of $1,606 on the 39 consigned bulls. No bull sold for less than $1,000 and the sale was topped at $4,000 when ShuRaLoKen Farm of Deposit purchased an Angus bull, Gallagher's Progression 742 I, consigned by Gallagher's Farm Inc. of Ghent.

The bulls that completed the 1982-83 test will have their first calf crops on the ground in the spring of 1984 for a further "on-farm" performance test evaluation. Some of these bulls have also had another form of evaluation and at least one EF Gran Rocky 4F, owned by Elm Farm of Richmondville, won a grand championship in the show ring. The Elm Farm bull was named grand champion at the Empire Polled Hereford Association's Classic Show July 30 at Cortland.

Information and nomination forms for the 1983-84 Bull Test may be obtained from William Greene, Morrison Hall, Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y. 14853

To us, agriculture is still the backbone of America.

At Hamilton Bank one of our primary objectives is to serve, and help preserve, the family farm.

We still believe that agriculture is the backbone of America, and the family farm is the cornerstone of agriculture in our area.

That's why we have developed a complete range of financing, credit, trust and estate services — all designed to help you — the family farmer — fulfill your obligations.

With the value of farm production in our area increasing every year, the need for capital continues to rise along with it. We are here, and will continue to be here, to help you meet that need.

When we work together, through a relationship of mutual trust, we can all continue to move ahead. We can continue to keep agriculture strong.

Does your Barn Cleaner have a chain this strong?

Remember the tractor picture we used to demonstrate how strong our 5/8" barn cleaner really is? Well, we still use tough, durable chain links in our barn cleaners to assure years of highly dependable barn cleaning. Our chain has the toughest link around. No bolts or pins to shear — no hooks to straighten or break.

Smooth-running oval design offers more flex around the corners. Less power is needed. No nooks or crevices to trap corrosive acids. Dependable steel paddles are welded right to the links for long life. No pins or bolts to loosen. Steady, double-tooth sprocket drive. We use two teeth to drive the outside of the link for steadier drive, reduced wear. Easy, chain length adjustment with forged connector links.

We have conversion kits, too!
Give your present barn cleaner a new lease on life. Our replacement parts are adaptable to almost any make barn cleaner.

From Umble beginnings came renowned Swamp Hollow herd

BY TRISH WILLIAMS
COCHRANVILLE — In 1943 when John and Susanna Umble started milking a small herd of grade Holsteins, they never dreamt how genetic progress would transform the dairy cattle industry and the evolution of their herd.

But soon after he started, Umble witnessed the introduction of artificial insemination and participated in the on farm adoption of the genetic tool that would revolutionize the dairy industry.

Now, after 40 years in the dairy business, Umble is preparing to disperse his Swampy Hollow herd and reflects back on the years he spent building the herd.

On a rented farm near Atglen, John and Susann began their first year as dairy farmers, building a small herd of grade Holsteins. After one year on that farm they moved their herd of 14 grade cattle to another rented farm just north of Cochranville, and only a mile and a half from the farm Umble grew up on. The 154 acre farm, nestled in a small spring-filled valley, was christened Swampy Hollow.

In 1947 the Umbles made Swampy Hollow their home for life when they purchased the farm. The next year they took a major step toward shaping the future of their dairy operation, when they had a complete dispersal of the grade herd, remodeled the barn, and started a herd of registered Holsteins.

A reserved man of strong faith and determination, he began in this fashion to plan his herd's

Swampy Hollow Farm

John and Susanna Umble came to Swampy Hollow Farm 40 years ago and started building their purebred Holstein herd. They plan to retire on the farm, and help farm at their leisure.

Most of the offspring in the Swampy Hollow herd are direct descendants of two brood cows. Above, Valeria Cherrydale Lucifer ('Cherry') was the foundation cow that Umble built his Swampy Hollow herd on. She is pictured here at 13 years. Below, Swampy Hollow Sugar-Twin is a fifth generation of the Cherry cow. Classified EX-91-3E, Sugar has been flushed several times for embryos, with as many as five sons in AI service from one flush.

"John J. Stoltzfus, another dairyman, who knew I was just starting in the purebred cattle business, called me," recalls Umble. "He was having a consignment sale, and wanted me to buy a brood cow he was selling. After looking at the cow and deciding she might give me some good offspring, I went to the bank to borrow money. At that time $500 dollars was about what you could figure to pay for a real good brood cow. So with $500 dollars in my pocket, I went to the sale hoping to buy the cow. But the bidding didn't stop at $500, she went to $635, which was considerably more than I had brought with me. Nonetheless, I bought her. When I got home, I told Susann that I had spent $635 on the cow, she was a little upset then, but now when we look back, it was probably some of the best money we ever spent.

The cow he purchased, Valeria Cherrydale Lucifer, more affectionately called Cherry, became the foundation cow that he built his registered herd of Holsteins on.

When Umble disperses the Swampy Hollow herd on October 27, there will be 45 direct descendants of Cherry in the sale.

Cherry was a daughter of Lauxmont Admiral Lucifer, explains Umble. The Lucifer bull was very popular at that time.

"Cherry and her descendants have paid the mortgage on the farm, many times over," Umble proudly explains. "Her top-selling son went to Japan, I received double for him what I paid for this farm. And two years ago I sold another of Cherry's descendants, a heifer, for about what I paid for the farm."

Cherry eventually made a lifetime production record of 172,000 milk, with a lifetime average milk fat test of 4.2 percent. She completed one lactation with a 4.4 percent milk fat test.

At a Garden Spot in Willow Street, Umble purchased a heifer calf that he later bred to the Lucifer bull. The mating produced two twins heifers, Polly and Molly. These twins both classified Very Good. Polly at 85 and Molly at 87. Molly also became a strong link in the Swampy Hollow breeding program. When her production reached 200,000 she was named the 300th 'Iron Grandma' by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America.

A progressive breeder, Umble is Partners - Joe Lusby and John Umble, are each embarking on a new venture. John will have time to reflect on the lifetime he spent building a herd, while Joe builds his herd.

a long standing member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. He has served Chester County as a state director of PHA for a total of seven years, and has represented the organization numerous times as a delegate to the national convention.

He is also a member of the local breeders group, the Brandywine Valley syndicate.

Four years ago Umble went into partnership with his son, Allen, and his son-in-law, Joseph Lusby. The three partners have taken on the new challenges of the dairy cattle industry. The strong foundation that Umble has built the herd on has created a herd with deep pedigrees and a demand for the bloodlines.

Since the formation of the partnership, they have introduced embryo transfer into their breeding program and are taking a very serious approach to merchandizing their cattle.

Swampy Hollow Sugar-Twin, is an Ivanhoe Star daughter and a 5th generation descendent of the Cherry cow. Rated 3E-91, she has records to 23,500 pounds of milk, and 1275 pounds of fat, with a 5.4 percent fat test. Records like that are in demand all over the world. Sugar's daughter, Sweet, is also a high tester and has just completed her 4th year record at 26,000 milk and 1273 pounds of fat, with a fat test of 4.9 percent.

"We have flushed embryos from Sugar several times," said Umble. "We have gotten as many as 15 embryos from a single flush from Sugar. This flush resulted in 14 pregnancies, and six live bulls and six live heifer calves. All six of the bulls were sold for export."

Lake many Holstein breeders in Pennsylvania, the partnership has done their export marketing of cattle through the PHA and American Market Service of Virginia. Umble who has sold 20 bulls in the last 10 years, credits Bob Heilman of AMS, and William Nichol and Doug Hershey of PHA with much of the success of their export marketing program. But without years of top-notch breeding on the farm, their cattle would have never seen new international surroundings.

When the partnership is dissolved after the dispersal in October, Umble plans to follow his doctors advice and take it easier. He still plans to work on the farm, but only at his convenience. He says, when I want to go fishing or hunting, that is what I'm going to do.

Umble is also an auctioneer, and may be familiar to some from the World Relief Sale, sponsored by the Mennonite Central Committee. He has helped with the sale for many years now, as an auctioneer. He plans to continue his work in the Relief Sale, and in his church, Maple Grove Mennonite Church where he is a teacher and treasurer of the Sunday school.

Allen is planning to go into church work full time, and will begin his training soon after the dispersal.

Joe Lusby and his wife Cindy live in the old farmhouse with their two children Joey, 4, and Jessica, 1. They plan to continue to farm at Swampy Hollow. And like their parents will start the herd bulding process.

THE AERODRY™ COMPUTERIZED GRAIN MANAGEMENT SYSTEM...

Grain drying with a difference

Dozens of grain growers throughout the area have discovered the AeroDry difference over conventional heat drying systems. They're making more money from their drying operation for four key reasons:

Tremendous Energy Savings

The AeroDry System uses a unique fan and bin floor set-up to dry grain. It's computer controlled for maximum efficiency. Since no gas is used, no heat of any kind, energy costs are 25% of conventional heat dryers.

Reduced Shrink Loss

No heat means less damage in drying the grain. You get heavier corn with over 50% less shrinkage than heat drying, that means more grain in your bin.

Better Grain Quality

With AeroDry drying, grain isn't cracked or damaged by heat. More natural starches, sugars and other nutrients are retained for better feed quality and higher test weights.

Tax Benefits

AeroDry Systems qualify for up to a 15% energy credit in the form of an investment tax credit. Added to the 10% grain storage investment credit, that's a total credit of 25%.

The AeroDry System can be installed in any new or existing bin up to 16 feet high. If you're drying grain, or selling to the elevator, you can't afford not to see an AeroDry System. Please call or mail in the coupon and we'll send information and arrange a demonstration. Put the AeroDry difference to work for you.

Average price for the 34 beef steers sold — not counting the grand champion — was 91 cents per pound. Last year, the average was 82 cents.

A sidelight on the 4-H and FFA beef steer show at the Maryland State Fair was the fact that this year's exhibitors of the top two animals also had coral led the top placings last year in reverse order. Both are Howard county residents.

In 1982, Donna Day set a new Maryland State Fair achievement mark by exhibiting both the grand champion steer and grand champion market hog. She came close again this year, with reserve champion honors in both categories.

Donna sold this year's reserve champion market hog for $3.00 per pound to Dutterer's Processing Plant of Manchester, Carroll County. It was a 225-pound purebred Hampshire barrow bred by Franklin E. Feeser of Taneytown, Carroll county.

The grand champion market hog was a home-raised 235-pound Hampshire-Yorkshire crossbred barrow shown by Jeff Holloway, 13, Darlington, Harford county. It brought $3.50 per pound from Esskay Quality Meat Company, a major East Coast meat packer, located in east Baltimore.

Average price for 44 pigs entered in the sale — not counting the grand champion — was 96 cents per pound. Last year, the average was $1.19.

The grand champion barrow came from a litter of 10 pigs raised to maturity. Six of the littermates were entered in 4-H and FFA competition at the fair by members of two Holloway families. Three of the littermates placed first in their weight classes during judging of the 4-H and FFA market hog show; the other three finished second or third in their respective weight classes.

Four of the littermates were sold in the state fair livestock sale, including the grand champion, and they brought an average price of $1.70 per pound.

The Hevner brothers, Johnsville, Frederick County, and their Suffolks continued to dominate the 4-H and FFA market lamb show at the Maryland State Fair.

Gregory N. Hevner, 13, won grand championship honors with a 115-pound wether, after showing the reserve champion market lamb in two successive previous years.

His brother, Jeffrey S. Hevner, 17, exhibited the reserve champion market lamb, a 120-pound wether. Jeff had previously captured grand champion market lamb honors at the fair in 1975, 1978, 1979 and 1980.

This year, Greg sold his champion lamb for $3.95 per pound to the Frederick Grain and Fertilizer Company. Jeff sold his reserve champion lamb for $2.50 per pound to the James R. Moxley, Jr., family of West Friendship, Howard county.

Susan D. Moxley, 18, West Friendship, Howard county, exhibited the champion pair of market lambs in 4-H and FFA competition this year at the Maryland State Fair. She sold them for $2 per pound to A.W. Schmidt & Son, Inc., a Baltimore abattoir.

Average price for 43 lambs entered in the sale was $1.28 per pound, not counting the individual grand champion. This compared with an average of $1.27 last year for 39 lambs.

This year's champion dairy steer was a $250-pound Holstein entered by William L. Swift, III, 14, Monkton, Baltimore county. Young Swift also had the reserve champion dairy steer, a 960-pound Holstein.

He sold his champion dairy steer for $1.35 per pound to Thompson's Food Market, Maryland Lane, Baltimore county. This marked the third successive year that Thompson's has purchased the winning dairy steer.

Average price for three dairy steers in the state fair livestock sale — not counting the champion — was 75 cents per pound. This compared with an average of 64 cents per pound for five dairy steers in the 1981 sale. Only the champion dairy steer was sold in last year's sale.

Matthew McFann, 15, Lisbon, poses his Suffolk lamb after winning grand championship honors in 4-H and FFA sheep fitting and showing competition at the Maryland State Fair in Timonium. Looking on are the sheep show judge, Richard Kuzemchak of Penn State, and Matt's sister, Carole McFann, 19, the current Maryland Lamb and Wool Queen.

International Trade Conference set Oct. 3-4

HARRISBURG — "Expanding International Trade Zones" is the theme of the eighth annual Pennsylvania International Trade Conference set for the Hershey-Philadelphia Hotel, Philadelphia, Oct. 3-4.

According to State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hollowell, the two-day conference "provides an excellent opportunity for producers and prospective agricultural exporters to exchange ideas with industry officials who have had success in the international marketplace."

Pennsylvania's agricultural exports have risen to a record $565 million in 1982, up from $300 million in 1978. Approximately 4.5 percent of the state's agricultural and food products were exported last year.

Among the various aspects of exporting to be covered in the annual seminar include "Basics of Export Marketing - Agricultural and Food Products" scheduled for 2 p.m. on Oct. 3. The discussion will provide insight into the vital preliminary work involved in developing a successful exporting program.

Topics including financing, how to get paid for exporting, and the value of exhibiting in an international food show are slated for discussion. Panel moderator for the session is Donald Unangst,

Berks ag day is tremendous success

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

READING — It was fun and lots of laughs for all attending Ag Day on Penn Square in Reading on Thursday, Sept. 1, as Berks County farmers and agricultural organizations banded together to organize and run their "best ever" day of agricultural education and promotions.

The crowd was thick throughout the day as city neighbors strolled from the educational displays set up by the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, the Society of Farm Women, Red Wing Farms, and Penn's Agri-Women, to the Petting Zoo run by the 4-H clubs, and to the live steer, pig, and sheep, which were displayed for viewers to try for a prize by guessing the live weights and dressed amounts of meat.

However, Berks County farmers allowed no one to become bored while being educated. In the midst of the displays, three cows were on hand, a Holstein, a Guernsey, and a Jersey, for a milking contest between Berks County's and Reading's "big names". County Commissioners, Anthony Carabello, and Vernon Shaffer, Councilman Thomas Gajewski, and Edward Leonardziak, Greg Kretz from the Reading Eagle paper, Robert Minnich of WHUM, Dennis Collins, Berks County Conservancy, and Karla Roth and Anne Case, of the Chamber of Commerce formed the line-up. Teams were formed and the crowd gathered as there was some discussion as to which team got which cow.

"She looks like she has more milk", "This one stands still", "Aren't they going to show us how to do it first?", were some of the questions by the teams as they studied their cows. Master of Ceremonies was Jack Gounder from WEEU radio, who provided continuous light-sided dialogue on the event.

At the word "go" each member on the teams of three were given 15 seconds to milk their cow. Milk was poured into the teams jug and amounts measured for the winning

THE PURINA PRECONDITIONING/RECEIVING CHOW FEEDING PROGRAM

A PROFITABLE BUSINESS SOLUTION FOR FEEDLOTS

Calves arrive at your feedlot in a traumatic stress state. And, right away they undergo additional handling and stress. After all that, there's one feeding program that will help eliminate the stress and get calves gaining. And gaining fast—The Purina P/R Chow feeding program. Here's how:

- Calves like P/R Chow's form and taste, they go right to the bunk. And, get on Full Feed faster.
- P/R Chow's exact energy/roughage ratio plus AS 700 dramatically reduces the high cost of sickness and death.
- Calves gain 50 to 80 lbs. true gain in just three weeks.
- The P/R Chow start produces a faster finish.

This Fall, get on Purina's P/R Chow Feeding Program. Your calves will get a better start and finish faster. That makes you money and that's good business.

We'll tell you more about the P/R Chow Feeding Program and show you how it can increase your profits.

Ag-Bag System Compare and Save

Ag Bag Is The Authentic Feed Bag

Head chopping grain barley or wheat at 40% moisture almost doubles your feedable grain per acre. The protein and TDN is comparable to dry grain feed. Snapping the ears of corn and making earlage at 40% moisture is the best way to harvest your corn crop. The Ag Bag System feed savings has given back 1/2 acres with 2 types of feed. You can eliminate maintenance by using the Ag Bag permanent storage.

team. From the start, Jack Gounder, MC, pointed out the "one-hand" and "two-hand" methods for the crowd, and also pointed out an unsuccessful "two-finger" method. The crowd loved it and it was soon obvious that Commissioner Vernon Shaffer "had the knack" as he had the Guernsey's milk spurting into the bucket.

"We got it locked up", Shaffer announced as he held up his team's jug which was almost one-fourth filled and immediately declared the winner.

Not to be overshadowed by the victors, Jim Snively from the Boyertown Radio station WBYO, who was on the losing team milking the Jersey declared, "My theory is Jerseys give quality, not quantity". After the contest, the cows remained in place and everyone was invited to go up to them and meet them. They were a favorite with the many children and many seemed to appreciate their friendliness and quiet manner.

More laughs were in store when the Eastern Pennsylvania Pork Producers sponsored the "Pin the Diaper on the Pig Contest". Teams for this event included the outspoken Jack Gounder, WEEU; County Commissioner Donald Bagenstose; William Hughes, American Bank; Bill Eads, Germantown Savings; Herbert Wetzel, Berks County Extension Agent; Dwayne Pysner, ASCS; and Tony Grumm, Chamber of Commerce. As the pigs squealed when cornered and diapered, so did the audience as time and time again the small porkers managed to slip their diapers and run away. With a final wrestling with his pig in the shavings, Gounder managed to hold it for his team to make a last attempt at securing the diaper to win the contest.

Farmers were delighted as their ag promotion kept attracting more attention throughout the afternoon. For the Ice Cream Eating Contest, 15 participants were asked for and in addition to County Commissioner Donald Bagenstose in the running there were youth and adults from the public to try to beat him. Participants from the audience with big appetites were again sought for the Apple Dumping with Milk Eating Contest sponsored by the Berks County Fruit Growers, Ontelaunee Orchards, and the Berks County Junior Holstein Club.

There were plenty of chances throughout the day for the urban individuals to test their ag I.Q.'s and skills. The other contests included: Water Conservation Race, sponsored by the Berks County ASCS where participants had to run along a path with a cup of water balanced on their head, an Agricultural products I.Q. Contest, sponsored by the Berks County Farm Women, and the Berks County Cattlemen's Association, the Eastern Pork Producers, and the Berks County Sheep and Wool Growers sponsored the Guess the Weights Contest on their respective animals.

Berks County farmers can be applauded for this major promotional effort on their part. It was obvious that the city crowd loved the displays and events and the city officers appreciated the cleanliness of all the animals and the attractiveness of the displays. It was noted that this was the biggest crowd to date for the annual Ag Day which was moved up to August-September after previously being held in November.

The main objective for the Ag Day, in addition to promoting and educating, was to encourage city friends to take advantage of opportunities to know more about their food supply and to encourage them to take part in the annual Farm-City Week to be celebrated November 18 to 24.

Ag Day was sponsored by the entire Berks County Agricultural Community. Those directly contributing were Berks County Dairy Farmers, ice cream and milkshakes; Berks County Holstein Club; John Stump, Holstein cow; Carl Hollenbach, Guernsey cow; David Phillips, Jersey cow; Berks County 4-H clubs, Berks County Fruit Growers, Ontelaunee Orchards, Eastern Pa. Pork Producers, Berks County Society of Farm Women, Berks County Cattlemen's Association, The Equine Council, free horse rides; Berks County Sheep and Wool Growers, and Pennsylvania Farmers Association.

Pennsylvania State Grange for Tuesday, the poultrymen will call for a freeze on the expansion of foreign and corporate investment. They also want the Farmers Home Administration to provide loans at lower interest rates for family farm operations who limit their operations to 200,000 or fewer birds.

Attending Tuesday's session will be State Ag Sec. Penrose Hallowell, state legislators, and representatives of U.S. Congressmen and Senators.

Dairyman George Tubies, of Littlestown, for the second consecutive year is appealing his tax assessment, which doubled his tax bill from $740 to $1400 in 1982.

"I didn't pay the tax bill last year and now I have another one. Now, they're threatening to sell me out.

"I'm in the hole for $250,000 and for three out of the last four years my indebtedness has grown by $20,000 to $25,000 per year.

"This year, I have short corn plants, little ears and no kernels in them.

And, it's another $5,000 or $6,000 going to milk deductions.

"I'll be borrowing again to buy grain and hay if I want any milk from the cows.

"At last year's hearing, all I got was a lot of deaf ears. This year, they're giving me 20 minutes instead of 10".

Tubies said he has about a dozen farmers to go along to the hearing.

Sussex County Fair winners announced

AUGUSTA, N.J. — A featured event at the 1983 Sussex County Farm and Horse Show was the first annual sheep shearing contest sponsored by the county's Sheep Breeder's Association.

Winning the Senior Men's Division was Mik Brodhecker, Newton, N.J. Katherine Tyler, Glen Arm, Md., won the Senior Women's Division and Jeffrey Traver, Pleasant Valley, N.Y., won the Junior Men's Division.

For the contest, each contestant was required to shear two sheep using his own shearing equipment and a 50-foot extension cord. Both sheep had to be sheared for a possible 100 points from the judges.

Other winners were: Senior Men's Division, William MacCauley, Atglen, second; Senior Women's Division, Carla Kostelnik, Newton, N.J., second and Judy Watlerdorff, York, third; Junior Men's Division, Bill Ottaway, Pleasant Valley, N.Y., second, and David Albert, Trout Run, third.

In addition to the shearing contest, livestock and dairy shows were held. The results are as follows:

D 7807 features--combination of performance, convenience & value!

A — Efficient mechanical transmission. It's rugged, but quiet. And efficient, as only a mechanical can be. Column-mounted synchromesh shifting gives easy operation — and maneuverability, too!

B — Famous air-cooled engine. First time we've used the popular 913 series engine (featured in bigger DX models) to power an "07" model in the mid-size range! Larger displacement for long service life. Remarkable fuel economy for lowest operating cost. And exceptional lugging ability for the toughest jobs!

C — Practical convenience throughout. Hinged engine hood flips up and out of the way, for all-round access to engine area. Short turning radius makes the D 7807 as easy to handle as many smaller tractors.

D — Mechanically-powered front-wheel drive. Like all Deutz-Fahr tractors, the D 7807 offers the popular option of four-wheel drive (D 7807A) — with efficient, mechanical drive at the front! And now, with tread width adjustable to 60 inches, you can use Deutz-Fahr four-wheel drive for all-weather, all-crop versatility — even in 30-inch row crops!

E — High-capacity hydraulic system. Powered by tandem, engine-mounted, direct-driven pumps. Gives high lifting capacity and quick response over a wide range of applications.

F — The name is Deutz-Fahr! The new D 7807 brings our line to nine models, including those previously known as "Deutz" tractors. Now the name is Deutz-Fahr — with the same high quality, performance and fuel efficiency.

Singing Brook Farms show Pa. Holstein champ

BY PATTY GROSS MOCK
Staff Correspondent

HUNTINGDON—Singing Brook Farms, Imler, Queens Manor - Leadfield, Jamestown and Morrell Farms, Cochran, dominated the 1983 Pennsylvania Holstein Championship Show at the Huntingdon County Fairgrounds Thursday.

It was one of the largest championship shows ever held by the Pa. Holstein Association, as 247 of the most exciting animals from across the state entered the show ring.

Experience, knowledge and an excellent cow led Singing Brook Farms into the winner's circle many times. Judge Orton Eby (right) chose the five-year-old Singing Brook Astro Patty as the grand champion of the state Holstein show. Joining the winner are (left to right) Jim Garman, Bruce Snider and Obie Snider.

Bedford County showman Obie Snider and his family outdid all other exhibitors from across the state by winning the dam and daughter and the best three females classes. However the highlight of the seven hour show was the selection of Singing Brook Astro Patty as the grand champion female. That honor was possibly topped by the presentation of the premier breeder banner to Singing Brook.

The five-year-old champion daughter of Paclamar Astronaut is out of Singing Brook ML Pater. Patty was earlier named first in her class and also senior champion female.

Brilliant showing by Northeastern Pennsylvania exhibitors caught the eye of judge Orton Eby, Heritage Farm, St. George, Ontario. He chose the second place five year old entry owned by Ed Doeberiner, Robert Morrell and Tom Lyon as the reserve grand champion female. Queens Manor - Leadfield Associates captured the premier exhibitor honor.

All of the outstanding animals had proved themselves as the best prior to Thursday's showing. Queens Manor's Ed Doeberiner and Morrell Farm's Robert Morrell, as well as Obie Snider of Singing Brook Farms had performed exceptionally well during the past month by garnering many of the laurels in their regional shows.

Dyar-Acres Lorrie Quality, owned by 4-H member Rebecca Dyarman, won the youth senior and youth grand champions. James McMath exhibited the youth reserve senior and youth reserve grand champion female.

The youth junior champion female Holstein is owned by Queens Manor/Justin Edward Doeberiner, and Ernest Oakes, II showed the youth reserve junior champion.

A senior yearling heifer, Royal-Haven Quality owned by Lynn and Bonnie Miller earned the junior champion female rosette. Garden Acres Snowwhite, another senior yearling heifer, was awarded the reserve. The young animal was bred and owned by Marlene Baxter.

Boron studies in Del.

NEWARK, Del. — Delaware's humid weather and sandy soils create ideal conditions for boron leaching and crop deficiencies. Given the potential for leaching, scientists and area farmers have been puzzled by the frequent failure of corn plants to respond to added boron. Donald Sparks, a soil chemist at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, thinks the reason may be because organic matter is providing the missing nutrient.

To gather basic data on the behavior of boron in mid-Atlantic coastal plain soils, he and his advisee, master's degree candidate Clare M. Evans, looked at the way boron is bonded to and released from seven different Delaware soil types. Sparks says they undertook their study because so little is known about the behavior of boron in sandy soils.

They found that the adsorptive or bonding capacity of this highly soluble crop nutrient is related to the clay and organic matter present in the soil, and that high organic soils have a greater ability to retain boron than those with low humus levels.

"Corn doesn't require much boron," Sparks says. "It's possible that even the small amount of organic matter in Delaware's sandy soils is enough to give plants what they need."

He says he knows of only one other study on the kinetics of boron in the soil. That concerned only desorption (release from soil particles) and was conducted in California where too much boron in sometimes a problem. On sandy East Coast soils like those on the Delmarva peninsula, the difficulty is determining whether or not a deficiency exists.

"We haven't established that yet," says the scientist, "but Ms. Evans' work gives us a start. When we don't get a response to added B, we need to know why."

Area farmers who grow corn under intensive management — high plant populations and irrigation — probably would benefit most from this information. Boron, like other micronutrients, is expensive, yet producers feel they need to apply it because of its leachability and the fact that they are striving for maximum yields and can't risk a deficiency.

Evans presented a paper on this research during the national meeting of the American Society of Agronomy, August 14-19, in Washington, D.C.

Horse owners should be alert to EIA threat

HARRISBURG — Horse owners should be alert to the threat of Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA) during late summer and early fall months, when insect vectors of infectious diseases are at peak population levels, according to the state Agriculture Department. This is also the time of year when shows, fairs and other equine competitive events reach a climax.

Equine Infectious Anemia is an infectious viral disease of horses that results in anemia, intermittent fever, severe weight loss and sometimes death.

"EIA is sometime called swamp fever because of its association with areas infected with mosquitos and other blood sucking insects," said Dr. Max Van Buskirk, VMD, director of the department's Bureau of Animal Industry.

Five horses infected with Equine Infectious Anemia have been discovered in Pennsylvania during the past six months. In two instances, Dr. Van Buskirk said, the diagnosis of EIA in a clinically ill horse led to the discovery of an infected but apparently normal stable mate. The five animals were located in Butler, Perry and Dauphin Counties.

He said, "Horses sick with EIA typically have a sudden rise in temperature to 105 degrees F. or higher, often sweat profusely, breathe rapidly and appear depressed. Fever attacks may be intermittent or continuous as the disease progresses and anemia becomes severe, the animal will become weakened, and swelling of the legs and lower parts of the body often develop."

Some infected animals exhibit only gradual loss of weight and depression, while other never show any signs of the disease. Still other animals appear to recover but have recurrent relapses. "Equine Infectious Anemia is sometimes confused with influenza, equine encephalitis, horse tick fever and other diseases," Van Buskirk said.

EIA may be spread from horse to horse by biting insects. Blood transfusions and unsterilized equipment (knives, syringes, tattoo needles, and bleeding needles) previously used on infected animals clinically ill with the disease, it may also be present in apparently recovered or normal animals for long periods of time.

"Equine Infectious Anemia can be readily diagnosed by laboratory examination with the Coggins test," the director said. "The test reveals the presence of EIA antibodies even if the animal appears normal."

The Bureau of Animal Industry urges organizations conducting fairs, shows, races and horse sales to require all participating horses to be Coggins test negative within one year of the event. Anyone purchasing a horse is advised to insist that the horse be Coggins test negative within 30 days off purchase.

For additional information, contact your local veterinarian or the Pa. Dept. of Agriculture's Bureau of Animal Industry, 2301 N. Cameron St., Harrisburg, PA 17110, or telephone 717-783-5301.

KUBOTA®

The 76 HP KUBOTA
That Works Like 100 HP*

If you're looking for a 100 horsepower tractor, look at the Kubota M7950 instead. It's rated at 76 PTO.

But it works more like a bigger tractor. Because we build both our own diesel engine and fully synchronized speed transmission, the two are designed to work together perfectly. This exact match gives you a lot more pulling power.

And equipped with 4-wheel drive, you can get as much as 35% more pulling power. So take a look at the new Kubota workhorse, the M7950.

See What 4 Wheel Drive Will Do For You!

Company representatives will be on hand to answer any questions you have about Kubotas. Learn how Kubota can save you fuel and money.

It's a hot time in Blue Ball

BLUE BALL — It was a hot, old time in Blue Ball in more ways than one on Wednesday.

A sweltering September sun had afternoon temperatures pushing 90.

And beneath that sun, 20 tons of hot peppers were being loaded by Conestoga Valley Growers for shipment to Massachusetts.

Now, that's a lot of hot peppers — more than 1,500 bushels to be exact.

And, Lancaster County hot peppers — which may be the best cash vegetable crop this year among the Conestoga Valley Growers — are finding their way into delis, chili and subs throughout the country and even beyond.

"We've suddenly found a large market out there for the hot peppers," explains Lester W. Martin, of Conestoga Valley Growers.

"It has the potential to become a real good cash crop for our growers."

The growers have been hit hard this year by the drought and heat just like everyone else. For example, the cantaloupe crop was only about 15 percent of its potential.

"We had the demand for lopes," Martin said. But we didn't have them and many were small."

The growers are shipping three main varieties of hot peppers — Hungarian Wax, which look like the Sweet Banana and the round Hot Cherry. A few jalapenos were also grown.

Shipments this year went to places like Wisconsin, North and South Carolina, New York, Chicago and Scranton.

Approximately 70 acres of hot peppers were planted in Lancaster County, many in the southern portion near Quarryville.

Some of the peppers showed stress, being smaller and somewhat dehydrated. But other peppers were large and had the bright coloring, showing the effects of better management.

In a good year, hot peppers can yield 1,000 bushels to the acre with picking from mid-June to frost. This year, the wet spring delayed planting and picking by about a month. As a cash crop, they can bring $3.00 a bushel.

Fall weather will determine if the growers dig horseradish this year or wait until spring.

This year also pointed up the importance of irrigation in the Growers' program, according to Martin.

Martin explained that in addition to his own trickle system he also had the expense last year of a new well. But this year, it more than paid for itself a couple of times over, he explained.

Precast Concrete UPRIGHT BUNKER SILO

Featuring a single component design for fast installation and completion. The sections bolt together and the use of a sealant placed in the tongue and groove creates a sealed wall surface.

The sections may be dismantled and relocated. Customers may select any length or width in 5' 2" increments.

A special center wall is available to permit placing bunker silos side by side or dividing existing trench silos.

In addition to silage storage, these upright units may be used as retaining walls or manure pits.

Pa. International Trade Conference

director of the Bureau of Agricultural Development,
Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture

Actual implementation of a program will be addressed in "Advanced Marketing Program - Agricultural and Food Products" on Tuesday morning at 9:30 a.m.

Self exporting and utilizing the services provided by export management and trading companies will be addressed by Edmund Paige, director of the Eastern U.S. Agriculture and Food
Export Council.

Secretary Hallowell is president of the Council, which encompasses 11 northeastern states. EUSAFEC has been instrumental in sponsoring international food expositions in Atlanta, Ga., and the U.S. International Food Show set for New York City in April 1984.

One of the oldest, yet least understood trading practices is bartering. The process and role of bartering in the contemporary marketplace will be the subject of John Carpenter, vice president of International Commodities Export
Corp. He will also discuss commodity counter trade.

Moderator for these sessions will be Dwight Summers, president of Charles G. Summers, Jr., winner of the 1981 Governor's Export Award for Agriculture.

Foreign trade representatives will be available Tuesday, Oct. 4 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. to discuss marketing opportunities, sales, financing, distribution methods and other specific details of doing business in their countries. This is the first time the PITC has offered such a program.

The Pennsylvania International Trade Conference and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture are two primary sources of information for those commonwealth processors and producers wishing to send their goods abroad," said Secretary Hallowell.

Those interested in attending the conference should write Pennsylvania International Trade Conference, 42 South 15th Street, Suite 315, Philadelphia, PA 19102, or to Donald Unangst, Bureau of Agricultural Development,

4-H'ers Blossom With Donna's Coaching

BY BETH HEMMINGER
Staff Correspondent

When it comes to flowers Donna Duncan is in full bloom!

For 12 years, Donna has been the Cumberland County 4-H flower judging coach as well as the 4-H horticulture and vegetable teams coach. Both the horticulture and vegetable teams were organized later in Donna's coaching career.

Donna's career wasn't started in Cumberland County, though. Adams County's 4-H program claimed Donna as a coach for a few short years.

However, Donna and her husband, Duane, moved to Cumberland County upon his acceptance of the position of county agent of the Cumberland County Cooperative Extension Service. But, regardless of the move, Donna wanted to continue her involvement in the flower judging program—and did.

With a well-rounded 4-H program in the county, Donna had little trouble encouraging three plant-loving 4-H'ers to sign their name on the dotted line and become the 1971 Cumberland County 4-H flower judging team.

With only a few years of coaching under her belt, Donna was learning right along with her new-found team.

Donna remarked, "You kind of grow with the competition over the years, so to speak."

Donna recalled that her first team did quite well in the competition.

"They were all new at judging, I was still learning about judging, and they placed fifth in the state competition. I think it was quite an accomplishment for beginners," she said.

Over the years, the competition has changed and so has Donna. The state competition changes frequently in its pattern of questions and judging routine. While Donna hasn't changed frequently, but has grown from a novice coach of 12 years ago to a pro of the flower garden.

Few paid-professional coaches can claim what this one volunteer coach has done in the past 12 years. Donna has coached 12 flower judging teams, with six of those teams winning the first place medal in the state competition. With those six top-place teams, they have retired two trophies into the halls of the Cumberland County Extension Office. Once a county has claimed three years on the plaque it remains in the county. The trophies are engraved and presented to the yearly winners by the Dauphin County Council of Extension Garden Clubs.

What is the formula for such success? According to Donna and this year's winning team - hard work. Just to give an idea of the time and effort spent, the coach read over the past several months itinerary of the group. Their itinerary consisted of evening meetings once, or more likely, twice a week, attending fairs and judging the flower entries and visiting greenhouses and florists.

Donna remarked, "It takes a lot of hard studying to learn to identify flowers, answer management questions and place classes. The four-girl team nodded in agreement."

Donna explained specifically what the team learns during the months of preparation. The weekly practices begin with flower identification, which means the team must learn to identify over 100 annuals. Donna noted that not all the flowers are in bloom during the practice and judging months, and some are not easily grown in the area so each team member uses picture cards. The cards show a close-up of each flower, which enables the girls to identify all the 100 flowers either by petal, pistol or foliage. Along with the cards, Donna takes it one step further. She hunts down the real thing and tries to show the team what each flower looks like in the garden.

At the state competition, each member of the team has to identify only 30 flowers out of the 100.

The second part of the competition consists of questions on the management of the flower garden. The team studies over 100 questions, selected from flower and horticulture project books, but they only have to answer 30 questions at the competition.

And the final section of the contest consists of placing a group of house plants or flowers in a 1-2-3-4 class placing. Donna stated that the class placings are based on the marketability of the plant or flower at that time. Donna teaches the team good and bad marketability characteristics such as maturity of the plant, color, root systems, and overall appearance.

"This is not an easy task," Donna remarked. "The other parts of the competition have a definite answer, but the classes have a lot of variables and can be quite difficult."

The team nodded in agreement to their coaches statement, but they all had a gleam of happiness in their eyes.

The all-knowing coach saw this glint of joy and remarked, "They know their work is done and now they're ready and excited about planning their trip."

Yes, for Dede King, Deanna Otto, Brenda Wert and Andrea Gutshall the excitement is not quite over yet. All the long hours of studying, studying, studying have paid off. The first-place winners in the state 4-H flower judging competition are invited to attend the National Junior Horticulture Convention and participate in the activities. This year the team will be traveling to Tulsa, Okla. from October 28 to November 1. This is not an expense-paid trip for the team, consequently, they have to raise money through donations and fund raisers. However, said Donna, from past experiences with the other teams who travelled to Biloxi, Miss.; Salem, N. C., Atlanta, Ga., just to name a few, the convention and trip are well worth the efforts.

Donna stated that the trip is just not only for enjoyment, but quite educational. This year's team members will enjoy seeing a part of the United States they have never seen before, will learn about the vegetation and plant life of the mid-west and meet people who have interests and careers in the horticulture industry.

After 12 years of rigorous coaching activities, trip planning and organization, what next for this super coach?

Donna stated, "More of the same!"

Donna is also the coach for the 4-H horticulture and vegetable judging teams. The horticulture contest is much more involved in that the team has to learn to identify ornamentals, flowers, fruits and nuts, and vegetables along with answering management questions and placing classes in each of the four categories mentioned.

The 4-H vegetable judging contest follows the same pattern as the others, but only deals with vegetables. The team members must be able to identify vegetables from the roots, the plants, the fruit, and the seed.

Donna has also coached several of her horticulture and vegetables teams to winning the first place medal in the state 4-H competition.

However, right now her thoughts are on planning the trip to Tulsa, but once it is over it will soon be time to think of the next year's teams and Donna stated that she is ready.

"I find a great satisfaction in teaching the 4-H'ers about the beauty that is around them and how they should care for it and use it," Donna said. "Flowers, vegetables, fruits, nuts, ornamentals are always useful to some part of your life, now and later."

And as for the super coach, Donna Duncan, she said she will keep coaching as long as the 4-H'ers want her, and it appears that the kids do want her.

Here the Cumberland County 4-H flower judging team, first-place winners in the state competition, discuss the details of the trip to the Junior Horticulture Convention being held in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

September closeout specials on John Deere 40 Series tractors: finance charge waiver to March 1, '84, or up to $1,850 in lieu of waiver

The supply of new John Deere 40 Series tractors is going, going, and will shortly be gone. So to get the new tractor power size you want at Super Special savings, act real soon.

Sticker prices on 40 Series tractors date from 1981, meaning big initial savings for you on a tractor that'll perform with higher-priced 1983 competitors. And you'll get our good deal to boot.

Here's more. During September, finance your new tractor with John Deere and you'll save $100s or even $1,000s. Because purchases made by September 30 are eligible for finance charge waiver to March 1, 1984. Or you can get a cash

More yet. If you anticipate 1983 taxable income, buy your new 40 Series tractor now to take advantage of '83 Investment Tax Credit plus full-year depreciation to reduce your taxes. You'll shield income while greatly reducing actual cost of your new 40 Series.

Another option. Lease a new 40 Series tractor and lease payments will be discounted by an amount comparable to the finance charge waiver.* Use leasing to get modern power, plus tax advantages, even if your '83 taxable income is low.

MONEY OFF THE TOP TILLAGE DISCOUNTS

John Deere discounts these new tillage tools by 5 to 10 percent and waives finance charge to March 1, 1984

Just as you're getting into the fall/spring tillage season, John Deere announces a big dollar-saving offer on major tillage tools. Depending on the tillage tool you buy (see the chart), your dealer will deduct 5 or 10 percent from the latest base machine price. For example, the discount on an 18 1/2-foot 235 Disk would save you more than $1,100.

On any of these you can save even more by financing with John Deere. Finance charge will be waived to March 1, 1984, for qualified buyers.*

John Deere 8- to 16-hp lawn tractors make fast work of big mowing jobs

When you need to do mowing and other round-the-home chores quickly ride one of the magnificent seven from John Deere.

Choose the 16-hp 116 or 16H (hydrostatic). Both have a twin-cylinder aluminum-block engine with cast-iron cylinder liners for strength. A 38-inch and 46-inch version are available for each model. The 38-inch version mows an acre of lawn in about one hour. The 46-inch version, an acre in about 45 minutes.*

The 111 and 111H (hydrostatic) are powered by an 11-hp engine. Both have a 38-inch mower that will cut an acre in just over an hour.*

The 8-hp 108 features a synchro-balanced engine for smooth operation. It has a 30-inch mower that lets you mow about three-fourths of an acre in one hour.*

Handle your lawn mowing chores quickly this year. See us soon for a John Deere 8- to 16-hp lawn tractor.

*Estimated mowing time for tractor working continuously in wide open area without rear bagger. Mowing time may vary depending on operating conditions and terrain.

TIPS ON CANNING TOMATO SAUCE OR PUREE AND JUICE SEPARATION

Many home canners find it very practical to can tomato sauce or puree to use quickly in a variety of ways in family meals throughout the year. There are many different recipes for tomato sauce or tomato puree. Some have no seasoning except salt. Others are seasoned for spaghetti sauce or other special use.

SAUCE OR PUREE. All tomato sauce or puree that has no other vegetables and no meat added should be packed by the hot pack method of packing and processed in the boiling water canner. The length of processing time will depend on the consistency or thickness of the sauce. The thinner the sauce, the longer the processing time. Thin sauce should be processed as long as tomato juice - 35 minutes for pints and quarts. If you cook down the sauce until you have about half as much volume as you had when you started to cook and fill hot into jars, processing time in the boiling water canner need be only 20 minutes. When the sauce is this thick, it will round up on a spoon, rather than just remaining level with the top edge of the spoon.

For some tomato sauces or juice, you may want to add other vegetables such as onions and green pepper even though tomatoes make up the major part of the mixture. To do this, add these other vegetables to the tomatoes and cook them all together. Then press through a sieve to remove the seeds and skins. Pack hot and process in the pressure canner at 10 lbs. for 20 minutes for pints and 25 minutes for quarts. If such products are cooked into sauces first, (reduced to about half the original volume of the pulp you began with) then pack hot in pints or half-pints and process 35 minutes in a boiling water canner.

If you add meat to the tomato sauce, it must be processed in the pressure canner as should all meat. To do this, pack the hot sauce in the jars and process at 10 pounds for 60 minutes for pints and 1 hour and 15 minutes for quarts.

Catsup is normally even more concentrated than tomato sauce or tomato puree. In addition, it has a larger amount of acid, as either vinegar or lemon juice is added. Sugar and spices are also added. Therefore, a much shorter processing time is needed - 15 minutes in the boiling water bath is recommended.

Remember, when you can tomato sauce or tomato puree, it's important to consider the thickness of the sauce as well as what, if any, additional ingredients have been added. It's also important to follow modern directions and timetables for home canning these products. And if you have any doubt about the length of processing needed, it's better to overprocess rather than to underprocess.

AVOID JUICE SEPARATION. Separation in tomato juice does not indicate spoilage, but does detract from the appearance of the product. When tomatoes are cut, crushed or bruised, and exposed to air, the enzymes contained in the tomatoes are activated. These activated enzymes break down the natural pectins in the tomatoes and cause the juice to separate. Enzymes are quickly destroyed by heat, so the shorter the heating time the more you can minimize this action. It will also help to use firm, ripe tomatoes for making juice and fill the juice hot into jars.

To avoid excessive separation when making tomato juice, work with the amount of tomatoes you can process at one time. Start cooking after a few tomatoes have been cut into the kettle. Add other cut tomatoes to those cooking after a few tomatoes have been cut into the kettle. Add other cut tomatoes to those cooking and stir frequently until they are cooked - avoid overcooking. After putting cooked tomatoes through sieve, reheat the juice just to boiling before filling hot into jars.

Process tomato juice in boiling water 35 minutes for both pints and quarts.

WHAT MAKES A GOOD PACKED LUNCH?

School has already started in some areas, and most other districts will begin this coming week.

The cost of lunches jumped in many school districts last fall, and more families began packing lunches for their children. But what constitutes a well-balanced lunch, and what can you pack that your child will actually eat?

A good lunch should include protein, bread, a fruit or vegetable, and milk.

A sandwich of some kind is the school lunch classic, combining protein and bread in one neat package. Though many children prefer enriched or whole wheat sliced bread, you can try pita or "pocket bread" which is easy to fill and wrap, or vary the pace with a hamburger or hot dog roll stuffed with a favorite filling.

A change from the ever present sandwich might be a cold chicken drumstick or a thermos full of stew, soup or a mild chili. Be sure your child can purchase milk at school is the thermos is otherwise occupied. Add a roll or some crackers to go along with the chicken leg or stew.

Celery sticks stuffed with cream cheese or peanut butter; carrot sticks or sliced raw pepper travel well, too. Some fruits such as bananas or peaches tend to bruise in transit, especially when the transporter is an active elementary schooler. If your child objects to mushy fruit, try packing applesauce or canned fruit packed in light syrup in one of those small plastic containers with a tight cover.

Prepacked puddings, cakes and other snacks are convenient, but they offer little nutritional value and are hard on the budget.

What should you pack the lunch in? A lunch box, especially an insulated one, is a good investment. It will keep the food cold better than a brown bag, and since it's not subject to easy crushing, will keep the lunch in better condition.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Know what holiday we celebrate tomorrow? Grandparents Day.

In an age of reverence for everything youthful, it's refreshing that we finally publicly salute those precious treasures of childhood, grandparents.

The farmer, with a classic storybook memory of his early visits to grandmothers, still talks about raiding the cookie jar supplies that even today lure other generations of cookie monsters to that same pantry.

It was from his grandfathers' professions that his love for dairy cows first blossomed, then developed into a lifelong love of the milk industry.

From my grandparents, I think has descended a love of growing things, since I can still see both grandmothers' homes blossoming with lush greenery, and my grandfather's memory lingers in every pansy bloom that opens.

If you are blessed with grandparents nearby, as our family has been, you, too, probably feel the joy at having your children absorb those bits and pieces of ancestral lore, tales of relatives and a sense of security and love that is unique between generations of those related to one another.

While parents and children inevitably clash in the major and minor battles that erupt while nourishing a youngster from newborn to adulthood, a grandparent is generally a more non-threatening part of the family.

Grandparents demand less adherence to rules, less perfection, and have attained the wisdom of experience to know that sometimes play is more worthwhile than work, and simple fun is a gift that they can share.

A grandparent, for instance, can usually be conned into letting one stay up well beyond the rules of normal bedtime.

Grandparents know that snacks, sweets and various junk foods sometimes frowned upon by mothers, are important in the development of a well-balanced grandchild.

Grandparents are more tolerant of wall-to-wall toys, digging up the garden for fishing worms, jumping on beds, building forts with pillows and blankets and stopping in the middle of a busy day to play Monopoly.

Grandparents will find time in their schedules to read a storybook, rock you to sleep, take a walk, hunt for butterflies or just listen to silly riddles.

Grandparents are fun to take to amusement parks, fairs, and shopping because they also see the value in cotton candy, roller coaster rides and a new baseball glove.

They come in all sizes, shapes and colors, but nearly all models are equipped with soft, secure laps and arms with lots of "hug" in them.

A grandparent may misplace their glasses, but they'll always remember your birthday.

Their eyes have a magical quality of seeing through faces covered with baby food, mud-puddle residue, makeup experiments or over-long hair to see the angel beneath, lit by the faint glow of a halo hovering overhead.

Another way to spell grandparents is L-O-V-E.

Whet Their Appetites with Apples

Apples are grown in 34 of the 50 states. Their popularity arises from the fact that the crunchy fruit is good all by itself or whipped into a myriad of other dishes.

There is nothing like the aroma of a just-baked apple pie or the sweet smoothness of homemade applesauce.

And remember the old saying that an apple a day keeps the doctor away. As cold season approaches, the vitamin C abundant in apples is a real plus.

APPLE POTATO SALAD

2 tablespoons lemon juice
8 oz. sour cream
2 teaspoons minced dill
1 teaspoon salt
pepper to taste
1 cup diced potatoes, cooked
1/2 cup diced celery
1 onion diced finely
3 cups diced apples

Mix together first five ingredients. Wash, dry and peel apples - dice and add to sour cream mixture. Add potatoes, celery and onions. Cover and chill. Just before serving, sprinkle with pepper.

Mrs. Charles Wingert

APPLE FRITTERS

1 1/2 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg, beaten
3/4 cup milk
4 medium tart apples

Mix together and deep fry until brown.

Mrs. Charles Biehl

GOLDEN APPLE PIE

3/4 cup water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 cups apples (Golden Delicious preferred)

Cook until apples are almost tender. Add one cup of sugar. Cook for two more minutes. Blend 1/4 cup water two tablespoons of corn starch. Add to the juice. Cook until thickened. Pour in unbaked shell. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes, then at 325 degrees for 25 or 30 minutes more.

APPLE AND ALMOND CAKE

5 small tart apples
3 tablespoons water sugar to taste
2 cups ground almonds
2 whole eggs
1 egg yolk
1 egg white
1 1/4 cup sugar
1 lemon (grated rind only)
2 cups chilled heavy cream

In a saucepan, combine apples, peeled, cored and chopped, with water. Bring the water to a boil over moderately high heat and cook the apples, covered, until they are soft. Cook the mixture, uncovered, stirring until it is a thick puree. Cool. In a bowl, combine almonds with eggs and egg yolk, all lightly beaten. In a saucepan, melt butter and add sugar and the grated lemon rind. Stir the mixture into the almond paste. In a small bowl, beat the egg white until it holds stiff peaks and fold it into the batter. Transfer the apple puree to a nine-inch round cake tin one and a half inches deep, spoon the batter over the puree, and bake the cake in a preheated oven at 300 degrees for one hour. Turn the cake out on a rack and let it cool. Decorate with whipped cream.

Middletown

APPLE PUNCH

1 quart apple juice
1 cup pineapple juice
1 lemon
2/3 cup of sugar

Combine the ingredients. Chill and serve over ice.

Cook's Question Corner

ANSWER - In response to a request for pickled cherry peppers, Mrs. James P. McConnell, Blairsville R2, sent us this recipe.

Sweet Peppers, Oil and Vinegar

1 clove garlic
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoon oil

Put ingredients in a quart jar. Wash cherry peppers, prick with fork and put in jar with the above ingredients.

3 cups sugar
1 quart vinegar
1 quart water

Boil ingredients and add to peppers. Seal and process for 10 minutes. This can also be done with hot peppers.

ANSWER - Mrs. Alvin S. Fox, Ephrata, also sent us a cherry pepper recipe.

Pickled Cherry Peppers Stuffed

Take seeds out of peppers and blanch the peppers. Fill them with shredded cabbage and put into jars.

Syrup
1 cup vinegar
1 cup sugar
1 cup water

Boil ingredients together and pour over peppers. Cold pack for 15 to 20 minutes. This recipe can also be used for peppers without the stuffing.

Plant Bulbs for a Brighter Winter

Although sunny, summer-like weather is still with us, it won't be long until the cold days of winter begin to make their arrival known.

During those cold months, a touch of color and a dash of springtime can be a real day-brightener. Insure that pick-me-up by planting flower bulbs now to guarantee flowers in the winter.

Below are some suggestions.

CROCUS

Planting Suggestions
Crowd corms into small pots for a spectacular showing. Leave 1/4-1/2 inch between bulbs.

Pre-treatment

Water thoroughly after planting and place in refrigerator or cool spot for 2 months. Water periodically to keep the soil moist. Bring into a well-lit room for bloom.

DAFFODILS

Planting Suggestions

Plant 4 bulbs in an 8" pot, 6 bulbs in a 10". Leave bulb "neck" out of the soil.

Pre-treatment

Water well and place in cool spot for 2-3 months. Put pot on sunny window to flower.

HYACINTHS

Planting Suggestions

Full-size hyacinth bulbs should be planted 3 to 4 per pot. For dwarf varieties, plant 10-12 per 8-10" pot. Large blooms may need to be staked.

Pre-treatment

Water well and place in refrig or cool spot for 2 months. After cold treatment, set in partial sun for 1 week, then bring into full sun for flowering.

NARCISUS

Planting Suggestions

Fill ceramic ware with pebbles or small stones and position bulbs so they are securely in place. Initially, water so the bulbs are half covered.

Pre-treatment

Water so that the bottoms of the bulbs are continually wet. Store in cool spot for 2-3 weeks. Bring into a sunny location to induce bloom.

TULIPS

Planting Suggestions

Plant 4-6 bulbs in an 8" pot. Leave about 1" between bulbs.

Pre-treatment

Water well and place pot in cool spot for 3 months. Move to a cool, dark location for 1 week before bringing into full sun.

Potting mixture: 1 part sand, 1 part sterilized soil, 1 part peat moss.

4-H Fair

NORRISTOWN — The 1983 Montgomery County 4-H Fair included recently with a number of entries being selected as winners.

Among the educational club displays the Silver Pails 4-H Dairy Goat Club was given the champion ribbon. Among the individual 4-H horseless horse project members Beverly Jones, Royersford, received a champion ribbon with her display on horse nutrition.

In the pet care project Marcia Slater, Perkiomenville, won first place, while David Whitefield, Harleysville, received his in entomology.

A professional looking dried flower arrangement gave Kim Heacock, Perkiomenville, the champion award in that class. First year growers Brian Hankin, King of Prussia, Scott Taylor, Harleysville, and Heather Candy, Hatfield, combined their talents to win a champion award in the home garden project. Due to weather conditions, it was impossible to find sufficient vegetables to exhibit separately at their Heckler Farm garden site.

The wildlife project entries saw Janell Mensinger, Green Lane, taking first place while in rocketry, Brian Mensinger, Green Lane, won a Grand Champion award for his rocket model and Candy Heacock, Perkiomenville, a Reserve Champion ribbon.

Gail Senoski, Conshohocken, displayed a photograph album which gave her a champion ribbon in the photography project. Marcia Slater, Perkiomenville, won a first with an exhibit in the poultry project.

Five 4-H clubs entered their club scrapbook for competition. The Salford 4-H Community Club was judged the winner.

4-H members can, if there is not existing material, develop their own guidelines in a self-determining project. Debbie Fagley, Trappe, was awarded a Champion ribbon for her efforts.

GLASS-LINED STORAGE SYSTEMS NOW AVAILABLE TO FARMERS IN THIS AREA THROUGH HERSHEY EQUIPMENT CO. of LANCASTER

(1) CORRUGLASS™ BINS:

For high moisture grain and medium moisture forages, the other bins and bottom unloader with typical power driven sweep auger for grain storage or heavy duty chain unloader for forage and grain storage complete this system.

Both high moisture grain and medium moisture forages, the other bins and bottom unloader with typical power driven sweep auger for grain storage or heavy duty chain unloader for forage and grain storage complete this system.

OTHER FEATURES:

Both storage systems feature glass fused to steel wall and roof panels for maximum feed protection, and radius drawn roofs with 30 degree pitch for extra strength. Breather bags suspended in the roof provide an oxygen limiting environment for feed. The feed stays fresher longer and is more digestible, more palatable, and more nutritious. These systems are designed to cut feed losses — both quality and quantity, and allow growers to carry more animals on the same number of acres.

(2) OXYGEN LIMITING, GLASS-LINED SILOS:

These smooth wall silos are constructed of heavy gauge steel with a glass fused to steel coating permanently bonded to both sides of the sheets to give maximum protection against acids inside the silo and elements outside. Long's glass lined silos are designed for

(3) STOR-LIX™ LIQUID MANURE STORAGE SYSTEMS:

Stor-Lix tanks are constructed of glass fused to steel wall sheets for protection and durability. Long's Stor-Lix system helps to preserve the nutrient value of manure, helps to protect the environment, and affords livestock growers better management of their time, labor and equipment.

WE HAVE A WINNER!

After receiving more than 100 entries, we have a winner for our "Fall Weather" contest.

Etta Shirk, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Shirk, Ephrata R4, came up with about 240 words.

"I learned different words I didn't really know before," Etta said, "I worked on it in the evenings after the day's work was done."

Etta will be in eighth grade at Pleasant Valley Parochial School. She lives on a 76-acre dairy farm.

Thanks to everybody who sent us an entry. They all looked great. Another contest will be coming soon!

4-H Camp Brings Kids to College

Learning how to make pizza and milkshakes was a highlight of 4-H day camp at the University of Delaware. Here, Elizabeth Haldeman, Elkton, Md. carefully measures ingredients under the watchful eye of EFNEP nutrition aide Pearl Gatewood.

NEWARK, Del. — One hundred fifty area youngsters spent a recent week at the University of Delaware learning about everything from kites to computers. It was all part of a new program in 4-H day camping.

Camp at the university was much more than a babysitting service. Faculty and staff of the College of Agricultural Sciences taught minicourses in their specialties, from insect collecting to engine repair. Volunteer 4-H leaders and others shared their expertise in fields like photography, outdoor cooking, sewing, computers, and new games. Swimming, campfires, and singing gave some of the flavor of Camp Barnes in Sussex County, where Delaware 4-H holds its annual overnight camp.

Heather Brown, age 9, has every reason to smile. Her three-month-old Alpine goat walked away with reserve champion honors at the recent Elizabethtown Fair. Heather lives on Teat Treat Farm, Peach Bottom, where she and her family raise 25 goats.

Chester Co. Excels at Achievement Days

WEST CHESTER — The State 4-H Achievement Days held at Penn State University came to an end with the crowning of Chester County's junior livestock judging team as State Champions, and several outstanding individuals merited in other competitions. The solid junior livestock judging team of Phil Howe, Downingtown; Nancy MacCauley, Atglen; Rod Stoltzfus, Elverson, and Ken Walker, West Chester, finished 10th, 1st, 20th and 4th individually, placing them above all other competing teams.

Nancy MacCauley, daughter of William and Joan MacCauley, was high individual and is a seven-year member of the Golden Fleece 4-H Club. Along with brother Bill, a member of the 1982 state senior livestock judging team, and sister Donna, Nancy has become an expert showman of the family's Suffolk flock.

The senior livestock judging team of Ernie Barrett, Cochranville; Betsy Colket, Phoenixville; Doug Howe, Downingtown, and Glenn Stoltzfus, Morgantown, was the third place state senior team with Betsy and Glenn finishing 4th and 6th individually.

The meats judging team also excelled with a 4th place finish. Team members were, Don Cairns, Sadsburyville; Gred Davis, Coatesville, and Beki Finkey, Downingtown.

Chester County's horse judging team of Heather and Kim Hindle, Pottstown, and Brenda Werner and Floyd Zook, Elverson, finished second as a team in the State. Individually Kim, Heather, Brenda and Floyd place 4th, 31st, 7th and 24th, respectively. This team was a short five points behind the strong Berks County team.

According to Wilda Carr, the team's coach "This team's improvement has been evident throughout the 1983 season over 1982. From 21st in 1982 to 2nd in 1983 shows what a strong team we have. And they improve with each training session."

Other's who excelled during 4-H State Achievement Days were David Thompson, Glenmoore, as 5th place senior male in the physical fitness competition;

Howard Mark, West Grove, 2nd place orienteering individual; Josh Weinstock, blue ribbon for photography demonstration, and Sarah Holmes and Cathy McAllister finished 9th and 11th, respectively, in vegetable judging. Chester County also had individuals and teams participating in clothing and textiles judging, dairy judging, horse bowl and poultry judging.

Montgomery Co. Holds 4-H Dairy Show

Winners of the senior showman contest for 4-H'ers 14 years and older were Kathleen Kopistecki, William Seipt, Robert Waltemyer, Diane Halteman, and Drew Derstein, Hatfield. Winners of the junior showman contest for ages 9-13 were Thomas Halteman, Telford; Amy Wolfgang, Gilbertsville; Paul Gehringer, Bally; Brenda Wolfgang, Gilbertsville, and Abigail Keener, Telford.

Winners of the senior fitting division were Diane Halteman, Margaret Slater, Perkiomenville; Kathleen Kopistecki, Robert Boyer, Perkiomenville, and Tricia Curtis, Pennsburg. Winners of the junior fitting division were Sara Keener, Telford; Susan Curtis, Pennsburg; Susan Slater, Perkiomenville; Lamar Stutzman, Schwenksville, and Brenda Wolfgang.

Kids to College

Koeller did some experiments on seeds and learned how to propagate plants through cuttings in 4-H agent Jim Moore's plant science class. She thinks she'll try it at home, and is considering joining 4-H club to learn more.

Aaron Wilhelm, Hockessin, learned how to shoot an arrow and how to shear a sheep.

Chad Nelson and Vicki Wilkins, both of Newark, are 4-H members who had already spent a week at Camp Barnes earlier in the summer, and they were eager for more. Cooking class was a highlight for Vicki. Chad was interested in Professor Dewey Caron's entomology class, and working with the university computers.

Developing film and making deviled eggs were two new skills for 4-H'er Jennifer Bachman, Newark. Pere Brooks, also of Newark, had a chance to milk a cow and saddle a horse. Her neighbor Kara Credell learned two new stitches and made a treasure pouch to wear on her belt.

Jennifer Timko didn't even have to leave home to attend camp. She lives with her family on the university farm, where her father works. Camp gave her a closer look at the agricultural operations she sees going on around her every day. For instance, she had seen a baler before, but never knew what it was. Now she knows how farmers get all that hay into perfect rectangles. Jennifer took a class called 4-H Way which will help prepare her for joining a club in the fall.

There were also visits to the university's solar house, where Dr. Ken Lomax taught about electricity. Animal visitors came from the Brandywine Zoo, SPCA, and Brandywine Creek State Park. And a special safety program on "stranger danger" was sponsored by the Newark Police and Girls' Clubs of Delaware. Children who had their parents' permission were fingerprinted, and the fingerprints were sent home to serve as identification should the need ever arise.

For the kids, their parents, and the faculty, 4-H day camp was a great success. When the Class of 1995 enters the University of Delaware, it will be interesting to see how many budding agricultural scientists had their interest piqued during a week at 4-H day camp in the summer of 1983.

4-H'ers Participate in Exchange

NEWARK, Del. — Eleven 4-H members and three adults from Davidson County, N. C., spent a recent action-paced week visiting their counterparts in New Castle County, Del.

For 14-year-old Gary Snyder, the memorable experiences of the week included a visit to Baltimore's Inner Harbor with its submarine, Science Center and National Aquarium; seining (fishing with a large net) from the University of Delaware's Marine Studies boat off the coast of Lewes; and chasing his hat down the boardwalk in Rehoboth Beach. Another highlight was picking up the governor's telephone during a tour of the state capital.

Advisors Valerie and Luther Owen, who came with their son Tracy, had praise for the Delaware 4-H host families. They also pronounced the local scenery beautiful, and not too different from their home county in the Piedmont. Neither could they detect any big difference between the New Castle County accent and their own Southern drawl.

"When we visited New York last year," one teen explained, "everybody ribbed us about our accents - but not here in Delaware!"

The experience was an enjoyable one for all concerned.

"We tried to give our guests a good educational experience," said University of Delaware Extension 4-H Agent Jim Moore. "We introduced them to our government in Dover, the Dover Air Force Base, our marine environment and our local agriculture. We also picked up plenty of ideas from each other about 4-H."

The Bou-Matic® Computerized Feed Management System . . .

Through computerized feeding you can tailor your concentrate consumption on a cow-by-cow basis and regulate the maximum amount of concentrate consumed in 12 daily feeding periods. With this means of control, your cows can be fed according to their production—not demand. This eliminates overfeeding of low producers which results in better feed cost management and also provides high milk production.

The Bou-Matic® Computerized Feeding System offers simplicity of use, cost effectiveness and record keeping printouts needed by even the most advanced dairymen—for a total feed management program.

From total herd adjustment by group (in one easy step), to individual cow tailoring of one or both feed rations, Bou-Matic's Computerized Feeding System can demonstrate the favorable economics of individual cow feeding management.

Camera, computer rate beef

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A video camera and computer are telling meat researchers how much lean and fat meat are in beef carcasses.

At the experimental stage now, the video-computer analysis may become a new electronic technique for meat grading by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said Terry B. Kinney, Jr., administrator of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

Kinney said the system, called a visual image analyzer, could help the meat industry assure consumers they will get the leanness in beef they desire.

That's because the automated technique may offer a new degree of accuracy and consistency in predicting the lean and fat content in beef, reported H. Russell Cross, food technologist at the research agency's Roman L. Hruska Meat Animal Research Center in Clay Center, Neb.

In laboratory tests, the technique was estimated to be 93.6 percent accurate in its measurements of the lean and fat content of the ninth, tenth and eleventh ribs of the carcass, which is an indicator of its leanness.

USDA meat graders, in the current system, measure visible areas of lean and fat of the twelfth and thirteenth ribs and then apply an equation to predict the total content. This conventional way of determining the same measurement was 84 percent accurate.

Similar studies on a larger scale in meat packing houses are needed, Cross said, to confirm the analyzer's accuracy and speed.

Cross said the analyzer resulted from several years of research on automating meat grading. Collaborating in the work were Clay Center animal scientists and Kansas State University engineers who developed the analyzer under a contract with the research agency.

Fulmer Wears Dairy Crown

NORTHAMPTON — Susan Fulmer, 18, was recently crowned the 1983 Northampton-Lehigh Dairy Princess. She is the daughter of Robert Fulmer, Pen Argyl. Susan works as a secretary for an insurance company and is the owner of 17 Holsteins.

4-H'ers Attend Achievement Days

NORRISTOWN — Thirty-four 4-H club members from Montgomery County took part in State 4-H Achievement Days held recently at Penn State University. They competed with some 1,800 other boys and girls in judging, demonstrations, public speaking, and consumer education events.

Awards to Montgomery County 4-H'ers were announced by Dr. Maurice Kramer State 4-H Program Director.

The clothing and textiles team made up of Debbie Fagley, Trappe; Carole and Kathy Yarnall, Gilbertsville, finished seventh place out of 25 teams and were awarded blue merit award ribbons. For their consumer education presentation, Bridget Faulkner and Janet Carney, both of Lansdale, were awarded fifth place and red merit award ribbons. The consumerama team made up of Candy Heacock, Perkiomenville; Leslie Bartholomew; Royersford; Mike Wentling, Philadelphia, and Michele Wilsey, Lansdale, were awarded white merit award ribbons for their performance.

Hildie Block, Lansdale, was awarded a blue merit ribbon award in public speaking. For his demonstration, Chip Kinsky, Lansdale, was awarded a red merit ribbon award.

The physical fitness team made up of John Stewart, Collegeville; Jill Justofin, Lansdale, and Angela

Bernatos, Schwenksville, was awarded 14th place, with Bernatos placing second in the senior girl division and receiving a blue merit ribbon award.

The horse judging team, finishing 12th place out of 35 teams, was made up Jerry Longworth and Joe Guzman, both of Landsale, and Mike and Susan Papp, Limerick.

In the livestock judging contest, Bernadette, Steve and Phil McMahon, Green Lane, and Steve Pierson, Norristown, placed ninth out of 29 teams, with Pierson and Steve McMahon receiving individual red and white merit ribbon awards, respectively.

The riflery team consisting of Michael Jennings, Schwenksville; David Fiorito, King of Prussia, and Charles Werkheiser, Norristown, placed 11th, with Werkheiser receiving a white merit ribbon award.

The dairy judging team made up of Karen Haldeman, Telford; Mik Hetrick, Macungie, and Kitty Kopistecki, Royersford, received 14th place.

Karen Bradshaw, North Wales, Jody Carney, Lansdale, and Cindy VanArsdale, Hatfield, competed in the State Fashion Revue wearing clothes they made this year.

Others participating were Janet Hodgson, Maple Glen, Debbie Waldsberger, Collegeville, and Holly Compton, Norristown, making up the horse bowl team.

"THE EXECUTIVE" 8085

SERIES II

Computer Controlled Dairy Feeding System

- Feeding Savings
more dollars over feed cost
- Improve Herd Health
- Simple Installation
- Program Each Cow to receive the amounts of feed as compared to production
- Easy To Operate

Efficient feeding = Higher PROFITS

Group feeding is costly and inefficient. To maximize your profits, you've got to supply each cow with the exact amount of feed she needs to maintain her milk production level. The computerized Selective Feeder Executive 8085 System lets you do just that. It's so effective, most dairymen find the system pays for itself in reduced feed bills and increased production in less than a year!

It's simple

You determine a daily feeding allowance for each cow by programming the computer to dispense a certain amount of feed during each 6, 8 or 12 hour cycle. You choose a unique ration for each animal by mixing supplement and base rations with the computer.

- Each cow wears an inexpensive, reliable identification tag.
- Cows can feed at any feeding station.
- Feeding auger automatically stops when cow steps away.
- Each cow receives only the amount of feed you have programmed for it.

Money-saving management tool

You can get a printout from the Executive 8085 at any time. Each printout gives you the valuable feed management information:

- Amount of feed programmed for each cow
- Amount of feed dispensed to each cow, this cycle
- Amount of feed dispensed to each cow, this month
- Summary of previous cycle.

You can quickly spot problem cows by asking the computer to print out all cows not eating 75% of their programmed ration.

Total herd management system

For a total dairy management system, connect your Selective Feeder System with our Zenith Farm Management System. Readouts are available in your office on the Zenith computer. Optional software programs allow you to integrate health, breeding, production and feeding management programs in one computer system. For more information write for free product literature.

THANKS TO OUR NEW LEASING PLAN YOU CAN SWITCH TO HIGH-MOISTURE CORN RIGHT NOW WITH A GRAIN-O-MATIC® BY MADISON SILOS® & SAVE MONEY
WHILE YOU CONSERVE CASH!

HERE ARE SOME OF THE ADVANTAGES OF LEASING

1. Less cash needed "up front" — You pay for the equipment as it produces income, not up front as you would with conventional financing.
2. Bank lines are not reduced — When credit is tight, the more of your bank credit line you keep intact, the better!
3. Improved Return on working capital — You get greater net profits from your new Grain-O-Matic and high-moisture corn.
4. A hedge against inflation — Future payments are made with deflated dollars.
5. Improved liquidity — A lease is not carried on a financial statement as a liability.
6. Tax deductible — Lease payments are 100% tax deductible, resulting in reduced tax obligations and improved cash flow.

Dairy Champs Reside in Berks County

By Robin Phillips
Staff Correspondent

HAMBURG — Berks County and the top teams and individuals in dairy bowl and dairy judging contests, they've been one and the same these past few years. Berks County is the home of some intelligent, hard-working, dedicated 4-H youth, and they have once again shown what Berks County "dairy kids" can do.

The annual Junior Dairyman of the Year Contest was held in conjunction with the Eastern National Livestock Show on Sept. 1 in Timonium, Md. Sponsored in part by the Elisabeth Ingalls Gillet Foundation, Mountain Brook Farm, Taneytown, Md., and supervised by Diane Garst Flickinger, New Windsor, Md., and Tracey and Janet Stiles, Clearbrook, Va., the contest is open to 4-H or FFA youth between the ages of 14 to 19 years from throughout the states. Youth can compete as members of a team or individually. Contestants are required to judge classes of dairy helpers, steers, cows and goats.

They also undergo two written tests, identify dairy products, the parts of a milking system, grains, and evaluate feedstuffs. They must answer sheets of questions concerning management problems, nutrition, reproduction, animal health, and genetics. Ribbons and plaques are awarded to the high individuals and teams after points are tallied. The high individual in the contest receives a $1,000 scholarship to be used for further education or as an investment in dairy projects of his choice.

The tests are tough and the kids go through an entire day competing for this scholarship. Scoring is on a point system and after the top 10 are selected, additional interviews with specialists in the fields of veterinary medicine, nutrition, management, and a general interview are required from these participants.

Dr. Carl Brown, F.M. Browns Sons, and Dr. George Merrill, veterinarian with Willow Creek Animal Hospital, have been working with and coaching the Berks County 4-H teams in dairy bowl and dairy judging and knew that they had "tough teams to beat." Of these individuals, Patricia Dreisbach, Carol Dreisbach, William Leshar, Mark Price, Harold Dietrich, Charles Seidel, Sandy Moser, and Ann Kopfer traveled with Dr. Merrill to Maryland to try for the "Junior Dairyman of the Year."

What were the results? Berks County sent its finest, and as William Leshar, Bernville, son of

"She can back wagons real well, that really impresses the fellas," Helene Dreisbach stated proudly of her daughter, Patty.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Leshar, Way-Har Farms, stated. "They know we're there after we leave," when Berks County youth came away with seven of their eight in the top 20 and the eighth in 21st place.

Going home and dropping the check for $1,000 in her mother's lap to get her attention, was Patricia Dreisbach, Hamburg, R3, the oldest daughter of Dr. Robert and Helene Dreisbach, of Longmeadows Farm.

Second place went to William Leshar, Bernville, R1, while third place went to Patty's sister, Carol Dreisbach. Fifth place went to Sandy Moser, Bally, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne Moser. Eighth place went to Mark Price, Douglassville, R1, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jere Price, and 12th place went to Ann Kopfer, Fleetwood, R1, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kopfer. Taking 14th place was Harold Dietrich, son of Harold and Diane Dietrich, Hamburg, R1, and 21st place went to Charles Seidel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Seidel, Lenhartsville.

These Berks County youth

formed two teams of three and the last two of the "entire team" entered individually.

"It wasn't so much an individual thing as it was for the county, that we went down there," Sandy Moser stated.

She added that they were the only individuals there that cheered and clapped when anyone from their team placed high. As Patty and Carol stated, "When it came to announcing the last three places, we all started screaming," when they realized the last three names to be called were Berks County.

Berks County claimed the Junior Dairyman of the Year in 1982 when Debbie Price, Mark's sister, won the title, and the County team gives her a lot of the credit this year for encouraging them and pushing them to enter.

The 1983 Junior Dairyman, Patricia Dreisbach, currently stands at the top of her class. A vibrant and enthusiastic spokesperson for the dairy industry, Patty takes an active role in the family's Jersey farm, THINKING FORAGE HARVESTER THIS FALL?

THINK SPERRY NEW HOLLAND AND GET EXTRA VALUE FEATURES
PLUS A CASH BONUS AND WAIVER OR LOW INTEREST!

Giant capacity.

FROM THE BIG CAPACITY "WHOPPER CHOPPER" TO THE MOUNTED MODEL 707, SPERRY NEW HOLLAND HAS A HARVESTER WITH THE CAPACITY FEATURES AND PRICE TO MEET YOUR NEEDS

The heart of the 250 hp Model 1900 chopper is a massive 12-knife cutterhead that's 25 1/2 inches wide. Exclusive underbeveled knives never need rebeveling. And the exclusive Metalert™ electronic metal detector prevents costly damage to the cutterhead by detecting ferrous metal objects and stopping the feedrolls and at tachment drive before they reach the cutterhead. Exclusive flip-up feedrolls make shearbar adjustment easy. Exclusive interchangeable cropheads are ideal for the farmer/rancher who chops both windrowed crops and row crops. Stop in soon and let us show you all the features on both Whopper Choppers — the Model 1900 and the 325-hp turbocharged Model 2100.

Maneuverable.
Reliable.
Affordable.

The Sperry New Holland Model 707 forage harvester is an economical tractor mounted harvester that provides exceptional traction in wet fields. It features a 54 inch Super Sweep pickup. A one row cornhead is also available. Why not buy the best?

Heavy duty from hitch to spout.

The Model 782 is built for heavy-duty performance. The 12-knife cutterhead chops uniformly, without a recutter screen. But for special crops and conditions, recutter screens are available. Check these outstanding features:

Exclusive underbeveled knives eliminate the need for rebeveling.
 Flip-up feedroll makes shearbar adjustment easy.
 Choice of 540- or 1,000-rpm driveline.
 Big choice of cropheads, including windrow pickup, one- or two-row low-profile cropheads, sicklebar and one-row, ear-corn snapping head.

There's no competition

The Sperry New Holland Model 1600 is, without question, the biggest-capacity pull-type forage harvester you can buy. In fact, it can out-cut most self-propelled forage harvesters for about one-third the cost.

If you have a big horsepower tractor, and want to get more return on your tractor investment, the Model 1600 is definitely for you.

It'll handle three-row or four-row wide and narrow cornheads as well as windrow pickups. It can also be equipped with a four-row ear corn snapper head. Stop in for more details on the Model 1600. It's the newest member of North America's best selling forage line.

Festival was a 'Peachy' Event

By Joyce Bupp
Staff Correspondent

GATCHELVILLE—Labor Day weekend was a peachy three-day event for the Paul and Gail McPherson family, as their 9th annual Maple Lawn Farms Peachilicious Festival pulled in record attendance crowds.

While the hot dry weather that has favored peach production continued, some 8500 visitors to the orchard and grain operation tapped their toes to country music, browsed through craft displays and ate - what else - lots of peaches.

Eating, in fact, is a favorite pastime at the unique peach celebration, originated by the McPherson family. Foods offered spotlight local farm commodities while incorporating peaches into each recipe in some manner. Peach pies, 670 of them, were either eaten on site or carried home by festival goers. Bakers of the popular peach pastries represented local church and community charitable organizations.

York County's Pork Producers roasted and sliced several hundred pounds of pork seasoned with a peachy sauce, serving over 1700 hot pork-n-peaches sandwiches. On hand to help with the sales were members of the York 4-H meats-judging team, who will travel to national competition with the funding assistance of the peachy-pork sandwich sales.

Other farm commodity favorites included fresh peaches and ice cream, hot dogs with peachy sauce, beef barbeque, peachy funnel cakes and chocolate chip cookies.

Craft displays ranged from oil paintings to woodworking to lapidary treasures, with artists including peach tole work, peach pit ornaments, and decorative peach-shaped items.

While peach season has been in full swing for several weeks, harvest of the "queen of fruits" is expected to continue strong for at least two or three more weeks, according to Paul McPherson.

"Peaches are abundant, and there should be lots left in the area for a few more weeks," McPherson assures fruit lovers who still plan on further canning, freezing, preserving, or just delicious eating.

The veteran orchardist adds that the dry weather which has shriveled fields of corn, hay and beans has favored peach production, resulting in a superb growing year for the fruit.

The wealth of hot, dry conditions raised the solid content and concentrated sugars in the fruit, increasing the flavor and resulting in high quality yields. Firmness of the fruit also causes less bruising damage during handling of the peach harvest.

Fungus diseases, which favor prolonged stretches of wet weather, have been kept at a minimum with excellent drying conditions. Like many growers, Maple Lawn irrigates the peach crop, but moisture on the fruit evaporated quickly and rarely lingered on the trees long enough to foster bacterial growth.

Random showers that crossed York County also boosted the crop,

McPherson believes, adding enough moisture to later varieties to finish peaches to a desirable size. Earlier extreme dry weather had created some sizing difficulty with certain earlier varieties.

Peach varieties being harvested through the remainder of the month are Red Skins, Rio Oso Gems and Marqueen.

Gladys Locke, tole artist from Bel Air, Maryland, designed peach paintings for her display of original creations at the Peachilicious craft barn.

Labor Day was just that for Paul McPherson and his orchard and sales staff, as they worked feverishly to keep a supply of fresh peaches on hand at the Peachilicious Festival.

Horticulture Show Scheduled

UNIVERSITY PARK — Widely known and often visited are the colorful flower gardens at Penn State University — site of the 70th annual Horticulture Show to be held September 17 and 18.

This year's theme is "Horticulture, The Science Artfully Yours." On display will be floriculture, vegetable, fruit, and ornamental crops. These exhibits will emphasize the art and science involved in horticulture.

Hours of the show will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. September 17, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. September 18. Sponsored by the Penn State Horticulture Club, the event will be held in a large tent in the flower gardens along Park Avenue (University Drive). Admission is free and parking will be available.

Co-managers of the 1983 Horticulture Show are Louis A. Bec-Cari and Carl A. Huttel. Louis, from Oakdale, is a junior majoring in pomology. Carl, a senior from Erie, majors in general agriculture. Faculty advisors for the Horticulture Club are Dr. Roland R. Daniels, associate professor of horticulture, and Dr. Ernest L. Bergman, professor of plant nutrition, both in the department of Horticulture.

Exhibits at the Horticulture Show will include fruits, ornamentals, floriculture, and vegetables. Designing the fruit exhibit are David J. Quatchak and Ruth E. McCullough. David, a senior from Pittsburgh, majors in plant breeding, and is the president of the Horticulture Club. Ruth, a senior from Asheville, NC, studies floriculture, and is the secretary for the Horticulture Club.

The ornamental exhibit will be designed by James L. Beletti and Paul W. Neirotti. James, a senior from Cochranville, and Paul, a junior from Levittown, both major in ornamental crops. Alan D. Jones, Oxford, and Joseph C. Donchez, Bethlehem, both juniors majoring in plant breeding, are in charge of the floriculture display.

Coordinators of the vegetable display are Richard C. Craig, Jr., and Christian T. Pedersen. Richard, a State College native, is a junior studying horticulture business. Christian, from Zurich, Switzerland, is a senior horticulture student.

The Horticulture Show will also feature plant sales and an exhibit by Pi Alpha Xi, an honorary professional fraternity in floriculture and ornamental horticulture. The Pi Alpha Xi exhibit will be done by Lisa A. Blomquist, a senior from Meadville, studying greenhouse management.

Plant sales will be managed by Lisa J. Ferrera, Richard C. Craig, Jr., and Paul C. German. Lisa, Pittsburgh, and Richard, State College, are both juniors studying horticulture business. Paul, a senior from Pittsburgh, majors in horticulture genetics.

A Horticulture Show booklet will be distributed to visitors. Advertising in the booklet was compiled by Darlene M. McConaughy, a junior from Smicksburg. Darlene majors in horticulture business and industry.

feeding calves, relief milking, and helping out whenever needed.

"We unload tons and tons of hay," she added as her mother laughed and stated that Patty did win the hay bale throwing contest at the recent 4-H days in the county.

Patty is a senior this year at Hamburg Area High School and plans to attend Virginia Polytech. She plans to return to the home farm and pursue a career in ag journalism. Currently a member of the National Honor Society, Patty is also president of the Pennsylvania Junior Jersey Cattle Club and reporter in her Hamburg FFA Chapter. She also serves as the 1983 Jersey Queen for the Pennsylvania Jersey Cattle Club.

"I thought I did OK," Patty stated about the contest. "I made the mistake of tasting urea," she added.

Most of the girls agreed that the feedstuff part of the contest was the hardest and they credited Carl Brown for their knowledge. Patty added that at their practice session Monday, before the contest, Carl brought a variety of feeds and coached them thoroughly. He said that if you taste urea, there was no mistaking what it was, Patty remembered. "Wow," she exclaimed as she explained how right he was.

"The hardest for me was the Hoard's Dairymen questions," Patty continued as she explained that all questions were taken from the past year's issues of Hoard's Dairymen magazine. "I really had to dig deep," she stated.

For second place honors there was a tie between William Leshar and Carol Dreisbach, with William winning the tie breaker. William is currently preparing for the National FFA judging contest in Kansas City, where his team, currently tops in the state, is hoping to win the national title. Team members are Clark Satzahn and Glenn Stoltzfus.

"Just about everywhere we go we clean up," William said of his Berks County associates.

William, along with Carol Dreisbach, was on the Berks County dairy bowl team last year and finished their year as second in the nation.

The current dairy bowl team on which Sandy Moser has a place, is fourth in the state. Patty Dreisbach, Charles Seidei, and Harold Dietrich recently took first place at the state level for their dairy judging team, and all of the eight who went to Maryland have placed high in any dairy contest they entered.

"We knew when we went there the biggest competition we would have would be each other," Patty stated. "Whenever we see each other....we talk about cows all the time."

When asked if their parents helped at all in preparing for this contest, Patty replied, "Yes, my gosh, the practical experience...."

Helene Dreisbach added her comments.

"It's listening to what we talk about at the dinner table," she said, adding that the families that these 4-H'ers come from are all active, interested dairy families, where their cows are their lives.

Wayne Leshar, William's father, belongs to the Milk Producer Handlers of America and participates on national phone conferences. William stated that this also helped him in the milk marketing area, since he often gets to listen in on the conferences.

Each of these youth had their own ideas for bettering the dairy industry.

Patty Dreisbach stated that we should "improve quality first," and added that more advertising and improved handling must come second. Milk should always be cooled properly, and cardboard boxes should be replaced.

Of the interviews where each student was asked about his thoughts on the milk surplus and dairy situation, William stated, "That was the best part of the whole contest....that really tests your ability...talking one on one."

I'm really up on that," he added, and said that he completed a term paper on the subject. He said the problem is more under consumption than it is over production and believes that farmers should not be asked to cut back.

"That's the whole goal of farming, to produce to make money," he stated.

Chalk Up Another Win for Helen Miller, Lebanon's Flower Champ

BY KIMBERLY HERR

LEBANON — Guess who walked away from the Lebanon Flower Show with the best of show, sweepstakes honors and 15 blue ribbons?

It's no surprise. Of course, it was Helen Miller.

After all, since 1961, she has won best of show at the Lebanon show 15 times, sweepstakes, which means the most blue ribbons in all categories, 20 times, 363 blue ribbons and 176 red ribbons. She does not even bother to count ribbons that are not red or blue.

"As soon as the show is over, I start thinking about the next year," Helen said, and her planning pays off year after year.

This year, she won best of show with a "fancy leaf" begonia. The leaves, which are perfectly formed and have no signs of browning, measure about one foot in length.

It is a risky business, however, getting that one plant that will win awards. Helen raised three "fancy leaf" begonias, hoping that she would be able to enter one.

"You never know until the last minute what will be nice," Helen explained.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that flower and plant growing is luck, however. Helen will quickly correct you.

"People might think it's luck,"

Helen laughed, "but it's really a lot of hard work. People don't realize how much work there is."

For example, Helen's pet peeve when getting a plant ready for a show is cleanliness.

"I wash off every leaf," Helen said. "Then I dip it in soapy water and rinse it."

This is no small task when the number of leaves on one plant is considered.

Helen has no special training in flower arranging or horticulture, although she has read many books and has had much practice.

Her love for plants and flowers began when she was a little girl. She explained that she enjoyed going away as a child just so she could see other people's flowers.

She did not join the Lebanon Flower Club until the early 1960s, after she quit her job as a supervisor at J.C. Penney.

She explained that she decided to enter the flower show in the 1960s when she was looking at different exhibits and thought, "I have better than that at home."

"I decided I was going to take a chance," Helen said.

Helen was president of the Lebanon Flower Club in 1961.

Today, Helen's home at 1021 Quentin Road, Lebanon, reflects her love for plants. In addition to the growing vegetation, there are pictures and plaques of flowers hanging on the wall of her living and dining rooms. And stepping out of Helen's back door is like entering another world.

Helen Miller has been a winner at the Lebanon Flower Show for 22 years. Above, she shows this year's best of show winner, a "fancy leaf" begonia with leaves that measure a foot in length.

A bench in Helen's yard offers a cool place to stop and rest for a minute, while admiring Helen's well-tended lawn and flowers.

Flowers of all sizes and colors form a border for her property. The green of the perfectly tended lawn, combined with the flowers and trees, make even a scorching day seem a bit cooler. A plaque, nestled among some flowers in her yard, seems to sum up her love for gardening. It reads, "The kiss of the sun for pardon, the song of the birds for mirth, one is nearer God's heart in a garden than anywhere else on earth."

"It's a lot of work," Helen said. "You have to water and keep the weeds down."

"Just wait until we get our water bill," Helen laughed.

Water is not the only problem. People are not the only ones who enjoy Helen's flowers. Rabbits, squirrels and chipmunks love them too, so much so that Helen and her husband, Richard, must catch the little animals in a cage and take them to a nearby park. If they left them in the yard, Helen's flowers would be food, not decoration.

In addition to her yard, Helen must also tend to the plants she has under a special plant light in her kitchen. These plants also have water under them to increase humidity. Since Helen grows many of her flowers and plants from seed, this is an ideal arrangement.

Helen also keeps some begonias in this special growing place, since, according to her, they are a difficult plant to grow.

"They (begonias) are the hardest thing to grow," Helen said.

Also making the list for difficult plants is the gardenia, according to Helen, although she has a huge one budding on her front porch.

Plants that are easy to grow and would be good for beginners are cacti, geraniums and coleus.

Helen is accustomed to giving advice on flowers and plants.

"People that I don't even know call me," she laughed, adding that people even call her for tips on lawn care.

As long as she continues to walk off with most of the Lebanon Flower Show awards, people will probably continue to come to her for advice, and she has no plans to quit.

"Sometimes I think I should quit and give somebody else a chance," Helen laughed, "But then when the time comes I always enter, and I always think somebody's going to beat me."

Anyone willing to compete for Helen's honors next year will have to move fast, as Helen is already brainstorming some ideas for the 1984 show.

CRAFT CORNER

Cross-stitch with ribbons

For a new twist to counted cross-stitch, why not use ribbons instead of threads? With ribbons, even-weave cloth and needle, it's easy to cross-stitch a colorful place mat and napkin set.

Although all ribbons are wider than embroidery threads, some ribbons are slim enough to stitch through even-weave cloth. One-sixteenth-inch satin ribbons, for example, work well with 6-count aida cloth.

Other classic needlework projects also are possible to do with ribbons. According to a free booklet from the Offray Ribbon Co., skinny satin ribbons also are ideal for candlewicking, embroidery, pulled thread embroidery and fashion trims.

Here are the booklet's directions for ribbon cross-stitch place mats: MATERIALS: 6-count aida cloth, three colors of ribbon, blunt tapestry needle, scissors. Optional: embroidery hoop.

Use any chart desired, or copy the diamond-shaped motif shown. For each motif pictured, you'll need 1½ yards dark ribbon, ½ yard medium-colored ribbon and 1 yard pale ribbon.

CUTTING: 1. For each place mat, cut a 12-by-19-inch rectangle from aida cloth. 2. For each napkin, cut a 15-by-15 square from aida cloth.

STARTING TO STITCH: 1. Counting one square of fabric for each square on the graph, count fabric squares to find the top of your design. 2. Optional: position fabric in hoop.

CROSS-STITCHING: 1. Embroider crosses as illustrated. 2. Be sure, when stitching, to keep ribbon flat on front and back sides of fabric. 3. Work all crosses in the

Ida Risser

Summer is the time for reunions of all kinds. We held a family reunion last month. This year, the job of finding a place to hold it fell to me, and I chose a Community Park. About thirty members of my late parents' family were able to attend. The 19 grandchildren are scattered from Alaska to Florida and New Jersey to Washington.

Our son, Philip, made the effort to come from Wisconsin for the Sunday gathering. Only half of the cousins were there as this generation is simply living too far away from Lancaster county.

I got to thinking back as to how and when this July gathering all started. It seems that my father and uncle both had birthdays in July and so we got together to celebrate.

I'd guess this was almost fifty years ago. The first years we set up a table in our meadow and had our picnic there. At that time, the sheep kept the grass nice and short like a lawn. There was a fireplace of native limestone along the edge of the Conestoga Creek. It was a peaceful place without the present day motorboats.

But how things do change. The Conestoga is not called a river. And, this same river has flooded many times over the years and sent muddy, swirling waters over everything. The trees along the bank are all gone and we've dumped big rocks, from highway construction, there to try and hold some of the ground. The sheep have given way to hundreds of cow hooves that turn the meadow into an uneven muddy mess at times. The entire fireplace has been swept away too.

So, even though only five of the seven girls my parents had are living, we realize that family ties are important and so we continue the tradition of meeting each summer.

Lancaster Society 24

Lancaster Society 24 met recently at Village Manor, Brethren Village, Neffsville. Members voted to donate $25 to LARC.

Plans are being made for a rummage sale Oct. 4 in the pavilion at Conestoga Church of the Brethren, Leola. The group will travel to Harrisburg State Hospital this month to entertain the patients.

Lancaster Society 5

Lancaster Society 5 met recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Peifer, Manheim R1, for a chicken barbeque dinner with their husbands as guests.

The group will be entertained by Society 12 on Sept. 17 at 12:30 p.m. at the Lions Community Building, Millersville.

The Extension Christmas party will be Oct. 13, 14 and 15. Reservations are required. The county convention will be Nov. 5, and the cost will be $7.25. The next meeting will be at the cabin of Edith Longenecker on Sept. 24.

Lancaster Society 6

Lancaster Society 6 recently met at Brethren Village, Neffsville, where five of the members are residents.

Anna Geyer was elected as treasurer for a two-year term.

The speaker was Grace Miller, a retired public school librarian and current volunteer librarian at Brethren Village. She shared humorous anecdotes and ended on a serious note about happiness.

Lancaster Society 22

Lancaster Society 22 met recently at the home of Mrs. Harold Rudy. A donation was made to the Fannie Beiler fund for medical costs.

Officers elected to serve during 1984-85 are: Sally Bair, president; Elva Bare, vice president; Nancy Balmer, treasurer; Mary Young, secretary; Darlene Herr, cookbook treasurer; Nancy Witmer, associate cookbook treasurer, and Ann Ranck, corresponding secretary.

The next meeting will be Sept. 13 at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Jack Robinson, 811 Waterfront Drive.

Berks County Executive Board

The Berks Society Executive Board met at the Ag Center recently to make final arrangements for the county convention on Oct. 1 at the Ag Center. State officers and directors and county presidents are invited to attend.

A county hoedown will take place from 8 to 11 p.m. at the 4-H Center, Leesport R1, on Oct. 15. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children, ages six through 12. Children under age six are free.

The various county groups will sell pies at the Reading Fair Sept. 19-23.

Berks Society 7

Berks Society 7 met for a family picnic at the home of Lillian Grajewski, Wernersville R1.

Projects for fundraising were discussed, and plans were made to celebrate Farm Women Day by going to the Bahney House, Myerstown, for dinner on Oct. 13.

The next meeting will be Sept. 28 at the home of Grace Seidel, Womelsdorf, and members are asked to bring one or two of their favorite salad recipes.

Cumberland County 4-H'er Wins Horse

CARLISLE — Cindy Frey, 3410 Spring Road, Carlisle, is the 1983 state winner of a weanling Quarter horse from Bob Evans Farms, Rio Grande, Ohio. She will receive her horse during the Bob Evans Fall Round-Up held in Ohio, September 10-12.

"Cindy was selected in recognition of the leadership qualities she's demonstrated in 4-H work, scholastic achievement, and community involvement," said James Gallagher, professor of animal science Extension at Penn State.

Evans, president and founder of Bob Evans Farms, a sausage and restaurant company, has been a 4-H supporter for many years. Since 1978, he has presented 100 registered Quarter horses to 4-H members in nine states.

"I'll train this horse, ride it in the Drill Team and 4-H shows, and use it for my 4-H horse production project," says the 14-year-old winner. "It will be boarded at my grandfather's, and I can walk there every day to care for it."

Cindy Frey

Cindy has been a 4-H member for six years and is actively involved in the veterinary science project as well as horse club and drill team.

"4-H has improved my riding skills, taught me how to properly care for a horse, and the equipment and preparation necessary for showing," says Cindy. "In veterinary science, I'm learning the characteristics and body functions of animals."

The daughter of Frank and Jane Frey III, Cindy is an eighth grade student at Cumberland Valley Middle School West. She has performed at the State Farm Show with her horse club drill team for the past five years and is a junior member of the Bonny Brook Riding Club. She belongs to her church youth fellowship group and is an honor roll student. She hopes to some day attend Penn State and major in veterinary science.

Benzak Meats Buy Lambs

NORRISTOWN—Benzak Wholesale Meats, Bethlehem R4, was the successful bidder of the champion market lamb at the recently held Montgomery County 4-H Market Lamb Sale.

Owned by 4-H member Chris Muse, Perkaspie, the 100-pound lamb brought $4 per pound. Chris also had the champion pen which was purchased by Benzak Meats at $1 a pound.

After spirited bidding the reserve champion lamb of Ahna

Landin, Lansdale, went to Benzak Meats for $1.90 per pound.

Jane Landin, Lansdale, saw her lamb going to John Black of Black's Livestock, Inc. Route 73, Skippack, while Frank Fillippo, Norristown, purchased the lambs of Steve Pierson, Norristown, and Greg Muse, Perkaspie.

Hennings Market, Harleysville, purchased the lamb of Joshua Landis, Perkiomenville.

The average price paid per lamb with the champion was $1.48 per pound.

Vicki Benzak, of Benzak Wholesale Meats, Bethlehem, poses with the champion Montgomery County 4-H Market Lamb purchased for $4 per pound from Chris Muse Perkaspie.

The Surge Information System.
A feed and management system so advanced that all others seem outdated.

But don't take our word for it. Make your own comparison.

Compare the overall potential of Information to help you track your cows, manage your dairy, and handle the future demands you'll put on your system. There simply is no comparison.

Compare Information's feeding capabilities. With most other systems, you need to manually adjust the amount of feed periodically, so cows are always being overfed or underfed. The Information Feed Manager, on the other hand, automatically adjusts the ration each day of each cow's lactation cycle. This is more than a convenience. It's much more precise feeding, and makes a big difference in efficiency, milk production and even herd health.

Finally, compare service. We doubt if you'll find another system with a toll-free Help Line, a computer club and certified dealer service right on the farm.

See your Surge dealer about InformationSM—a system that outthinks, outworks and outperforms all others.

Espy beef brings $3.44 a pound

BY PATTY GROSS MOCK
Staff Correspondent

HUNTINGDON — A large turnout of business and individual buyers made the livestock sale at the Huntingdon County Fair a great success. Sale records were broken as a record number of animals were sold.

The 1,305 pound crossbred grand champion steer, showed by Jamie Espy, Tyrone, was purchased by Delores and Paul Knepp, owners of Miller's Diner at Mill Creek. The champion animal sold for $3.44 per pound.

Ron Ruble of the Huntingdon McDonald's purchased the reserve grand champion for $2.60. The steer was exhibited by Erika Morgan, Orbisonia. Ruble donated the reserve champion back to the club to be resold.

The 74 beef animals sold brought $60,582.13 for an average price of 80 cents a pound. Total weight of the animals was 73,345 pounds.

Auctioneer Mark Glick & Co. agent Harold Lockhoff donated their services for the beef sale as well as the other auctions at the 1983 fair. Eighty-one hogs were sent into the ring, making it the largest sale ever.

Ronald Briar, R.D. 1 McVeytown, exhibited the grand champion hog. The 240-pound winner was sold at auction to Shaw Packing Company, Newry, for $5.20 a pound. Dick Shaw followed that purchase up with a winning bid for the reserve grand champion. The 200-pound hog was raised by Matt Price. He received $3.10 a pound during the 4-H and FFA swine sale.

The record number of entries weighed a total of 17,630 pounds. They were sold for $12,884.40, which averages 73 cents a pound.

Lee Hayes, R1 Tyrone, showed the reserve grand champion lamb. Union National Bank and Trust Company had the high bid of $6.25 for the 100 pound reserve winner. The lamb was donated back to the club to be resold with the profits going to the club members.

Thirty-eight lambs were sold, weighing a total of 3,590 pounds. The average price was $1.09 per pound, making the total $3,930.05.

A total of 12 goats were sold at the Huntingdon County Fair, which was the first try at a goat sale at the fair.

Buyers from the Morrisons Cove Livestock Market got the ball rolling by capturing the grand champion with a bid of 75 cents per pound. The grand champion was exhibited by 4-H member Danny Detwiler, R1 Saxton.

The reserve grand champion, owned by Tricia Trimer, Alexandria, was purchased by G & M Livestock Market, Duncansville. The price was 53 cents a pound.

The goats totaled 620 pounds. In the end tabulations showed that the money collected was $370.75, an average of 60 cents a pound.

Glen Rock 4-H Club

Officers were elected at the September meeting of the Glen Rock 4-H Club. They are: Jimmy Townsend, president; Nancy Townsend, vice president; Joann Rishel, secretary; Donna Wilson, assistant secretary; David Lentz, treasurer; and Tammy Ferree, assistant treasurer. Laura Duryea is news reporter, while the assistant reporter is Michelle Gibson. Historian is Lisa Rector, and the assistant historian is Christine Lentz. Song and game leader is Gail Rishel, and her assistant is Lisa Gibson.

Donna Wilson and Tom Wysocki will represent the club for 4-H king and queen.

The next meeting will be a Halloween party on Oct. 29.

Mastersonville 4-H Club

The Mastersonville 4-H Club met recently and announced that many of their members had done well at Achievement Days.

The club had a family picnic recently at the Chiques Church of the Brethren.

Mt. Airy Dairy 4-H Club

Mt. Airy Dairy 4-H Club members discussed dairy awards and how to complete dairy record books at their August meeting. Their next meeting will be Sept. 23 at the Extension Center.

Jamie Espy, Tyrone, holds the grand champion steer of the Huntingdon Fair. Owners of Miller's Diner, Mill Creek, Paul and Delores Knepp paid $3.44 a pound for the champ.

Adams Co. Holds 4-H Fair

GETTYSBURG — Ten years after she made her debut in the show ring as a first year 4-H Club member, leading a junior calf just five months of age, Kathy Durboraw, 435 Chapel Road, Gettysburg, made her 10th consecutive 4-H Round-Up appearance with this same cow "Gracitate Elevation Taurus."

As she went on to win Master Showman honors, Judge Robert Eckstine remarked that the graceful cow appeared to know just what her proud owner expected and responded promptly to her commands. "Taurus," fondly referred to as "Jenni," was named Reserve Senior Champion Holstein at the show.

The dairy show was a highlight of the 4-H Fair held recently at South Mountain Fairgrounds, west of Arendtsville. The show featured 27 4-H members, showing a total of 41 dairy animals.

Eckstine judged fitting and showmanship; type was judged by Fred Dillner, vocational agriculture teacher from Shipensburg.

The Senior Champion Holstein was "Elsie," the four-year old owned by Jennifer Weimer, New Oxford R2. Jenny also showed the Junior Champion, a senior yearling and won honors as reserve Master Showman and Reserve Champion Fitter.

Eric Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Keller, 420 Granite Station Rd., Gettysburg, showed his first calf, a Holstein, to first place honors in the Junior Calf Class. Lane Mummert showed the first place intermediate calf and went on to win Mini-showman honors among first and second year members. His sister, Lela, showed the first place senior calf which was also named Reserve Junior Champion.

Kathleen Todd, Hanover R4, showed the first place junior yearling Holstein. Her sister, Christine, was named Champion County; 2. Mindy Spahr, York County; 3. Carolyn Rabold, Lebanon County; pleasure pairs - 1. Mary North and Jill Lenker, Dauphin County; 2. Lisa Miller and Kim St. Peter, Adams County; 3. John Flaughter and Kelly Shatzer, Franklin County.

County teams - 1. Dauphin 2. Adams 3. Cumberland; open trail - 13.2 hands and under - 1. Kendra Miller, York County; 2. Darby Miller, York County; 3. Camille Long, Lancaster County; over 13.2 hands - 1. Sheri Pierce, Lebanon County; 2. Tricia Cusack, Dauphin County; 3. Leanne Ferrelli, York County.

Fitter of the show.

Ribbons were presented throughout the show by Miss Faye

FFA exhibits at N.J. fair

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. — New Jersey FFA members will display agricultural exhibits at the New Jersey State Fair held at Great Adventure in Jackson, N.J. The fair continues through next Saturday. Chapters participating in this event include the Middlesex FFA Chapter of East Brunswick, the Belvidere Chapter, of Belvidere and the Allentown Chapter of Allentown, N.J.

Middlesex FFA members are exhibiting a display to explain the Supervised occupational Experience Program in Vocational Agriculture and how it is linked with the FFA, and the Building Our American Community Program. Topics of study in vocational agriculture such as floral design, greenhouse management and landscape design may also be viewed at the Middlesex FFA display.

The Allentown FFA Chapters' exhibit will include a computer to show its use in agriculture, an indoor landscape and many of the chapters' accomplishments. Students will also be available to answer questions about the FFA and Vocational Agriculture.

The Belvidere FFA Chapter will exhibit their first place display from the Warren County Fair. The display is entitled Food For America and it shows how New Jersey ranks in food production with the rest of the nation.

4-H'ers

for healthy results!

Here's a scientifically proven program of top nutrition for developing healthier calves. An economical way to build higher producers. The Carnation Calf Plan for quality you can trust!

SUCKLE® or SUCKLE PLUS Instantized Medicated Milk Replacer Just 25 lbs. of Suckle can replace all the whole milk required for weaning a calf. That's economy! Suckle helps the young calf off to a fast, healthy start, and its antibiotics help fight scours.

MANNA MATE® Calf Developer Containing 25% Calf-Manna, it's a palatable, high energy complete ration right from the bag. Add nothing except hay and water. Manna Mate builds them big and healthy with higher production capacity over a longer time period.

Livestock, dairy showman compete at Butler Fair

BUTLER — Approximately 1800 men, women and children entered items, animals and contests in 19 departments at the Butler Farm Show, competing for $35,000 in awards.

Those showing livestock and dairy competed in draft horse — halter classes, dairy, sheep, beef, swine or poultry contests. Show grand champions and reserve champions are as follows.

In the Draft Horse — Halter Show, Lee Roenigk, Sarver, showed the grand champion Belgian stallion. Ron Jenny, Wexford, and his 4-year-old stallion were named the reserve winners. Champion mare honors went to Glenn Montgomery, Sarver, and the reserve title to Jack Bailey, Creighton.

The Percheron champion mare was owned by John Walters, Mars. Mel and Bonnie Scheerbaum, Butler, showed the reserve mare and the champion and reserve champion geldings.

Mildred and D.F. Neal, Slippery Rock, won several of the top awards in the Suffolk class, including champion stallion, champion mare and reserve champion mare.

In the Belgian heavy and light grade category, Glenn Montgomery showed the champion mare and Ron Jenny, the reserve champion mare. The gelding champion and reserve champion honors went to Lee Roenigk.

Under the Saddle Horse — Halter Class, Appaloosas, Arabians, Morgans, Palominos and Quarter Horses competed in the various categories. Winning the champion Appaloosa mare contest was Criss Slupe, Butler. The reserve mare belonged to Ann Kriberney, Karns City.

Arabian winners were Kathy Patterson, Slippery Rock, champion mare; Barb Waterson, Butler, champion gelding; and Barb Beggs, Butler, reserve gelding. Winning the Morgan champion stallion and mare honors was Bonnie Scheerbaum.

Carol Burr, Mars, won the champion and reserve champion mare honors in the Palomino class. Lawrence Bloom, Butler, won the Quarter Horse champion stallion and mare titles.

In the ponies shown at halter class, under 48 inches, Curt Horstman, Herman, showed the champion mare while James Crighton, Butler, had the reserve mare. Elmer Colteryahn, won the champion gelding title, and C.J. Atkinson, Slippery Rock, the reserve title.

Ponies over 48 inches and under 58 inches competed for champion and reserve champion mare honors. Elmer Colteryahn took first and Erin Slupe, Butler, took reserve.

Grand champions in the dairy show were Ayrshire, Lona Rader;

Brown Swiss, Jeff Kennedy; Holstein, Diane Hogg; Jersey, Sally Simpson; and Milking Shorthorn, Brad Kerr.

Showing the grand champion market lamb was Heather Leslie. Showmanship winners were Lisa Schultheis, senior, and Heather Leslie, junior. Ann Kriberney was senior fitter and Rick Dunn was the junior fitter.

Pam Peffer won the grand champion Market Steer contest and was named senior fitter. Other winners were Buddy Greenert, senior showman and

NEW OXFORD — Jenny Weimer, a member of the Conewago-New Oxford FFA, showed her 3-year-old Holstein Erica, to the senior championship and the grand championship of the Holstein division at the South Central FFA Dairy Show. Along with Erica, Jenny took 2 senior calves to the show, and earned a 2nd place blue ribbon and a 4th place blue ribbon with her calves.

Six other members of the Conewago-New Oxford FFA also competed at the dairy show. Harry showed Louise earning a 4th place and a red ribbon. Josie Hess showing her four year old Cookie, received a 2nd place and a blue ribbon.

Three students, Aaron Myers, Josie Hess, and Jenny Weimer, earned their way to the State FFA Dairy Show in September. These students received this honor by showing an animal that earned a blue ribbon. Myers and Hess will each show one animal, while Weimer has the honor of showing two animals, her 3 year old Erica and her senior calf Echo.

Along with the honors the students received for the show, they were also a big part in Adams County winning the Good Housekeeping Award. This award is given to the county which keeps its area the cleanest during the two-day stay. Along with their part in the county award, the Conewago-New Oxford Chapter came in second place in the chapter part of the good housekeeping competition.

Fountain in Salzburg, Austria, provides backdrop for Jeff Stoltzfus, of R1 Atglen, during FFA-WEA program.

Stoltzfus works with Austrian farm family

KNITTELFELD, Austria — Jeff Stoltzfus, of R1 Atglen, member of the Octorara FFA, has spent the last 10 weeks living and working with the Josef Herk family on their dairy farm and forestry operation in Knittelfeld, Austria.

His duties on the Herk's farm have included milking and feeding the herd of 24 Brown Swiss dairy cows, assisting with making hay on the 100-acre farm, as well as working in the logging operation on the family's 300 acres of Alpine forest.

Stoltzfus has also visited the Austrian cities of Vienna, Salzburg and Innsbruck. He has participated in numerous local community and cultural events.

Stoltzfus lived and worked with the Austrian farm family as a participant in the FFA's Work Experience Abroad program.

"WEA has enabled me to experience the culture as well as the agriculture of another country," he said.

"I have learned many things that cannot be found in travel brochures or on a normal tour."

Wild Horse Week set Oct. 17-23

LEWISBERRY — Plans are underway for Pennsylvania's first Wild Horse and Burro Week to be held October 17-23, announces the U.S. Interior Department's Bureau of Land Management.

Special events, exhibits and demonstrations will be open to the public free of charge Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 22-23. They will take place at the Northeast Wild Horse and Burro Adoption Center, located in Lewisberry. The center, which will also be celebrating its first anniversary, is operated for the Bureau by Frank and Doris Goodlander on their York County farm.

The purpose of Wild Horse and Burro Week is to focus on the historic role of these animals, now protected by federal law, and create public awareness of the Adopt-a-Horse and Burro Program, which places excess animals with people who will provide them with a good home. If left on the western public rangelands these animals would probably suffer from starvation because of overpopulation, according to the Bureau.

The public is invited to tour the facilities to see wild horses and burros, and gentling and training demonstrations. On the weekend there will be country music and cookouts, a film and slide show about the animals, and talks by adopters who will share experiences about their animals. There will also be exhibits and sales of Pennsylvania crafts and farm products. A State-wide poster contest will be held for elementary school students, and there will even be a Junior Bass Fishing Contest.

Schools, senior citizen, civic and farm organizations are invited to arrange for bus tours during the week by calling the Goodlanders at (717) 838-2560.

Adopters from throughout the Northeast will be invited to take part in the activities, and efforts are being made to attract tourists, according to the Bureau. The Goodlanders say they will welcome people to camp on the grounds, but arrangements should be made with them in advance. Motels and campgrounds with hookups are also within a short distance from the Adoption Center.

Protected under the Wild Horse and Burro Act of 1971, there are presently 47,800 wild horses and 12,300 burros on the range in 10 western states. Since 1973, 46,000 animals have been adopted nationwide, and some 10,000 have been adopted here in the East. Already, more than 500 animals have been adopted from the Pennsylvania Adoption Center which opened last July. The center is the only one of its kind in the Northeast.

TIRED OF CLEANING AND REFILLING SUPPLEMENTARY FOUNTS?

SWISH
watering systems

SWISH WATERING SYSTEM IS THE ANSWER!

Their chick-size waterer solves man-size problems.

New SWISH SATELLITE™ system waters chicks and poults from day 1

The biggest problem with founts and other supplementary waterers is manpower — the labor needed to clean and hand-fill them. Also, birds don't always get clean, cool, fresh water — which can cause health problems and poor feed conversion.

But now there's the new Swish SATELLITE system.

It attaches to any Swish floor watering system (and most other brands, too), to give you an automatic system that baby birds take to immediately.

And your birds get fresher, cleaner, cooler water that they love to drink. Which means they'll drink more of it. And that means healthier birds.

The Swish SATELLITE also cuts water waste — which means drier litter, less disease.

Whether you're choosing Swish's new SATELLITE system or a complete Swish system to take birds all the way to market, you get the same patented pressure-operated long-life Swish valve. It's known for its trouble-free performance, its durability.

And you get the unique Swish self-cleaning cup. It saves you lots of trouble and the labor cost of frequent cup cleaning. That's because of the patented feature that causes a "swishing" action by the water from the valve. This lifts any feed particles in the bottom of the cup so birds can consume them.

Get the whole story about Swish's new SATELLITE system ... also systems for adult birds.

Amendment approved to Middle Atlantic order

More than the required two-thirds of affected dairy farmers polled through their cooperative associations have approved a U.S. Department of Agriculture final decision to amend the Middle Atlantic federal milk marketing order.

Edward T. Coughlin, dairy official with USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service in Washington, D.C., said the amendment reduces from 40 to 30 percent the minimum percentage of a cooperative's total milk that must be delivered to pool distributing plants to pool its reserve processing plant.

The amendment was proposed by Pennmarva Dairymen's Federation, a federation of six cooperative associations. The action is necessary to accommodate the pooling of milk regularly associated with the market while minimizing hauling costs, Coughlin said.

Principal cities in the Middle Atlantic market area are Philadelphia, Pa., Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D.C. The final decision is based on the record of a public hearing held in May.

Copies of the amended order, published in the Aug. 29 Federal Register, are available from: Joseph D. Shine, market administrator, P.O. Box 710, Alexandria, Va. 22313 — telephone (703) 549-7000; or, Dairy Division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

NOTICE: In our drouthy areas corn is not earing-up properly, and it is drying down very rapidly. One way to salvage the drouth-stricken crop is to ensile it. For good fermentation, the crop should be ensiled at 60 to 65 percent moisture.

It is going to be difficult to estimate the moisture content of the crop accurately. Stunted plants, with good ear development, may be drier than usual. However, plants with little or no ear development, may run higher in moisture than your eye may lead you to believe. Once most of the leaves below the ear have dried up and died, moisture content could drop rapidly. To keep on top of the situation, observe fields frequently. In deciding when to cut, consider the condition of the whole field, and of nearby fields which you might be ensiling at the same time. The higher moisture content of the greener areas will help offset the lack of moisture in the drier corn, but to be of benefit, it should be mixed thoroughly.

Harvest Time SPECIAL VALUES ON THESE HARVESTING MACHINES

BOOST YOUR PRODUCTIVITY

Time-Mizer self-propelleds feature big engine horsepower for greater productivity

Increase your productivity with one of the big diesel John Deere self-propelled forage harvesters

These self-propelleds feature 40 segmented knives on a big 24-inch-diameter Dura-Drum™ cutterhead. The quick-adjust stationary knife lets you get the correct setting in just minutes

The 290-hp 5820 and 225-hp 5720 let you harvest more tons per hour, more acres per day for the efficiency and capacity you want. Let us show you how the Time-Mizer design can increase your productivity

JD 6620 SIDEHILL COMBINE

★★★ Lowest priced machine in PA with tremendous cash discounts, Waiver of finance till Spring 1984. ★★★

Maximize crop savings on slopes with a John Deere SideHill 6620

On-the-go, automatic separator leveling from feeder house through cleaning shoe is yours with this SideHill 6620. As the separator levels on slopes to 18 percent the header pivots to parallel the ground

Master the hilly terrain with the power of our 145-hp, 466-cubic-inch diesel engine and hydrostatic drive. The new heavy-duty adjustable rear axle lets you add 4-wheel drive for better traction and steering

Reap the benefits of the big capacity threshing and separating, cleaning and clean-grain handling designed into this unique member of the Titan combine line. Check out the SideHill 6620 with us now

John Deere discounts these new tillage tools by 5 to 10 percent and waives finance charge to March 1, 1984

Just as you're getting into the fall/spring tillage season John Deere announces a big dollar-saving offer on major tillage tools. Depending on the tillage tool you buy (see the chart) your dealer will deduct 5 or 10 percent from the latest base machine price. For example, the discount on an 18' x 10' 235 Disk would save you more than $1,100. On any of these you can save even more by financing with John Deere. Finance charge will be waived to March 1, 1984 for qualified buyers.

Machine	Discount from Suggested Retail Price
Moldboard Plows	5 percent
Chisel Plows	10 percent
Field Cultivators	10 percent
Disks	10 percent
Mulch Tillers	10 percent
Mulch Finishers	10 percent

* Availability of John Deere financing plans subject to approval of credit
This offer may be reduced in value or withdrawn at any time

SPEED UP FEEDING CHORES WITH HENKE

Henke Trailer-mounted Kwikmixer

Put an end to slow, tedious feeding time with Henke's Kwikmixer. Three rugged augers thoroughly blend most rations in just 3 to 6 minutes. The Kwikmixer gives a uniform mix with a minimum power requirement. It's built to handle a wide variety of ingredients including pellets, grain, silage, hay and liquid supplements for total ration requirements. And it's constructed tough with extra heavy bearings for increased durability.

HENKE 300 KWIKMIXER

- Capacity - 300 Cu. Ft. or 240 Bushels
- Front - 3/16" Plate
- Sides - 10 Gauge
- Bottom - 3/8" Plate
- Self Contained Hydraulic System operates conveyor lift, gate and Conveyor
- Electronic Scales with warning light

WET OR DRY?

IN STOCK

there's more grain - there's less air - so feed stays fresh, palatable

Don't worry about harvest slow-down, either. Henke has the capacity to fit your operation with corrugations to handle your grain.

Why dry when processing wet grains with a Henke mill requires less time at a fraction of cost - and you get more feed value. You don't have to transfer grain from dryer to storage. Processing wet grains eliminates investments in driers.

Harvesting early - when grain is 25 per cent to 30 per cent moisture - has long been possible with Henke mills. Field losses are reduced by early harvest and winter weather is avoided.

Feeding value of grain is enhanced by processing it with a Henke mill. Granulation by Henke mills allows activation by rumen bacteria for proper assimilation of feedstuffs.

Even silage with whole corn kernels has its feeding values enhanced by processing thru a Henke Roller Mill. Dairywomen in Southeast United States have obtained a sizeable increase in milk production by processing their silage thru a Roller Mill to assure that all kernels are cracked.

TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH & TRANSMISSION PARTS & SERVICE

Complete TA assemblies for 706-1586 are priced at $595 and come with a Dana Co Heavy Duty Sprag instead of the usual IH sprag. The Dana sprag is guaranteed for 2 years against failure. Sprag kits (includes sprag gear, Dana sprag, and piston carrier) and all items for rebuilding your own TA are available to qualified persons. Ramps and carriers for the older style TA's (as in SMTA, 340, 560) are priced at $150 each and carry a 90 day guarantee. We have all the parts needed to rebuild your TA in stock at prices that will save you money. We also have a shop available for complete TA installation. Or, you may split your own tractor and bring the center housing to us, which we can rebuild while you wait (approx. 4-6 hrs.). We also stock New and Rebuilt Water Pumps, Dynalife Clutches, Pressure Plates, and PTO Drive Gears, (Spline-fit into pressure plates) for most IH tractors and combines.

— USED PARTS —

We buy and sell used parts and parts tractors. We have a good selection of quality used parts at competitive prices. Please have part no. when calling, if possible.

We Will Be Closed For Vacation From August 31 Through September 10.
Will Resume Normal Business Hrs. September 12, 7:00 a.m.
Dealers please keep this in mind when ordering to avoid a delay in your schedule.

RISSLER FEED MIXERS

More and more farmers are finding that mixed rations are producing healthier and better livestock, plus better feed efficiency. Veterinarians, nutritionists consultants and feed analyst are recommending (TMR) feeding systems. Perhaps you can also increase profits by turning to this system.

This UNIQUE design was developed so farmers can have more for less. A 15,000 lb. pintle web with 2" high paddles will tumble feed from end to end. An auger with left and right flighting will bring feed to center and keep the pile crowned. This auger will mix the feed from side to side at the rate of 1200 lbs. of feed per minute and will unload when drop out is opened. Convenient crank allows flow from 0 to 1500 lbs. a minute whatever desired.

Box is coated with urethane on inside with glass like finish that is abrasion resistant. All stress points are lined with 1/4" and 5/16" heavy steel. Heavy duty bearings can be relubricated and easily accessible. Takes less HP than conventional mixers.

Optional stainless steel floor. Electronic or mechanical instant-weight scales.

CASE MODEL 56L & 66L FARM LOADERS

Just Arrived... The Earlier You Buy, The More You Save!

Two quick-attach loaders for maximum job versatility
Match up these front end loaders with a Case 90 Series General Purpose Tractor — high platform and low profile models, and models with front wheel drive attachment. You'll have loader versatility that saves time every time you use it.

The model 56L loader fits Case 1190, 1290 or 1390 tractors. The 66L teams up with 1390, 1490 or 1690. Whatever the combination, you've got a strong, quick-attach/detach fast-cycle front end loader that gets work done in a hurry so you can get on to the next job.

Heft for heavy jobs. Both models incorporate a rugged box-welded loader frame that attaches to the tractor's rugged box section main frame.

Powerful hydraulics. Two loaders with double-acting lift cylinders handle loads from 1800 up to 2200 lbs. (816 to 998 kg.) Heights 120 up to 130" (305 to 330 cm). Double-acting bucket cylinders assure heavy down-pressure for digging, rugged breakout force for the heavy material.

Standard equipment • Double-acting lift cylinders • Double-acting bucket cylinders • Hydraulic control kit with 2-spool valve, fittings, quick disconnects Model 66 only • Wire braid hoses • Self-storing parking stands • Tubular box frame.

BINKLEY & HURST BROS., INC. Offers A

Program On High Quality Rhino

Introducing a New Line of Soil Savers with hydraulic depth control slicer blades, a fine feature important in different soil conditions to save horsepower

Rhino introduces its first multi-operation tillage tool, the 890 Coulter-Chisel. The mighty 890 utilizes a row of 20" Coulters spaced at 7.5" followed by two rows of heavy-duty Spring Shanks with 4" Twisted Shovels at 15" spacing for the best covering of litter, erosion control, and water conservation. The Coulters cut trash to prevent plugging, and the Shovels cover some residue and leave some exposed while leaving the field ridged. This greatly retards erosion from wind and water, retains snow, and leaves more surface area exposed for quicker soil warming in the spring. With a heavy-duty, cross-braced tubular frame, hydraulically adjustable Coulter Gangs, and spring-cushioned, QUADRASEAL™ relube Coulter Gang Bearings, the 890's outstanding features assure long life and trouble-free operation for the conservation conscious farmer.

... a genuine IH filter

OIL

Keep your engine efficient and clean

Engine oil can become contaminated with carbon particles and unburned fuel. These contaminants can rob your engine of operating efficiency, damage it internally.

FUEL

Genuine IH fuel filters restore lost power

When a fuel filter plugs, your diesel engine misbehaves. If you get mistfiring and loss of power, it's probably time to change your fuel filter.

...To all you customers who want us to match any price you may get from the competition, our only reply is in the form of a question: "Is that how you chose your wife - as the cheapest one you could find - or did you want the best?"

That's how we feel about our products! They may, or may not, be the cheapest...be we hope to prove they are of excellent quality and worthy of your purchase!

THE COMPLETE
BALING SILAGEROLL
BALERS

The latest in silage-making — round-bale silage in plastic bags — was featured at a forage field day held at Maryland's Wye Research Farm on July 20. Several hundred onlookers watched Walter Schmidt, a Queen Annes County, Md., farmer demonstrate the process he uses to bale high-moisture forage and "ensile" it in specially made plastic bags. After opening one bagged bale that had fermented for three weeks, farmers grabbed handfuls and echoed "Now that's haylage!"

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

MORE THAN JUST A TRACTOR!

Here is a good BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY for an enterprising southeast Pennsylvania farmer.

When you buy this Steiger tractor and Glencoe chisel plow you also have the opportunity of taking over an existing custom plowing and fertilizing business. The custom business will pay off the unit for you. If your farming operation needs more horsepower, you must look at this opportunity.

The tractor has a new 3208 Cat. Diesel engine with only 244 hrs.

New mastitis dry cow treatment reported

KALAMAZOO, Mich. — Research citing the efficacy of a new, dual-antibiotic dry cow treatment product for mastitis was recently discussed at the 78th Annual American Dairy Science Association Meeting, held at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Dr. Lew Henke, reasearcher for The Upjohn Compnay, told the audience that the new product, called Albady Plus, contains 200,000 I.U. of penicillin and 400 mg of novobiocin, and is the first commercial product to combine these two antibiotics in a dry cow tube.

"The research and development program for Albady Plus was initiated in 1974," explained Dr. Henke. "The Upjohn Company recognized the need for a dry cow intramammary product that was active against strains of Staph. aureus and streptococci — the most common bacteria associated with mastitis. Novobiocin is very effective against staphylococci, while penicillin is the drug of choice for treating streptococcal infections. Research was then conducted to determine if this antibiotic combination would actually be effective against mastitis infections."

According to Dr. Henke, once the most efficacious balance of penicillin/novobiocin in the Albady Plus formulation was determined, private investigators from across the U.S. helped Upjohn researchers test the product's efficacy. These investigators, from the dairy areas of New York, Michigan, Minnesota, Louisiana and California, selected more than 700 cows from 70 herds for use in the trials.

Duplicate quarter milk samples for microbiological examination were collected from each cow and the cows were divided into treated and untreated groups. "All four quarters of each treated cow were infused with Albady Plus," Dr. Henke explained. "Later, milk samples were again collected 4-10 days post-freshening, to determine the infection status of each cow and to compare untreated cows with treated cows." Pre-treatment and post-calving infection data on the efficacy of the Albady Plus formulation were also statistically analyzed.

The results: of the 101 treated cows infected with Strep. agalactiae, the elimination rate with Albady Plus was 100 percent, while the spontaneous cure rate among the 91 untreated, infected cows was 39 percent. Among the 143 cows infected with Staph. aureus, the elimination rate with Albady Plus was 59 percent; the spontaneous elimination rate among untreated cows was 28 percent. Cows receiving Albady Plus at drying off had lower post-

TULLY, N.Y. — Lester Kreider, of Lancaster, and Charlie Bergamo, of Vineland, N.J., joined 160 other Agway enterprise sales people attending one of two farm sales schools held recently to review the latest technology and new programs aimed at more profitable farm management.

They participated in three days of seminars and presentations on feeding and management for maximum production response in dairy animals and picked up ideas to pass on to farm clients on improved crop management programs.

In the dairy feeding sessions, participants reviewed the use of programmable calculators for on-farm designing of complete dairy feeding programs to provide the most profitable combinations of farm-grown and purchased feeds.

Also reviewed were several new feeds soon to be introduced by Agway, calf and heifer and dry cow feeding and management programs, total mixed rations (TMR) and the new Cattle-Code (computer controlled) feeder, a mechanical unit which provides supplemental concentrates for individual high producing dairy cows.

On the crops side, participants received an up-date on the latest technology and new components of Agway's ICM (Integrated Crop Management) programs. These include new Agway seed corn varieties adapted specifically for Northeast farms, new alfalfa partum infection rates of mastitis due to Staph. aureus, Strep. agalactiae or other mastitis streptococci than the unmedicated cows, emphasized Dr. Henke.

"Under these well-controlled trial conditions, the antibiotic formulation in Albady Plus was shown to be effective in combating the most common mastitis-causing pathogens," Dr. Henke concluded.

Agway holds sales schools

Lester Kreider, enterprise salesman from Lancaster and Charles Bergamo, area manager from Vineland, NJ, inspect new mini-bulk handling pump at Agway Farm Research Center near Tully, NY. The equipment is used to speed application of farm pesticides during busy growing seasons.

management programs and alternatives to alfalfa, including selected grasses, clover and legume-grass mixes.

Agway recently introduced the AgriPlanner micro computer which is being used at many locations to assist farmers in selecting the most profitable combinations of cropping, fertilization and pesticide application to meet their individual requirements.

The latest information on mini-bulk handling of crop pesticides for farmer application was presented and newly developed application equipment was inspected at the Agway Farm Research Center near Tully, NY.

Local farmer meetings and individual on-farm demonstrations will be conducted to share information learned with farm clients.

Case introduces

'constant traction'

RACINE, Wisc.—J. I. Case has just introduced a new line of Case 94 Series agricultural tractors at a dealer convention in Kansas City.

The new introduction features a design concept termed "constant traction."

The 162 PTO horsepower Case Model 3294 Constant Traction tractor is a high horsepower row-crop tractor with the tractive efficiency of the four-wheel drive model.

The term "constant traction" describes the way the front-drive and rear-drive wheels are synchronized and always engaged, similar to the four-wheel drive tractors. There is no disconnect or clutch between the front drive wheels and rear drive wheels, maximizing the tractive advantages of a four-wheel drive tractor.

A quantity of engineering prototypes of the Case Model 3294 tractors have been put through their paces by farmers throughout North America during a year-long evaluation and test program. Comments from farmers include the following:

"The 3294 provides increased usage over my larger tractor. This should reduce my per-acre cost."

"It burns about 15 percent less fuel than my large horsepower two-wheel drive tractor with the same horsepower."

"The 3294 is easily maneuverable, you rarely have to use the brakes when turning in tight situations."

"It runs when my two-wheeler is sitting in the barn. The traction is there with minimum wheel slippage."

"The 3294 is a real workhorse with PTO. It has the power to handle PTO. It was a first class forage-harvester and still had power left to pull a heavily loaded wagon up my hills."

As farmers tend to alter their tillage practices, the idea of tractive efficient tractors will become more important. As the prices for fuel have risen more than 170 percent in the past five years, the importance of fuel efficiency becomes paramount for farmers. This tractor concept will lend itself well to the adoption of new farming practices as farmers strive for increased efficiency.

Automatic combine is already in the fields

DES MOINES, Ia. — A combine that steers itself electronically while automatically controlling harvesting speed and header height is already being field tested.

Its purpose, according to Dick Jones, director of the Massey-Ferguson Electronic Center, is "to increase bushels harvested per acre and to boost the farmer's overall productivity. It all adds up to making combining more efficient and profitable."

Equipped with several microcomputers, a combine information center, and a sophisticated electronics system, the developmental combine has been averaging 25 percent better productivity over comparable standard machines. In some cases, such as uneven soybean crops, it has tallied daily productivity gains of 50 percent.

Being developed by the MF Central Electronics Group, the experimental combine is believed to be "some few years from the market," according to Jones.

"We still have a lot of work to do on new and different wiring systems and more simplified electronics," he said. "But we have no doubt that this machine is the forerunner of a new generation of MF combines."

Cost of the high technology combine will not be overwhelming. The systems are expected to add less than three percent to the price of the machines — a cost the farmer can swiftly recover from increased bushels harvested per acre.

In addition to increasing productivity, the new combine's design will minimize downtime. According to Jones, the unit will be designed to prevent overloading of the engine and various critical drive components.

The four main physical systems on the developmental combines are: forward speed control which adjusts automatically to varying crop densities; automatic header height systems which will be much more sensitive than conventional ones now in use; an operator information center which instantly displays harvesting performance results and grain loss figures; and the automatic guidance system which steers the combine by measuring the position of the table head in relation to the standing crop.

These systems will also help to simplify combine operation and reduce operator fatigue. Various routine operating decisions and adjustments which now must be repeated continually will be decreased or eliminated. At the end of each day, the on-board computers will print out daily production results and servicing needs.

Interior view of mobile data collection lab that accompanies the Massey-Ferguson experimental combine to its field test sites. The lab monitors and records data transmitted from 30 sensors on the combine. Test results show possible productivity gains of 50%.

Case Model 3294 features constant traction.

VOLUMATIC III
silage distributor/unloader

install?

When that old silo unloader needs replacing, we can install a new Volumatic III distributor/unloader by Jamesway right away. True, whether your silo is full, empty or partly empty, thanks to our special installation kit. And you get Jamesway's wide-stance hexapod 3-point suspension plus a line-up of features and performance that the others try to match, but can't. There's no better way than Jamesway...see us for systems and service.

Strong replacements

When your barn cleaner needs new chain—whether flat link or hook-link type—we have the perfect replacements. Jamesway chain. Both links are totally forged of rugged, high carbon steel to reduce wear, extend working life. Fit most barn cleaners. There's no better way than Jamesway...see us for systems and service.

Drought-drained silage can pose problems

NEWARK, Del. — Many dairy farmers have been making plans to salvage much of this year's drought-stricken corn crop by harvesting it as silage. Filling silos with drought-stressed corn can be a dangerous and difficult practice for two reasons, says University of Delaware extension dairy specialist George Haenlein: first, because of the potentially high nitrate content of the silage; and second, because of the difficulty of packing stalks that are too dry.

Packing dry stalks is no problem with a trench silo, but in an upright silo if the corn isn't green enough, it may be difficult or impossible to remove air pockets created by pieces of stiff stalk. In such cases, farmers may need to (1) add a preservative to prevent development of mold in the presence of air, or (2) add weight in the form of water during filling and a water-filled plastic bag at the top of the silo afterwards to compress the silage. But he says this approach isn't likely to affect air pockets in the lower part of the silo, so the danger of mold remains.

The potentially high nitrate content of drought-damaged corn in another problem for dairy producers. Nitrates interfere with the oxygen-absorbing capacity of the cows' blood. This may lead to secondary problems, particularly interference with normal reproductive processes, resulting in poor ovulation and/or abortion.

Haenlein says at low levels nitrates can be tolerated or adjusted to, but at medium and high levels they become increasingly dangerous. In extreme cases of nitrate poisoning, cattle may die.

For these reasons, when using drought-stressed corn for silage, he cautions farmers to be alert for the presence of brown nitrous oxide gas seeping out of the silo and flowing down — the gas is heavier than air.

If a producer must feed high nitrate silage, the specialist says it must be diluted with other, safer feeds, such as hay and grain.

He suggests dairy farmers follow these guidelines when using drought-stressed corn, to avoid nitrate problems in silage:

*If there is a rain, wait three to five days before chopping drought-stressed corn silage, because nitrate levels are higher in the plant directly after rain.

*Consider raising the cutterbar on the chopper 12 inches up the stalk. Nitrates are more concentrated in the lower part of the plant, so by doing this, you can leave more nitrates in the field.

*Don't feed freshly chopped corn silage to cattle.

*Wait at least 30 days before feeding silage from the silo. The fermentation process will help dissipate the nitrates in the silage.

*Before feeding, have a sample of the silage analyzed QUANTITATIVELY for nitrate content.

The ideal moisture content for making corn silage is 65-70 percent. Normally this occurs about the time the lower half of the leaves are browning and the tips of the kernels in the center of the ear have a black layer.

Under drought stress when corn has no ears, over half of the leaves on the plant may be "fired." As long as the upper leaves are still green, Haenlein says the plant will likely respond to rainfall by recovering a normal moisture content of 75-70 percent. He suggests farmers apply the following squeeze test to get a general idea of silage moisture in the field.

Case, UAW cooperate on rebate plan

RACINE, Wis. — JI Case and the United Auto Workers (UAW) today announced a special rebate program which passes negotiated savings directly to Case customers.

As part of recent labor negotiations, Case and the UAW will provide rebates of $3,000 (U.S.) per unit on selected Case agricultural and construction equipment models purchased over a two-month period, beginning Sept. 1.

Case and union officials expect this rebate program to stimulate sales and increase production of equipment manufactured at Case plants in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Wisconsin.

"Unlike other recent wage and benefit restraint agreements, this plan breaks new ground because it is designed to directly benefit the customer," says Ralph C. Wagner, senior vice president, corporate relations, for JI Case.

Rebates apply to the purchase of new Case 90 and 94 Series two- or four-wheel-drive farm tractors over 100 horsepower. Construction equipment rebates apply to purchases of new Case 580D and Super D loader/backhoes, models W18 and W20 wheel loaders, model 850 crawler dozers and models 850 and 855 crawler loaders.

After customers have secured their best deal from local Case dealers, and taken advantage of any available Case financing programs, they will receive a $3,000 check from Case and the UAW. This sum also can be applied directly to the purchase price of the equipment. The rebate offer applies to eligible models purchased in the U.S. and Canada, but is not applicable to governmental agencies.

60 YEARS OF LEGENDARY PERFORMANCE.

Series 3 Gleaner combines: further ahead than ever.

Gleaner combines were introduced back in 1923. Ever since, they've been proving their worth...improving their advantages. Now the new Series 3 Gleaner combines—both conventional and rotary—are even further ahead in reliable, productive, cost-effective performance.

It starts with engineering, in the Gleaner tradition of innovative design. With features like the crosswise-mounted cylinder in rotary models, for efficient Natural Flow harvesting. And the unique sure-feed system on all models, that keeps crop moving smoothly without bunching. And dozens more advances that make every Gleaner combine a great performer.

Throughout their 60-year history, Gleaner combines have established a solid reputation for quality. Today, that reputation is maintained through TQA, the Allis-Chalmers Total Quality Assurance program. As it's built, each Gleaner combine must pass 375 separate quality checks—including our own pre-delivery just before you take it home.

See the new Series 3 Gleaner combines, conventional and rotary. There's 60 years of legendary performance behind them. Ask for a demonstration.

Gleaner and Natural Flow are Allis-Chalmers trademarks.

Del. soybean appointment

DOVER, Del. — A Frederica Delaware soybean farmer has been elected chairman of the Delaware Soybean Board.

Homer Torbert was chosen to head the group that manages Delaware's soybean check-off program for research and promotion. Keith Carlisle, of Greenwood, was named vice-chairman, and Olin Gooden, of Woodside, was selected as treasurer. Delaware Agriculture Secretary Donald J. Lynch will serve as secretary.

The Delaware Soybean Board also announced a decision to revise its review process for granting new research projects. A new pre-grant review will be initiated this winter to offer closer scrutiny of check-off funds.

The State's soybean farmers, through the one cent a bushel check-off, are currently financing 11 research projects at a total cost of almost $60,000. Torbert says he expects a similar amount of research money to be available next year, based on projections of Delaware's soybean yield.

Split embryo equine births expected

FORT COLLINS, Colo. — The country's first twin horses produced from one split embryo—first in the world produced by a practical embryo transfer technique—should be born early next summer, Colorado State University researchers have announced.

Two CSU mares are 7 1/2 weeks pregnant, each carrying one-half of a horse embryo, said Dr. Ed Squires, director of CSU's Animal Reproduction Laboratory equine reproduction research program. Each half should produce a healthy foal around June 14.

A 6-day-old embryo was collected nonsurgically July 14 from the uterus of a donor mare, split, and its two halves transferred surgically to two recipient mares, Squires said. Ultrasound examinations this week have shown pregnancies progressing normally.

The embryo collection and splitting processes were the same ones developed by CSU researchers and used to produce identical twin calves last year, Squires said. "We often modify techniques developed for cattle for use in equine reproduction," he said.

The pregnancies are a result of a study on horse embryo collection, freezing, splitting and transfer techniques, said Neville Slade, equine reproduction graduate student who is doing the study. Slade collected the original embryo and transferred the two half-embryos.

Dr. Timothy Williams, post-doctoral fellow, split the embryo, using a microscope and micro-manipulator equipped with tiny tools developed for cattle embryo splitting.

A few years ago, researchers at Cambridge University in England produced the first equine twins from split embryos by surgically removing an embryo from a mare's oviduct. The CSU experiment is the first time pregnancies have been produced from equine embryos collected nonsurgically, Squires said.

Feed brochure available

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, IL — A new 12-page brochure published by A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., describes how "waste" or "opportunity" feeds can be used in feeding programs for beef and dairy cattle.

Titled "Opportunity Feeds," it discusses a variety of crops, such as corn and milo stover, soybeans, sunflowers, and many others that can be fed after being processed through oxygen-limiting storage. The brochures also review proper equipment and techniques for harvesting opportunity crops.

A copy of "Opportunity Feeds" may be obtained by writing: Marketing Communications Dept., A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc., 550 W. Algonquin Road, Arlington Heights, IL 60005.

Brethren heifer auction slated Friday

LEBANON — The Brethren Disaster Relief Auction, one of the largest fund-raising events of its kind in Pennsylvania, will be held next Friday and Saturday at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds. The auction, which last year raised over $80,000 for disaster victims worldwide, annually attracts about 5,000 people from throughout the Eastern U.S.

On Friday, the action will begin at 7 p.m. with the auctioning of about 40 heifers. Last year, the heifer auction attracted about 200 people, and raised over $40,000 from the sale of both grade and registered cattle.

The main auction events will be held Saturday, when handmade quilts, antiques and household items will be spotlighted. About 60 quilts have been donated by several churches within the Atlantic Northeast District of the Church of the Brethren, which sponsors the event. In most cases, the quilts are stitched throughout the year at special sewing bees, and assembled specifically for sale at the auction.

Another major attraction is arts and crafts. Here at least 25 different craftsmen will demonstrate and sell their prized handiwork. In addition, the activities will spotlight a wide variety of food, including roast pig on a spit, pot pie, turkey barbecue, plus a variety of soups, sandwiches, homemade ice cream and baked goods.

Saturday's schedule begins at 7 a.m. with breakfast, followed by the auctioning of new and used items at 9 a.m., comforts at 9:30 a.m., and quilts at 11 a.m. It is recommended that those attending should bring their own lawn chairs.

NEDCO advances $1 million

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Officials of the Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation (NEDCO) report that the cooperative has made another advance to Fultonville producers of nearly $1 million, bringing the total to over $3 million.

Robert Forsythe, NEDCO General Manager, says this is the only money these farmers have received since May 10th and blames the Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets for "stalling" in the use of the State's Producer Security Fund which was established for defaults such as this. "The over 200 dairy farmers who never received payment from Glen & Mohawk for May and June milk are still waiting for a payment out of the Producer Security Fund," he said.

The NEDCO official maintains that NEDCO should not have to advance this money, since the cooperative is not responsible for any milk going into the Fultonville facility until June 26th, when

All proceeds from the auction are given to the Church of the Brethren Disaster Relief Fund, which last year spent $213,180.00 to help disaster victims in California (mud slides), Missouri (floods), Illinois (tornado), Lebanon (civil war), Nicaragua (floods) and elsewhere throughout the world.

NEDCO purchased the plant from the Glen & Mohawk Milk Association. "We're doing it because the producers are really hurting now," said Forsythe. "This money should come directly from the Security Fund set up to pay producers whose handlers default."

The delay in payment by Ag & Markets, NEDCO attributes directly to a squabble between the State and Dairyland over the amount due Dairyland by the Glen & Mohawk Milk Association. Ninety days have gone by so far, said Forsythe, and the Department of Agriculture and Markets is still fiddling around trying to verify the losses to producers.

Hess stresses feed TNI

PARADISE — "Most dairymen own top-producing cows and don't even know it," says John J. Hess II, of Hess Mills, in Paradise. "But they probably also own some cows that are not producing up to their full genetic potential," explains Hess, the local Purina dealer.

"When a cow's milk production is average for the herd, the dairyman assumes he has an average cow. In reality, she may be capable of producing far more milk than she does."

Hess says a number of things may prevent a cow from reaching her full genetic milking potential. Improper feeding is one of them.

"Many dairymen choose a complete feed based on its TDN, or energy content," says Hess. "While energy is a major contributor to milk production, it is not the only one. Protein, minerals and vitamins and the interaction of all nutrients are important as well."

In order to maintain milk persistence in the future, breeding efficiency, body condition and metabolic function must all be taken into consideration, Hess claims. "That's why Purina Dairy Researchers have developed the Total Nutritional Index, a comprehensive rating system for our complete feeds," says Hess. "TNI evaluates rations on each of the above criteria, providing a more realistic indication of their long-term milk-making capabilities."

According to Hess, a ration's current capabilities are also important, because of the direct correlation between short- and long-term milk production. Hess cites research showing that each one pound increase in milk production at the height of lactation yields an additional 200 to 250 pounds of milk later in the same lactation.

"In other words," Hess explains, "when a cow peaks higher than she has in the past, her milk production in later lactation will also improve."

Hess reminds producers that even small increases in milk production bring a cow closer to her full genetic milking potential. That's important, Hess concludes, "because in this day and age, dairymen can't afford cows that don't earn their keep."

SILAGE CONDITIONER PRESERVATIVE and NUTRIENT BALANCER

100 LIQUID SILAGE FORTIFIER

A revolutionary new concept in improving silages. University tested and proven. Liquid Silage Fortifier is formulated to COMPLETE general and protein deficiencies of silage. MOPRO 100 is added after being re-mixed with silage. It is added at the time of silage making with very little equipment. It does not corrode mild steel tanks or irritate the eyes. It is a non-toxic solution of ammonia salt. It provides less than $5.85 a ton of silage. It provides nitrogen for improved fermentation in the rumen and contains a mineral balance of phosphorous, magnesium, and trace elements including selenium. MOPRO 100 will give a resulting silage of up to 14.3% protein.

Small is 240 milking string

CHINO VALLEY, Cal. — In the Chino Valley, Walt and Bill Lekkerkerker, owners of Lekker Holsteins are somewhat unusual. For one thing, their herd is small - it numbers just 290 cows with 240 milking. For another thing, the cows are milked in a barn with pipeline milkers, and for another their raise their own herd replacements.

Bill Lekkerkerker explained that the family decided to have fewer numbers and keep the quality of their herd high. Indeed, in 1980 this herd had the highest production in the nation. In 1982 their record on three times a day milking was 24,424 pounds of milk and 902 pounds of fat for 285 cows. The milking herd of 235 cows averaged 27,404 pounds of milk and 1,012 pounds of fat.

The three times a day milking began three years ago and Lekkerkerker says, "The first year we got a great response from everybody. Now it is harder to keep the body weight and harder to maintain the production."

Cows are fed in production groups, with three high groups, two middle groups and one low. Concentrates are fed in the barn three times daily and alfalfa hay is feed outside five times daily. Lekker Holsteins employs a professional nutritionist, who analyzes hay before it is purchased, and buys it only if it meets herd requirements.

face-out flat barn with a two-inch high-line milking system.

Lekkerkerker says they have a lot of embryo transplant work done, flushing their own cows and maintaining their own herd of recipients.

Calf raising is done by Mrs. Walt Lekkerkerker who sees that they get colostrum within the first half hour. They are then fed for 14 days by bottle. Fresh grain is offered twice daily along with fresh water. Mrs. Lekkerkerker said the grain troughs are cleaned regularly. It is in this calf barn, where calves are housed in individual pens, that a "Drink Milk" sign is prominently displayed, evidence of their recognition for the need to advertise.

The younger Lekkerkerker observed that cows were dying in the unusual humidity, though he said, "We haven't lost any yet." He added that the usual weather consists of very high temperatures, but with dry heat and a breeze, "Cows are really under stress."

A more traditional dairy by Chino Valley standards is Bos Dairy at Mira Loma, owned and operated by Tony Bos. The prefix Bossir is well known in dairy circles, and Bos has about 190 registered animals in his herd of 700 cows. A colorful brochure advertises some of the top animals in the herd.

The 590 milking animals are milked three times daily in a fully automated double-10 herringbone "pregnant" parlor. There is a 50 cow string of registered cows milked in a flat barn. Bossir Holsteins boasts 16 bulls in studs across the country.

The 1982 production was 21,412 pounds of milk and 759 pounds of fat for 650 cows. The milking herd averaged 550 cows with 25,235 pounds of milk and 894 pounds of fat.

Nutritionist Howard Hellman is employed by Bos Dairy to ensure that the feeding program is effecting good production. Hellman called the alfalfa grown locally "the most outstanding hay in the country because of the good drying conditions." It has 20-21 percent protein and 18.5 - 19 percent fiber level. Hay is purchased mostly in the springtime at an average price of $125 - $132 per ton. Hellman noted, "We make a special effort to buy really good hay."

Hellman pointed out that Bos is "one of the few farmers in the area who farms." Bos raises sudan and barley on the acreage adjoining his dairy.

Excelsior Dairy is not only a commercial dairy, but it is also a bull stud, Excelsior Breeders, which served as one of the hosts of the National Association of Animals Breeders' convention with Carnation Genetics. Excelsior Breeders has 8-10 proven sires and about 15 young bulls in their sampling program. It is the home

(Turn to Page D12)

Lekker Holsteins is different from most operations in the Chino Valley in that the owners Walt and Bill Lekkerkerker have chosen to remain small with top quality. "Small" means that they milk just 235 cows, and the quality means that they were the top producing herd in the country in 1980. That was when they began three times a day milking. Lekkerkerker says it is difficult to maintain that high production. Their dairy is also one of the few that milks the cows in a face-out, 80-cow flat barn with a pipeline milking system.

MORE FOR LESS.

The Storage System for the future. Here Now!

THE AG-BAG SYSTEM

MORE FEED. MORE STORAGE. MORE HIGH QUALITY TDN & PROTEIN.

Select from three models of AG-BAG Machines. Motorized, Hydraulic, and Gear-Driven. AG-BAG lets you match the machine to your job. Big or small. Whether you're DAIRY or BEEF AG-BAG will store More For Less. The AG-BAG System. Air-tight storage with more versatility than any other system. Just look at these AG-BAG ADVANTAGES:

1. UNLIMITED oxygen-limiting storage
2. Storage for ALL forages & grain

3. Transportable
4. Easy to use and little maintenance
5. NO dangerous silo gases
6. Silo fires WON'T occur
7. Higher moisture forage
8. NO unloader to break down
9. Extra income and potential from custom bagging
10. THE Forage System for the 80's

JUST LISTEN TO WHAT THESE AG-BAG BELIEVERS HAVE TO SAY:

Kenneth Popham of Floresville, Texas

Kenneth runs a 465 cow Dairy and said this about AG-BAG "At today's interest rates you can't afford any other type of storage. Even with the yearly cost of bags it's still inexpensive storage. A whole lot cheaper than building barns and hiring help. I put up 13 bags last year and after seeing the results, I'll put up 25 bags this year. The bags are a good thing."

Don Carter of Parkdale, Oregon

"The best move I ever made," says Don Carter in reference to his switch to bagging silage on his dairy near Parkdale, Oregon. "I get 18% more feed from the same acreage and the feed lasts three times as long. I used to clean my bunks after three days, now I only need to clean them after 10 days."

Roland Rasmussen of Blair, Nebraska

Roland farms 350 acres west of Blair, Nebraska, and fattens about 650 cattle from 600 lbs. to finish.

"By labeling every bag as to date and kind of feed, I can mix my feeds and eliminate the guess work in making a ration. I feed alfalfa silage, corn silage and ground ear corn stored exclusively in the bags, purchasing only my minerals and vitamin supplements."

The AG-BAG system has enabled me to increase carrying capacity per acre at a reduced cost of gain.

Bert Anderson of Sceptre, Saskatchewan

"At least 30% more feed," I can guarantee at least that," says rancher Bert Anderson of Sceptre, Saskatchewan.

"I've been able to cut my grain feeding costs in half since converting to the bagging. It's just like feeding grass. I've also eliminated the need for a liquid supplement that we always fed before going to the AG-BAG System."

Md. poultry growers cautioned on Avian

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Instead of running its course, as expected, avian influenza continues to loom as serious health threat for poultry flocks on the Delmarva peninsula.

That's the word from Dr. Edward T. Mallinson, Extension poultry veterinarian at the University of Maryland in College Park.

Dr. Mallinson notes that, so far, the malady has been restricted to the northern half of nearby Lancaster County, where the number of infected broiler and layer flocks has increased from 10 in early July to 17 by early August.

With nearly 2 million birds involved in the infected flocks, the southeast Pennsylvania situation represents the nation's largest outbreak of avian influenza among chickens in nearly 50 years, Mallinson said. He is an associate professor in the Virginia-Maryland

In late July, Maryland's Dr. Mallinson noted at a luncheon

While not a health hazard to consumers of poultry and eggs, the virus disease has caused mortality rates among Pennsylvania flocks, ranging from 2.5 to 15 percent for broilers and up to 2 percent for layers. Egg production drops in infected layer flocks have ranged from 4 to 40 percent, with many in the range of 10 to 30 percent.

In Maryland, the situation is of most immediate concern to poultry producers in Cecil and Kent counties — where the population of layers has jumped from almost nothing to more than two million in the last five years. Carroll county, which likewise borders Pennsylvania, also has a large population of layers.

And, there is an ever-present threat of the disease moving down Maryland's Eastern Shore as a scourge to the big Delmarva broiler industry.

IN late July, Maryland's Dr. Mallinson noted at a luncheon meeting in Salisbury that waterfowl — while relatively resistant themselves — are major carriers of avian influenza. Thus, he foresaw increased possibility of a disease outbreak among Delmarva broiler flocks this fall as the migratory season for wild ducks and geese becomes a reality. That warning still stands.

Pennsylvania investigators have reported there is a suspicion that the rash of avian influenza cases in Pennsylvania was begun last spring by children tracking waterfowl fecal droppings into a poultry house after playing near ponds frequented by migratory wild ducks and geese on the Atlantic flyway.

In addition to the waterfowl connection, the Maryland veterinarian lists the following as possible infection carriers:

- Equipment repair persons, exterminators (pest control operators), servicemen and deliverymen, people involved in hauling poultry to processing plants, and others who go from one poultry farm to another in the normal course of business. Social callers could also be included.

- Coops, crates, trucks, and filler flats.

Regarding the last item, Dr. Mallinson advises that filler flats should not be allowed in layer or breeder houses unless they are either new fiber flats or cleaned and disinfected plastic flats.

Until the extent of the problem in Pennsylvania has been fully defined, Dr. Mallinson advises Maryland producers to not allow persons in their poultry houses who have been on farms in Lancaster County — unless they don protective headwear, cleaned and disinfected boots, and freshly laundered cover-alls.

Farmers themselves should keep such clean, sanitized clothing on hand for visitors, the Maryland Extension specialist said. He commended the Lancaster County Poultry Association for its very active role in promoting highly ungraded sanitation security programs for all persons who visit poultry houses in southeast Pennsylvania.

Mallinson notes that avian influenza can spread quite readily among poultry flocks, and even to livestock — especially swine. It is similar in contagiousness to Newcastle disease, another virus scourge of the poultry world. There is no specific medication for the disease. That's why health precautions have to be very rigid.

He commented that ways to insure safe movement of pullets and slaughter fowl to Maryland from suspect areas are being explored.

The stud collects, evaluates, extends, packages in straws and freezes semen at the dairy, and markets their semen through an agreement with Carnation Genetics.

The dairy herd size is 650 cows with 540 milking. Approximately 250 of these are registered Holsteins. Production average for the total herd in 1982 was 19,924 pounds of milk and 678 pounds of fat. The milking herd average was 23,449 pounds of milk and 798 pounds of fat.

This is another dairy which raises its own replacements, both registered and grade. All bull calves are sold at one day of age except those resulting from special matings. Many of the outstanding brood cows are in a program of super-ovulation and embryo transfer.

Scout soybeans for podworms

NEWARK, Del — Welcome rain the last week of August came too late to help much of Delaware's drought-stricken corn crop, but it did give a hopeful boost to soybeans. Now growers have something else to worry about—the threat of a podworm outbreak in their beans.

Both earworm and fall armyworm populations are reported to be higher than last year in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina, says University of Delaware extension entomologist Mark Graustein. And he says considerable numbers of moths have been found in black light traps in Delaware.

He advises growers to scout soybean fields promptly because the worms can do the most harm right now, during pod fill. "Damaged pods aren't likely to develop fully," Graustein says. "In fact, they often dry and drop off."

He recommends checking a minimum of 3 feet of row in at least five places in each field (10 places is preferred). Tap stalks sharply several times to dislodge any worms present. Then check the ground around the base of each plant as well as between rows.

"Don't assume the big worms you see are the only ones there," he says. "Look carefully for small ones, too. If you count them now, you may be able to detect a potentially serious problem and come back a week later to check again."

"You'll probably see a lot of cabbage loopers and green clover worms which are not pod feeders. The clover worms wiggle and jump rapidly when touched," the specialist says. "Don't confuse these with the podworms, which will vary in color from yellow to pink, green or brown and in general have dark and light striped bodies. The larger ones also will have dark spots. Earworms generally have an amber colored head, whereas the fall armyworm has a dark head with a light inverted "Y" on the front."

Wide row soybeans are most likely to be infested. For rows 20 inches or wider the threshold is an average of three worms per 3 feet of row, or one per foot.

In narrower rows, the threshold is 1 to 1 1/2 worms per 3 feet of row, depending on podset. "These thresholds should be adjusted downward where pod set is poor because of heat-induced blossom drop," Graustein says.

Where treatment is necessary, spray with one of the following insecticides according to label directions. Ambush, Lannate-LV, Orthene, PennCap-M, Pounce or Pydrin.

Daily under-slat cleaning with 42" flites

Just push a button and 42" flites remove manure from under slatted floors or crates in farrowing houses, nurseries and finishing areas. Manure moves to your manure pump, compressed air manure mover or outside storage area.

The Patz Under-Slat Cleaner moves manure outside building to avoid gas and odor problems from under-building manure storage. Lowered ventilation requirements allow draft-free, warm environment.

This 42" gutter cleaner uses proven Patz hook-and-eye link chain. It is powered by the same performance-proven drive unit as the popular Patz Gutter Cleaner.

"REAL" Seal on Milk

The Dairy Business

By Newton Bair

I've promised to report on some first hand observations of French, Swiss, German and Netherlands agriculture. My wife and I were hosts to a group of Lebanon Countians who spent 12 days touring central Europe, during which we visited farms and saw much of the agricultural countryside. I'll cover them one at a time.

FRENCH AGRICULTURE

Agriculture is the major industry of France. Since France is a member of the European Economic Community (EEC), production and pricing of farm products is closely controlled by the Government. Strange as it may seem to us, France is considered to be the breadbasket of Western Europe.

Travelling through northern France, on the way from Brussels, Belgium to Paris, the farmland closely resembles our flat or gently rolling land in southern Pennsylvania. The soil is derived from limestone, well drained and very fertile. There is not much evidence of rock outcrop, and it looks to be fairly easy to farm. The big difference is the design of the farm buildings and farmstead layout. Many of the larger farms, over 50 hectares (a hectare is equal to 2.471 acres) have a set of farm buildings right on the farm.

Older homesteads still have the main barn and the living quarters all in one unit under a single roof, but many newer buildings, built since the war to replace those plundered or destroyed, are built separately. Most of the smaller farmers are congregated in small villages, where the house and barn is a single unit housing the family as well as the animals.

At the end of July, the French farmers were just beginning to harvest wheat. They were expecting a good crop, and this was quite evident from the very heavy straw and large heads we saw on the wheat. They average nearly 65 bushels per acre, with yields as high as 90 bushels. How can they get these high yields?

They are using fungicides for disease control, hormone treatments to keep the straw short, and heavy Nitrogen fertilization for high yields. Every field has permanent tracks that have been made by the spraying and fertilizer equipment. The fields are free of weeds and we seldom saw any lodged grain. The extra cost of achieving maximum yields is borne by the French government.

Why can't we get yields of wheat as high as European farmers? The answer is, we can. With the use of fungicides like Bayleton, and growth regulators, we can fertilize more heavily with Nitrogen without fear of lodging. The new materials will be approved for general use after they are thoroughly researched and approved in the U.S.A.

Most of the cattle we saw in France were dual purpose breeds. The Pie Rouge (mixed red) breed is quite evident. This breed is derived from the Swiss heavy cattle originally bred in the Simme Valley. Similar offshoots of these cows are all over Europe, and go by different names in other countries. A well known relative is the Fleckvieh in Austria and Germany. There has been a lot of mixing and selection for the kinds of cattle most suited to the local and national purposes.

An occasional herd of Holsteins can be seen. Many of the herds are using American and Canadian bulls and semen to increase milk production. We saw herds that radically changed both production and type in just one generation by using imported semen from American bulls. French farmers are not too conscious of color. A casual glance at their cows will often fool you. Many Holsteins are red, and since the other dual purpose breeds are also red, you have to look a little closer to see the difference between dairy breeds and the dual purpose beef and dairy breeds. Many of their dairy cows are more "beefy" than we like to see our cows.

French farmers appreciate high test in their dairy cows. For this reason, they are turning to the United States and Canada for semen and young bulls from our high testing sires. Great for our export sales!

DON'T DRINK WATER

Our travels took us through the eastern part of France unknown as Burgundy. Beside the heavy historical aura of this region, it is best known for its vineyards. They don't refer to the crop as grapes. The common term is to grow Wine. Burgundy is famous for its wine, and I must admit that a traveller in France had better do as the French do—drink wine instead of water. You'll stay healthier!

We Americans are accustomed to drinking lots of cold, fresh water. But in France as well as other European countries, water is for irrigation, sailing, canal travel, and occasionally for taking a bath! But its too dangerous to use for drinking! You practically have to beg for a drink of ice water, no matter how thirsty you are. Of course you can find Coke and other expensive beverages, including bottled mineral water, but they really push the wine. At least it's pure, and seems to be less likely to upset the travellers digestive system. So, in Burgundy do as the Burgundians do, drink Burgundy!

EXTRA, EXTRA...

Hear what Glenn Longenecker has to say about HYDRO-MAG!

Aug. 15, 1983

Hiestand Supply Co.
R.D. #1
Marietta, Pa. 17547

Dear Burnell and Paul,

We purchased a 1 1/2" Hydro-Mag water conditioner from you in March. We want to let you know how well this unit has worked for us.

We raise about 1500 hogs, 50-100 beef, and milk about 50 head of dairy. We also have about 20 chickens in a small coop. Our water is 40-50 grains hard due to limestone soil and we have 120 ppm of nitrates as well.

We were told by our feed consultants that our bad water may be the cause of our poor milk production and mastitis in our dairy cows. We proceeded to install two commercial water softeners, a chlorinator, nitrate tank, and a ultra violet light over the course of time. This investment of close to $7500.00 didn't solve our problems, but our bacteria was reduced with the ultra violet light. For nine months this equipment failed to show any improvement. Sharon and I were seriously wondering how much longer we could last under these conditions. Our dairy was producing about 40 lbs. (daily herd ave.) and sometimes even in the thirties.

When you contacted us about the Hydro-Mag we were skeptical, but we knew of nothing else to try and our problem still persisted. We had nothing to lose with your money back guaranty.

In March when we installed it, all the other water equipment except for the ultra violet light was disconnected. At the time our dairy cows were drinking about 1200-1300 gals. a day of water. Within a week their water consumption started to increase till it reached 1800-1900 gals. a day. Through the summer the water consumption has maintained between 1900-2100 gals. a day. The hotter the day the more water they drink and the more milk they would produce. Currently our milk production is up to 50+ lbs. daily herd ave. The appetite of the cows has also improved greatly. We also had two cows in the hot weather which didn't clean but neither got sick or smelled bad as other years. Another thing we noticed is that this summer the cows didn't have the feed trough wet and slopped up like other summers. Our milk quality has improved that much that last month, for the first time, we were on our Co-op's Honor Roll.

Concerning our pigs, on the last lot of pigs we only used half the medication we normally use in the first couple of weeks after arrival. The pigs also increased water consumption and feed consumption from day one. We had very little scouring and have no problem getting the pigs to drink as we normally do. These are the healthiest and most uniform lot of pigs we've raised.

Even our twenty chickens, which are a year old, went from 6-8 eggs a day to 15-17 eggs a day within a few weeks of the installation of the Hydro-Mag.

Other areas of improvement we notice is that the lime no longer builds up on our tea pot as a hard scale but now can be wiped out with a cloth. Also the scale buildup on our coil in our hot water heater has been greatly reduced.

We must say the Hydro-Mag has performed far past our expectations and are quite satisfied with the unit. We would recommend this unit to anyone with similar water related problems.

Sincerely,

Glenn Longenecker

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Quality Forage

Don't knock the weather; most people would have a hard time starting a conversation if it didn't change once in awhile. How true but it would have been nice to have had a few normal days this spring. On the other hand, I did read one commentators report where he said "perhaps the weather we have had so far this year will do more to reduce agricultural surpluses than all the past and proposed governmental action put together."

It's In The Making

Forage quality is more directly related to forage harvest than any other single factor. With inclement weather thru much of the early hay crop making season, we now have to play catch up. In many cases, it would be justifiable to hire additional help and equipment. If you do this be careful! Take some preventative medicine like steps: (1) hire competent help; (2) make sure the help can handle equipment—put them thru some routine tests such as stopping, turning off PTO power, turning the equipment around; (3) give the help some safety rules that must be followed such as turning equipment off when re-fueling, repairing, or unclogging; (4) have equipment in reasonably safe state of repair; (5) make sure your workmens compensation insurance covers all hired help.

Forage quality is important. Time for making good quality hay crop forage is rapidly running out. Down time due to broken machinery or injured people can cause great financial harm. So remember this: Hiring of additional labor, extra long hours of field work and hiring of additional equipment may be some solutions to the problem of how do I get the best quality forage out of the time I have left. But there is no such thing as a perfect solution. Every solution, no matter how good, creates new problems.

Effect on Overall Feeding Program

Forage quality can have no effect on the total feeding program. It effects the amount of forage consumption by the animals, can increase or decrease ration costs, and may even reduce or increase the total rations digestibility. Above all you must make good use of forage testing if you are interested in receiving the maximum profit for your inputs.

Next Year's Feed Efficiency

The present forage crop will have a tremendous affect on this winter's feed efficiency. In the farm analysis I did this past winter, I found that some farmers evidently sold two to two and a half times as much livestock product per dollar of feed used as did other farmers. This coming year one question that I intend to explore in my farm business enterprise analysis is "how many pounds of grain and concentrate is a dairyman or hog farmer using to produce 100 pounds of milk or pork?" I also want to see how many pounds of forage is being used to produce 100 pounds of milk. I suspect that the grain to milk ratio is far different on many farms than most farmers realize.

It's easy to understand why you'll never see a Badger Box in "the forage box graveyard."

You can't buy a better box than Badger's. Start with specially treated acid resistant exterior grade plywood, bolted to steel channel stakes. No nails anywhere. Add to that a tough welded and bolted undercarriage built to carry the big loads. Match all this with Badger's simple and reliable heavy roller chain drive, a beater design that delivers a smooth even discharge to the blower. And then mount it on Badger's own heavy duty single or tandem axle running gear and you've got a box that will stand up to the toughest punishment.

Huntingdon names dairy show winners

BY PATTY GROSS MOCK
Staff Correspondent

HUNTINGDON — One of the largest and best dairy shows ever was held recently at the 1983 Huntingdon County Fair. Nearly 400 dairy cows paraded into two rings before the judges. A 3-year-old owned by Jefferson Byler, R1 Petersburg came out of the arena with the grand champion rozette.

Bylerlawn Correlation Spice was one of nearly 200 Holsteins in the show. The reserve grand champion Holstein was a 100,000 pound entry owned by Burket Falls Farm, East Freedom.

The largest open dairy show in the 123-year history of the Huntingdon Fair gained high praise from judges Patty McMurray, Washington, and John Rinehart, Taneytown, Maryland.

In the open show five breeds were judged. Champion results follow.

Obie Snider, Singing Brook Farms, Imbler, opened the 1983 Huntingdon County Fair by judging the 4-H and FFA Junior Dairy Show for his fourth time. Snider selected a Holstein cow shown by Huntingdon County Dairy Princess Jennifer Davis as senior and grand champion. The reserve champion was exhibited by Terry Branstetter. John Foster, III and the junior champion and receiving the nod for reserve junior champion was the black and white owned by Foster's cousin

John Paul Wensel.

MILK MARKET NEWS

Order No. 4 class I Milk Price $15.28
for October 1983

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Middle Atlantic Order Market Administrator Joseph D. Shine announced on September 2, a Class I milk price of $15.28 per hundredweight for October 1983. This price is down two cents from the September price but is four cents higher than last October. Order No. 4 prices are announced for milk testing 3.5 percent butterfat f.o.b. plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia, PA and also within 75 miles from the nearer of Washington, DC or Baltimore, MD. There is also a 6-cent direct-delivery differential applicable to producer milk received at plants located within 55 miles of Philadelphia.

Mr. Shine announced a Class II milk price of $12.60 per hundredweight for August 1983 and a butterfat differential of 17.0 cents for the month. The Class II price is up seasonally by five cents from July while the butterfat differential increased one-tenth of a cent.

The October Class I price and the August Class II price are based on the August 1983 Minnesota-Wisconsin manufacturing milk price of $12.48 per hundredweight at a 3.5 percent butterfat content.

The USDA reported that the wholesale price of Grade A butter at Chicago for August was $1.4775 per pound and the nonfat dry milk price was $.9359 per pound, f.o.b. plants in the Chicago area.

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — On August 23, 1983, C. W. McMillan, Assistant Secretary, Marketing and Inspection Services, United States Department of Agriculture, signed a Final Order regulating the handling of milk in the Middle Atlantic marketing area. The effective date of the Final Order is September 1, 1983.

1 1/4 million served in Pa. Needy Program

HARRISBURG — State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell recently told the Pennsylvania House of Representatives Special Bipartisan Committee to Investigate Food and Cheese Distribution that "at least 1.25 million needy Pennsylvania individuals, couples and families" have been served by the Needy Family Program since January, 1982.

Hallowell praised what he called "an incredible record of accomplishment" and an "amazing volunteer effort from hundreds of charitable, non-profit and service organizations and thousands of individuals volunteers across the commonwealth." He said, "The unprecedented use of local governments and volunteers enabled us to assume the responsibility of this program on short notice without additional staff or cost to the state's taxpayers."

Since February of 1982, 19,454,450 pounds of cheese and 9,050,064 pounds of butter have been distributed to needy Pennsylvanians.

Hallowell told the Committee "The thousands of individuals, hundreds of social service organizations...and the dozens of county and local governments who have participated in this program have made it possible." He said that through their efforts, more than $42.5 million in cheese and butter had been distributed throughout the commonwealth.

"We are proud of our role in serving as a clearinghouse for orders, scheduling and delivery of these commodities," he said, "and we will continue our efforts to respond to both local needs and federal program changes."

A full text of Secretary Hallowell's testimony to the Committee states:

"Mr. Chairman, thank you for the opportunity to speak with your committee. The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is responsible for government donated food programs, including the distribution of cheese, butter and other surplus food commodities under the Needy Family Program.

"President Reagan announced plans for a program to help reduce inventories of surplus dairy products at the Commodity Credit Corporation, in December, 1981. In January of 1982, the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture signed an agreement with the U.S. Department of Agriculture to serve as "middleman," in coordinating the receipt and distribution of cheese to the needy of our state. Since February of 1982, 19,454,450 pounds of cheese and 9,050,064 pounds of butter have been distributed to at least 1.25 million needy Pennsylvania individuals, couples and families.

"These figures in themselves bear out an incredible record of accomplishment, and place Pennsylvania among the national leaders in total number of pounds of these commodities distributed to the needy. This record would simply not have been possible were it not for an amazing volunteer effort from hundreds of charitable, non-profit and service organizations and thousands of individual volunteers across the commonwealth. Organizations such as the United Way, Salvation Army, food banks, the Red Cross, Community Action Programs, Area Agencies on the Aging, and dozens of public, private and religious service agencies have joined hands to produce this effort on behalf of our needy families and individuals.

Pa. Needy Program

"The system that has been developed in Pennsylvania for delivery of these commodities is the result of more than a year of experience. At one point in time, the Department had signed distribution agreements with 396 local, county and regional organizations to distribute process cheese. Now, however, although these organizations continue to provide their essential time and local knowledge, we are working through our County Commissioners to have a sole responsible coordinating agency in each county. At this time, 55 of our 67 counties are functioning with a single agency serving that coordinating capacity.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is proud of what has been accomplished since January of 1982 at a cost of only $300,000. The unprecedented use of local governments and volunteers enabled us to assume the responsibility of this program on short notice without additional staff or cost to the state's taxpayers.

"Pennsylvania's role in this program is that of middleman—working to establish local distribution outlets to best serve local needs, placing orders with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in response to local agency requests, and in some cases, providing cold storage warehouse space to better accommodate local needs for space and timing. We have also assumed the added responsibility for taking representative samples of these commodities as they arrive to insure quality.

"We are working with a statewide volunteer Advisory Committee and the hundreds of local agencies involved to insure that these commodities reach the truly needy of the state most efficiently and effectively. And we are working with the USDA to continually adjust our plans to meet their program changes.

"These program changes, which include varying quantities and allocations, essentially determine which commodities, in what quantities and the time frame for delivery of these commodities to the Commonwealth. In the face of the unpredictable nature of these USDA offerings at times, the job that has been done by the participants in Pennsylvania's pro-

"Since the initial announcement of a 'cheese distribution' by the President, the Needy Family Commodity Distribution program has expanded to include butter, nonfat dry milk, cornmeal, flour, honey and milled rice. The public expects to see these commodities at the local level, yet the actual quantities which are allocated by USDA based on available surpluses may not serve all those who are needy.

"For example, Pennsylvania's allotments of commodities for the Needy Family Program from July through September, as they stand now, show:

280,224 two-pound bags of milled rice

204,000 three-pound cans of honey and 144,000 five-pound bags of A.P. flour.

"Butter shipments scheduled for September into Pennsylvania include three trucks—115,236 one-pound blocks. These figures make it obvious that with 1.25 million families being served, allocations are necessary, and we are dealing with that necessity through cooperation of agencies and the Advisory Committee.

"Since the passage of P.L. 98-8 (The Jobs Bill) our involvement in food and feeding programs has been expanded even further to include foods distributed to cooperative emergency feeding facilities such as soup kitchens, temporary shelters and hunger centers which prepare on-site meals. That bill additionally provided funding to the state to reimburse costs for administering the Needy Family Program through to the local level. With state approval for these funds only recently passed, we will seek a statewide coordinated effort to make best use of the funding. The Statewide Task Force on the Jobs Bill, which includes representatives of the United Way, County Commissioners Association and many other social service organizations, will consider these uses.

"The state's 1983-1984 budget provides an additional appropriation of $8 million to supplement these hunger programs. I can assure the Committee, that based on the performance record of the past 18 months, these surplus food products will reach our truly needy individuals and families at a most reasonable cost.

"These programs, and the other programs which deal with government donated surplus commodities, are coordinated by our Bureau of Government Donated Food, which transferred to the Department of Agriculture in July, 1981. Since that time, the role of the Bureau has greatly expanded.

"While additional responsibilities were being placed on the Bureau, we have been working to streamline its procedures, to provide a more workable and efficient system for the distribution of donated foods through other ongoing programs.

"This year the commercial warehouses which store government donated food were selected after a bidding procedure, and after taking local agencies' needs and transportation costs into consideration. We expect the end result of this action will be easier access to the commodities for local participating agencies.

"In summary, Mr. Chairman, I feel that through cooperation, planning and a tremendous volunteer effort by Pennsylvania's local governments, food banks and charitable organizations, Pennsylvania's 1.25 million needy families have been well served by this federal program.

"The thousands of individuals, hundreds of social service organizations like Catholic Social Services and the United Way, for example, and the dozens of county and local governments who have participated in this program have made it possible.

"What began as a one-time distribution of surplus government donated cheese, has now resulted in 19.5 million pounds of cheese and nine million pounds of butter being placed in the hands of Pennsylvania's needy—more than $42.5 million of these foods distributed for just $300,000. That is a ratio of better than $1,417 of commodities distributed for every one dollar in storage or distribution costs—a record I would challenge anyone to match.

"We are proud of our role in serving as a clearinghouse for orders, scheduling and delivery of these commodities for distribution, and we will continue our efforts to fine tune the system and respond to both local needs and federal program changes.

"I look forward to working with these agencies, the advisory council and the General Assembly in continuing this program's exemplary service to the citizens of the Commonwealth.

"At this time, I would be pleased to answer any questions you or the Committee may have.

Motorcycle trip

There's nothing like a trip to the Midwest to cure that claustrophobic Eastern feeling. It's not that we don't have our open spaces, or that they don't have their urban areas. It's just that their open areas are so large and their urban areas so far apart you hardly notice them. I had a chance to do a little Midwest exploring this summer during a trip to Madison, Wisc. It was quite an adventure since I chose to skip the usual plane ride and go by motorcycle — 2,000 miles across much of America's breadbasket and into the heart of dairy land.

The thought of a cross-country motorcycle trip conjures up all kinds of images, depending on your perspective. When I first raised the possibility, a cycling friend encouraged it and cautioned that if you're afraid to ride one you shouldn't own one. So with that bit of advice and the help of a good motorcycle mechanic, I was ready for the trip.

For many people such a journey would be along, boring treck through miles and miles of nothing. But to this agricultural writer it will long be remembered. There's something about the unrestrained view from the seat of a cycle that lets you enjoy the countryside even more than in the family automobile. And there's another benefit — the smells that never entered the closed up air-conditioned automobile, but are all around you when you ride a cycle.

Smells of ag

I had almost forgotten how strong some of those agricultural odors are. Some pleasant, and some not so pleasant. The smell of new-mown hay. I know songs have been sung and poems written, but lots of people travel across country and never smell it. And if you were raised on a farm, it's not just a strong agricultural smell, but a very nostalgic one. For who can forget those boyhood days cutting, raking and baling hay. And it only takes a whiff of that new-mown essence to start the memories flooding.

And then there's the smell of cornfields. Who would think a cornfield would have an odor, but it does. A very strong, indescribable odor of corn growing in the field. And it was everywhere — across Ohio, Indiana and Illinois — as I rolled past acres and acres of green-growing corn. And then there were the hog farms and dairy barns, some more fragrant than others, depending on the management skill of the operators. Some so offensive as to make you want to hurry on past, and others just indicators that a livestock operation was going on nearby.

No wonder some farmers are in trouble with the Environmental Protection Agency, their local governments and their neighbors. It must have to do with attitude because some large livestock operations omitted a very low level of unpleasant odor, and other smaller ones were simply overpowering. You really can't blame the animals for that.

Plenty to see

There were other smells — honeysuckle, roses, pesticides, marshland, mining valleys, industrial production, and some other odors I couldn't even identify. Odors that I was completely unaware of from inside an automobile.

And there was plenty to see out there in rural America, even though some people don't think so. A young neighbor recently described his trip across Kansas on a bicycle as three days of wheat fields. Well I found my brief journey to Wisconsin to be a lot more than that. Mid-July found farmers doing almost every conceivable kind of field work from planting soybeans to harvesting wheat. They were baling hay and straw, cultivating corn, spraying chemicals and setting irrigation systems. In Illinois they were walking soybean fields with hoes in hand, chopping those occasional weeds that sprouted. And I saw a few farmers with strange little buggies, riding up and down their soybean rows looking for those errant weeds.

How black some of the Illinois soil is and how long and straight the rows. You can look in any direction and see nothing but farmland. You can look in any direction and see nothing but farmland. Unbroken by woods and urban sprawl the farms just roll on and on, right up to the skyline. I would turn off my motorcycle engine and hear nothing but the sounds of nature — birds, insects and an occasional mooing cow, or perhaps a tractor baling hay in the distance. On some country roads it would be several minutes before another traveler would come along to break the silence.

If farmers have taken a fourth of their land out of production and put it into the P.I.K. program, they are surely hiding those fields. I saw a few weedy patches that marked P.I.K. participants but not nearly the magnitude that I had expected. Surely farmers are putting their P.I.K. acres somewhere on the back 40, out of sight from passing agricultural writers.

An amazing phenomena to me was to relate the depth and quality of the soil to the appearance of the farmsteads, particularly in Illinois where this is so easily recognized. Some of those black-land sections go on for miles and miles. They're as level as a table and the soil as deep as you can imagine. And the farmsteads all looked good — buildings painted, grass clipped, machinery well cared for and a general appearance of prosperity. And then the land would start to get lighter. That's when I started to see more hard times, more farmsteads in need of paint, more rundown machinery, more old pickup trucks, and a general sign of impending failure.

Then on to Wisconsin — the great dairy state with its red barns and milk cows I had been to Wisconsin before — almost 25 years ago — and I was equally impressed this time by the quantity of red barns. Why Wisconsin farmers paint their barns red and Illinois farmers paint theirs white is a mystery to me. Maybe it has to do with an ethnic background, or perhaps just a real good red paint salesman, but it is truly an agricultural phenomena.

There's little doubt that farm commodity production is regionalized to a large extent. If the Delmarva peninsula stopped growing corn and soybeans, Wisconsin would produce more. If we stopped growing chickens, I don't know what would happen.

But what does this mean to Delmarva farmers? I suppose it means there is an awful lot of agriculture out there that we must compete against and participate in. And while the peninsula is not a vast agricultural area, it is a significant one. But if Delmarva farmers are going to continue to farm they're going to have to compete in the marketplace with those big Midwestern farmers. And they're going to have to maintain an environment free from the urban pressures that might prevent this.

In some of the communities where I traveled farming was the only business. The biggest store in town was the John Deere dealer and the biggest employer was a nearby farmer. You can bet those kinds of communities aren't going to shackle agricultural production with unnecessary harassment over water quality, wind erosion, and agricultural odors.

All in all it was an interesting experience. It provided a view of American agriculture that's hard to get any other way. I returned confident in the farm system's ability to feed American people and a continuing concern about its ability to overproduce.

Would I do it again? Well not any time soon. I've seen American agriculture from the seat of a motorcycle. I returned unharmed and a little rump-weary. It was an agricultural adventure that doesn't have to be repeated.

The Milk Check

TOM JURCHAK
County Agent

Nature's Way

While Congress and the dairy industry have been trying for two years to bring milk production back in line with consumption, mother nature may provide the solution within two months. Already 15 counties in Pennsylvania have applied for emergency assistance claiming losses of hay and corn crops of $155 million. Most of this was in the southern tier and central Pennsylvania counties but is likely to include many more before the crop year ends. In addition, Secretary of Agriculture John Block is meeting with the governors of 28 states on September 2 in Chicago to review the problem nationally and explore the ideas for emergency assistance that may be needed. Right now, the only assistance available is low interest Farmers' Home Administration emergency loans going now for eight per cent. Most of the disaster assistance for crop failures was shifted to the Federal Crop Insurance Program two years ago but here in Pennsylvania only four per cent of the corn in the affected counties was covered.

Of course, no one knows for sure what the final effects will be from the weather and the PIK program but best guesses now are pegging feed prices for dairy farmers at a 25 per cent increase this fall and winter. And, as you've heard in this letter many times before, the second greatest impact after milk prices on milk production is food costs. Fred Hughes, Penn State University Extension farm management specialist, figures that such an expected rise in feed costs plus the dollar drop in milk prices could cut "income over feed costs" by $250 per cow. That's hard to take and a lot of dairymen, large and small, will have to make some major adjustments to survive. It is estimated that the average in Pennsylvania DHIA herds is already up to one pound of grain for 2.5 pounds of milk because of favorable feed price-milk price ratios in the past. That has provided much of the reason for our production increases that have been consistent nationally over the last 52 months.

Nature's way of bring milk production down may be more painful than man made methods but it may also be more effective. It certainly eliminates the wrangling between industry groups, legislators and tax payers but that will be no consolation in the months ahead when many producers will be struggling - harder than ever - for survival.

Second 50 Cents

On Tuesday, August 23, President Reagan vetoed Senate Resolution 149 so the starting date for the second 50 cent assessment on all milk will be September 1 rather than October 1. This makes the total deduction of one dollar on all milk but maintains the support price at $13.10 where it has been all year. The difference between the first and the second 50 cent deduction is that the second one is refundable to producers who reduce their milk production 8.4 per cent below their base. As explained in the last newsletter, the base period is from October 1980 to September 1982 and your base production will be the average of the two corresponding months for each year. For September it will be the average of September 1981 and September 1982. Because September is the last month of the marketing year a separate refund payment will be made for that month to those who apply. After that the refund payments will be made after six months or the end of March and a final adjusted payment after the end of September 1984.

You won't be able to make application for the September 1983 refund until you get your milk check in October. In the meantime, however, you could be digging out your milk check stubs for the base period and deciding if you want to participate in the program. If you do, you will have to take the initiative to apply for refunds because this is one time, I believe, that the county ASCS staff will not be beating the bushes for participation. They already have your money so it will be up to you to do what's necessary to get back the second 50 cents.

66 Per Cent Savings

With the total assessment now at a dollar a hundred the Commodity Credit Corporation hopes to collect $1.4 billion next year to offset two thirds of the $2.1 billion cost of the dairy price support program. That would bring the cost down to about $700 million compared to this year's cost of nearly $3 billion. This is the real attraction to Congress and the administration but it all hinges on how much participation producers provide. These predictions were made before the full impact of increasing grain prices hit the fan. It may be that participation by farmers would be involuntary because of higher grain prices and lower milk prices but either way the dairy price support program should cost less in 1984. Unless USDA resurrects the old Emergency Livestock Feed Program and sells grain at bargain prices to producers in disaster designated counties as they did in the past.

Participation

Speaking of participation, Friday, August 26, was the deadline for sending claim forms to the Pennsylvania Milk Marketing Board for producers owed money for milk shipped to Shep's Cheese Company and the participation was close to 100 per cent in this case even though it was the third request made by the PMMB. Compiling and auditing all the claims will take several weeks before final figures will be available on how many producers and how much money is involved. The information is needed not only for the bankruptcy proceedings but for any returns that may come to producers from the Security Fund or the Producers Settlement Fund. Not quite as high is the participation in the Ex Sheps' Producers Committee which is now up to about half of the Sheps shippers and still growing. The ESP Committee was organized largely through the efforts of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union and the Pennsylvania Grange to represent the producers at bankruptcy proceedings and to recover the money due for milk shipments made after July 25 the date the bankruptcy was filed. They have already obtained "ex officio" status on the creditors committee and expect to have a full membership as more producers participate. There's still time to join. Bill Sturges of Wellsboro is the chairman.

Thanks to DairyLea, Sheps producers have the 28 days normally provided under the law to find new markets for their milk and by August 31 when the DairyLea pickups were discontinued all suppliers found alternative markets. Thanks again to DairyLea for providing a cushion in the crisis and another example of co-ops rising to the occasion when producers are threatened.

Montgomery plans no-till day

NORRISTOWN — The Soil Conservation Service and Cooperative Extension Service of Montgomery County are hosting a no-till visitation day on Thursday. The tentative schedule includes visits to the following county farms:

10 to 11 a.m. — Arlin Halteman, Fields at Rt. 73 & Greenhill Road, Cedars. Crops include no-till soybeans after barley, no-till corn after barley and no-till timothy and alfalfa (tentative).

11 a.m. to noon — Bernard Stlemmer, Rt. 113 & Morris Road, Lederach; no-till corn after barley.

1 to 2 p.m. — Tom Nikerle Farm, off Rt. 73 on Neiffer Road, Obelisk; no-till corn after old hayland, no-till corn after alfalfa, no-till corn after corn, no-till corn after pasture.

2 to 3 p.m. — Merrill Mest, Keyser Road, Obelisk; no-till corn after timothy, no-till corn, no-till rye, no-till alfalfa.

Several types of no-till corn planters will be on display at the afternoon stops. The Montgomery County Conservation District is leasing its no-till drill out to farmers and will operate it at a farm near one of the fields on the visitation.

By-products offer lower feed costs for pork producers

NEWARK, DE — Pork producers are looking for ways to cut feed costs these days. Some are doing this by using cheaper grains like barley to replace some or all of the corn in hog rations. Some are also thinking about using food industry by-products.

"Many of these by-products are excellent sources of nutrients and offer an opportunity for reducing feed cost," says University of Delaware extension livestock specialist Dr. Ken Kephart. But, he warns, others are less practical. Here are some of the factors he says growers should consider before feeding such by-products.

— PALATABILITY. One of the first questions to ask is, will the hogs eat the by-product? Even if the material is available free of cost, it's of no value if the pigs leave it in the feeder.

— NUTRIENT CONTENT. What nutrients will the by-product provide? Does nutrient content vary? How much water does it contain?

— HANDLING. How will you get it from the source to the farm? And how will you get it to the pigs?

— COST. Free feed may get quite expensive when transportation costs are considered. This is especially true when it contains a lot of water.

— BACTERIAL CONTAMINATION. If it's an animal by-product, bacterial contamination is a potential problem. And daily feeding may be necessary to prevent spoilage.

— TOXINS. Find out why the material is being discarded as a by-product. Be sure there are no substances in it which may cause problems. For example, milk products may contain high levels of antibiotics.

— EFFECTS ON CARCASS QUALITY. Will feeding the product produce an oily carcass or one with an off odor?

— EFFECTS ON PERFORMANCE. How much of the by-product can you feed before performance is changed?

Bakery waste, liquid whey, waste fat, meat by-products and fruits and vegetables are some of the by-products usually fed to swine. Each has both advantages and disadvantages.

Bakery by-products, crackers, cookies, pretzels and potato chips, are probably the best kind available. They're very palatable, Kephart says. They provide limited amounts of protein but are high in energy — similar to that of corn. And they can be mixed in conventional rations with no major changes in feed handling. Most processors offer these by-products free of charge.

One disadvantage to consider is salt levels which could be a problem if they are used to replace more than 40 percent of the grain in a ration.

Liquid whey is available from many dairy processors because of its high drying cost. If the distance to the dairy is not excessive and a handling system can be developed, liquid whey can provide a high percentage of a hog's nutrient requirements, the specialist says. Recent studies have indicated that when pigs are offered whey instead of water, a ground corn ration fortified only with vitamins and minerals will supply all the nutrients they need. This eliminates the need for soybean meal.

One disadvantage is that this material is perishable and must be fed daily. Transportation and handling make it impractical for many swine operations to use whey.

Waste fat contains two and a quarter times the calories of either protein or carbohydrate, so it's an excellent energy source. Pigs consuming high fat rations usually have a better feed conversion and faster growth rate. However, if the oil is unsaturated, adding more than 10 to 15 percent to the ration will make the carcass oily. Oils also may turn rancid during storage. And if the fat is saturated, special equipment often is needed to incorporate it into the ration.

Meat by-products, unless they are cooked and dried, always bring with them the possibility of bacterial contamination, especially Salmonella, Kephart says. But they are high in protein, and any bone present, provided it's finely ground, will be a good source of calcium and phosphorus. Unfortunately, the bone content often varies, so mineral content varies as well.

In a few situations, fruits and vegetables such as bananas, potatoes or sweet potatoes can be successfully fed to pigs. All these materials have a low protein content and contain a lot of water.

Furthermore, potatoes first must be cooked to inactivate a poisonous substance, solanine.

"Food industry by-products can be a significant part of your feeding program," Kephart says. "But before you get into them in a big way, make sure you know all you can about the material that's available. Have it analyzed. Be sure it's practical for your operation. And use a little at first — on a limited number of large hogs."

Dairymen's District 4 to elect Representative

BALTIMORE, Md.—Dairymen, Inc. members in Frederick County, Maryland will cast their votes for a director/delegate Thursday, September 15. The election will be held in conjunction with the annual membership meeting of District 4 of the cooperative's Middle Atlantic Division, at the Walkersville Fire Hall beginning at 7 p.m.

Division President Fred G. Butler and Division Manager R. L. Strock will report on the operations of the cooperative, national legislative issues, and the sales and pricing outlook.

A director/delegate will be chosen to serve the 105 District 4 members for a three year term from 1983 to 1986. A director/delegate sits on the Division's board of directors and attends the corporate annual meeting as a voting delegate representing the Division. James E. Moser of Thurmont is the incumbent. Jesse I. Burall of Monrovia serves as the district's other director/delegate.

Field representatives for the district are Pete DeBaugh of Boonsboro, Cindy Rutter of Cockeysville, and Jay Waybright of Littlestown, Pa.

Dairy donations changed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture has transferred major activities of the federal program to donate government-owned surplus dairy products to needy people in foreign countries to the Agency for International Development, according to Under Secretary of Agriculture Daniel G. Amstutz.

The transfer does not affect the domestic dairy donation program.

Amstutz said the change will take advantage of AID's international capacity to administer the program. USDA will retain the responsibility for determining the types and quantities of dairy products and the level of funds available for payment for donated dairy products, processing, domestic transporting and overseas freight, where appropriate, to export the products, he said.

Authority for both domestic and foreign donations of dairy products is contained in Section 416 of the Agricultural Act of 1949. Since USDA signed the first agreement this year, donations of dairy products now total over 83,000 tons, going to 14 countries. Such donations have been made through foreign governments and public and nonprofit private humanitarian organizations.

Under provisions of the transfer, all new proposals for Section 416 agreements will be handled by AID's Bureau for Food for Peace and Voluntary Assistance, 320 21st St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20523.

Del. studying vegetable crop insurance

NEWARK, Del. — In the past, Delaware's vegetable industry has seen wide fluctuations in the resources committed to it. Cucumber and tomato acreages dropped in the 1960s and 70s because of increased labor costs and West Coast competition. Lima beans, which are grown without irrigation, have lost ground to corn and soybeans over time. Green peas, on the other hand, have gained acreage recently due to the increase in center pivot irrigation and the ability to double crop peas in a rotation under irrigation.

Thanks to mechanical harvesting, there's also been a turnaround in the production of some vegetables, says University of Delaware extension farm management specialist Don Tilmon. Cucumber acreage has rebounded from not enough to report in 1973 to 1,700 acres in 1981—higher than it was 30 years ago when production was thriving. Not many processing tomatoes were planted in 1981, but there appears to be a significant rise in the acreage of that crop as well—more than 1,000 acres in 1982.

Mechanical harvesting, short hauling distances (hence lower transportation costs than from competing production areas) and in the case of tomatoes, chemicals to promote uniform ripening, are all working to improve the competitive position of Delmarva's vegetable industry.

Something else which could significantly strengthen this industry would be the availability of federal crop insurance to reduce production risk for individual growers. "We believe that the reduction of risk through crop insurance could be a key factor in rejuvenating this industry," Tilmon says.

Using a list supplied by extension vegetable specialist Ed

Kee, earlier this summer the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service conducted a telephone survey in the state's two main vegetable growing counties—Kent and Sussex—to determine the crops most commonly grown or likely to be grown. (Vegetables produced in New Castle County are sold mainly through local roadside markets and U-pick operations, rather than wholesaled for fresh market use or processing.) Considerable lima beans (11,000 acres), green peas (8,000 acres) and sweet corn (3,000 acres) are produced in both counties. Cucumbers are grown mainly in Kent County (1,700 acres), while watermelons (2,100 acres) are raised almost exclusively in Sussex County. The most recent expansion in tomato production has been in Sussex County. Potatoes (5,200 acres) are primarily a Kent County crop.

Because of the interest shown by the growers surveyed, Tilmon and other University of Delaware extension personnel have undertaken a 10-month project with the aid of a Federal Crop Insurance Corporation grant for the purpose of collecting data on which to base insurance rates for the state's seven major vegetable crops. Individual producers in Kent and Sussex counties will be surveyed regarding (1) acres planted and harvested; (2) total harvested production (yield); (3) total marketed production; and (4) production practices employed.

The data will be collected by vegetable type for a 10-year period, or for the maximum number of years available. Hazards affecting yields and their frequency will be noted. All yields will be related to soil types, production practices employed and the occurrence of local hazards. This information will then be fed into a computer for instant access and annual update as insurance policies are in use.

Personnel to collect and record this data have been hired and are now working on the survey.

Lebanon, S. Annville Township, Lebanon County, Pa. From route 322 turn north onto route 934 and proceed 1.9 miles to farm on left or south off route 422 in Annville at traffic light 1.6 miles to farm on right.

This auction features one of the larger Lebanon County farms ever to be auctioned. Many unique features and unlimited possibilities are available through the auction of this very desirable property.

having a large living room with picture windows, cozy dining room with hardwood floor, beam ceiling and fireplace and kitchen with storage areas.
Home heated by oil hot water, has drilled well and on lot sewerage system.
Spring fed water supply in basement. Stream flowing past house and mature trees and shrubbery making this a very attractive setting.

Feature of the auction is an appx. 40' x 100' lodge type barn which is presently being used as an entertainment center. Main floor contains hardwood floors, knotty pine ceiling and 2 fireplaces. Basement area has a 3 car garage, storage and work area and rest rooms and shower facilities.
Outside limestone patio which adds to this fine building and its nice setting.

New 30' x 60' alum. open front livestock building with fenced coral and pasture. Gently rolling contoured farm land and pasture along with some wooded area. Tree lined driveway, lots of mature trees and shrubbery and other unmentioned particulars and features are a part of this lovely property. For a pictured brochure write or call auctioneer. Inspection by calling 717-273-1781. 10% down required on sale day with full terms and conditions given by attorney.

If in need of some real estate in the heart of Lebanon Valley with unlimited possibilities and potential with a zoning of R-1 residential but presently in full state of cultivation this is the property to inspect.

Boar Test Procedures

Top 50% of all boars weaned are placed on test at 10 to 12 weeks of age. Boars are taken off test when group average is approximately 210 lbs. and are ranked according to growth rate and backfat.

Both Crossbred & Purebred

First, take a look at these aggressive Checker Boars

BLACKLINE A Duroc x Hamp cross that's especially recommended for a herd which has already attained a high level of sow productivity. (Heavy York and/or Landrace breeding). These aggressive breeders give offspring ability to grow fast and yield good carcasses.

WHITELINE A Duroc x York cross that gives extra breeding power when there's a lot of black or red in your herd. Particularly suited to providing gilt replacements with fast growth and excellent reproduction.

M-LINE A York x Landrace cross that provides replacement gilts with the ability to farrow large litters, milk well and wean larger pigs.

HAMPSHIRE Complements red and white breeding by maximizing offspring vigor, reducing backfat, and providing good muscle.

DUROC Known for their ability to improve offspring growth rate and feed efficiency.

YORK Passes along a maternal ability that can result in larger, stronger litters.

LANDRACE A mother breed adapted to confinement that milks well and gives good pig survival.

AVERAGE WEIGHT OFF TEST 242.00 Lbs.

AVERAGE DAILY GAIN 2.05 Lbs.

PEN FEED EFFICIENCY 2.17 Lbs. Feed Conversion

This data includes the "cull" boars that are below 80 G.P.R.
They do not qualify as a Kleen Leen Checker Boar.
